THREE HURT IN FIVE-ALARM FIRE

Today

Energetic Men.
Beautiful Women.
Democracy and Opportunity.
Mexico Has Them.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

HERMOSILLO, Capital of Sonora, Mexico, Feb. 20.

THE INDIAN word hermosillo, means "little beauty," and His Excellency Francisco Elias, governor of this state, says it applies to the city and to each woman in it. On the streets, in stores, or at work in government offices you see beautiful young girls. There is not a bobbed head or a shaven neck among them. Their dark hair falls, naturally curly, loose on their shoulders and necks, sometimes fastened with a ribbon. Their eyelids are lowered demurely, but when a young rancher from California asks one of them a question, and she raises her eyes his carefully prepared Spanish words are driven from his mind.

THIS IS a beautiful old city, one of the most important and progressive in Mexico. The soil is so fertile that even with dry farming of wheat it yields 90 bushels of crop for one bushel of sown seed. A soil expert sent by the British government to seek land for corn-growing, reported that the area west of Hermosillo has the fertility of the Nile Valley.

THE STATE and federal governments concentrate on three things—education of children, building good roads, finding employment for the idle—while waiting for new schools. Gov. Elias leases the biggest private houses available, turning them into schools. Six hundred children go to school in one such building, 300 in another. Americans discuss an international highway from Canada, through Mexico to the Panama Canal, and perhaps on to Tierra Del Fuego. That is pleasant talk. But in the meanwhile Gov. Elias has gigantic machines scattered between Hermosillo and Nogales one hundred and seventy-five miles, and will have that road finished in a year, and less, if he can get more modern road machinery. Giant tractors and grading machines could be seen at work on the new highway south yesterday, hundreds of men with stump pullers and blasting material working ahead of the road machinery.

ALL THAT equipment is bought in the United States. Mexico is a good customer and a good friend of this country. Gov. Elias went to college and sent his boys to school in the United States. President Ortiz Rubio has two sons studying in the United States now. Twenty acres of new parks and playgrounds are now building in the heart of Hermosillo, with baseball and football fields. This morning arrived carloads of shrubs and bushes, "Himalayan cedars," slender cypress trees, rose bushes, etc., bought at Ontario, Cal.

WITHIN A YEAR Americans will drive from the border line at Nogales in five hours, thousands of them on the new road. Meanwhile the Southern Pacific, of Mexico, brings you here comfortably in Pullman cars. There are endless opportunities here for those able to see them. At Casita, where the train stops for a while, a familiar face is that of L. O. Skliris, who was in Washington during the war. He is now manager of a graphite mine at Moreno, in the state of Sonora. Born in Sparta, Greece, Mr. Skliris says Mexico is the place for a man with energy, and his graphite has "no grit in it" and comes out of the ground 75 per cent pure.

MANAGERS OF the International Telephone Company, and Mr. Gifford, head of the big company, would see something interesting along the Southern Pacific of Mexico tracks, at Casita and all the way back to Nogales. A telephone line is building from Nogales to Mexico City, but not by Americans, or in the old clumsy expensive way. An industrial Swedish genius, Ericcson, head of the Swedish Match Company, is building this line as he is building all over the earth. His telephone poles, no bigger around than your wrist, are made of steel. Three pieces joined together like a demountable fishing rod, on a base of concrete. Metal cross arms and cross arm braces carry the wires. Six men can do the work of 30.

HERMOSILLO AND other parts of Mexico, by the way, have an "Asiatic problem." Many of the most important stores in Hermosillo have fallen into the hands of Chinese merchants, active, always working efficiently. You read above a store the romantic sign "Laprim," "La Primavera" and beneath it the owner's name, "Quong Nam Lung." Mexicans do not lack respect for the Chinese or their ability, but they cannot compete with them and do not intend to endure the competition. Americans expressing the hope that Mexico will not allow her part of the North American continent to become Asiatic need not worry. Mexico says:

"We don't know just how the problem will be adjusted, but we shall adjust it."

THIS IS a country of genuine democracy. A man is a man and no more. No obsequiousness among Mexicans. The important thing in a man is what he has done. Mexico intends to maintain equality at home and freedom from outside interference. In the great hall of the city palace where the people

CHILD SAYS FAREWELL TO IRENE

Father, Donnie See Blonde For Last Time. 'I'm Ready To Die,' She Declares

By WALTON WOODS
Staff Correspondent.

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 20. — Five-year-old Donnie Shrader and his aged grandfather, Joseph Crawford, bade a final good-by to Irene Shrader in the Lawrence County Jail this afternoon as preparations were being made to transfer the blonde and W. Glenn Dague to Rockview.

The two are sentenced to die in the electric chair at 7 a. m., Monday, for the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul, of the State Highway Patrol.

The father of Irene, in tears, the child, oblivious, kissed the blonde gunwoman farewell and left the jail, to see her no more.

Sheriff Frank N. Johnston remained silent as to plans for removal of the pair to Rockview. Unusual activity about the jail and information from other sources indicated that they would be moved tonight, possibly to be taken to Pittsburgh by auto and

NO CANNED GOODS ON CITY LIST

February Food Contracts Omit Items Under Fire; Parke Bids Still High

The city's February food contracts were announced today, with the approval of Mayor Kline, but canned goods were conspicuous by their absence.

Presumably the canned goods were not bought because Director of Supplies B. L. Succop's method of buying them generally at the highest bids from the L. H. Parke Company, is under fire.

The bids, however, were announced. And they were much the same as in the past. Out of seven bids, the Parke Company was high on five.

The Parke Company bid highest on the one canned-goods contract let for February but, in contrast to many such bids of the past, it did not win the contract. The Parke Company bid $4.40 per case on four dozen cases of red salmon. F. W. Schuster, bidding $2.60, got the order.

ENOUGH FOR NEEDS

In the list of contracts sent to the Mayor, John Lang, Succop's chief clerk, who is acting during Succop's illness, explained there were enough canned goods at the city hospital at Mayview—and the

NEW '31 HIGHS FOR STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Wall Street displayed its enthusiasm in the stock market today by rushing in to buy U. S. Steel and other leading industrial and utility stocks at the best prices of the year to date. Allied Chemical moved up about 10 points and numerous active industrials advanced 1 to 3 points in the heaviest turnover of the week.

Transactions up to the noon hour totaled 1,800,000 shares, or at the rate of 4,500,000 shares for the full session. The gas and electric, power and other classes of utility shares moved up the line in a steady and consistent advance. Westinghouse again topped 100 and General Electric sold above 51.

With the steel and automobile industries turned definitely upward and a good increase in building contracts, Wall street put a more favorable construction on the business outlook. The big commission houses reported a good influx of buying orders from outside points, well distributed throughout the list. Stocks of the steel and copper companies encountered considerable opposition to a further advance in prices.

MORE GIFTS AID RELIEF FUND

The 400 members of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce who are soliciting funds from individuals and corporations for the Allegheny County Emergency Association to put into effect the Pittsburgh plan for stabilization of employment, will report today at a meeting in the chamber.

At the meeting of the operating committee of the association this morning, the importance of purchasing the materials and equipment from Allegheny County firms was emphasized. It will enable these firms to take back on their payrolls many of the present unemployed.

Among contributions received yesterday was a liberal donation from the Union Trust Company of Pittsburgh. This is in addition to the contribution from 100 per cent of the officers and employes of the company of more than one day's pay each.

Plans are advancing for the initiation Tuesday of the first joint project to provide work. More than 150 men will be needed Tuesday.

All the laborers are to be furnished and paid by the Emergency Association out of the fund now being raised. The city will provide tools and materials and will supervise the work.

FIREMEN IN DENSE SMOKE BATTLING THE SPECTACULAR FIRE IN NATIONAL LEAD BUILDING, RIVER AVE., THIS AFTERNOON

NORTH SIDE PLANT RAZED

Three Firemen Injured While Fighting Blaze; Spread Of Flames Prevented

Three firemen were injured and two workmen escaped unhurt as a five-alarm fire today called nearly all North Side fire companies to fight flames that destroyed the oil and paint-soaked storage building of the National Lead and Oil Company, 1376 River avenue.

Spread of the fire to the main structure and also to the adjacent buildings of the Lutz & Schramm Company was successfully fought as flames leaped high above the doomed structure and out of the windows on the fourth floor.

INJURED FIREMEN

The injured firemen, all treated at the scene, were:

A slight explosion preceded the fire, according to police, who interrogated two workmen of the Solomon & Co., junk dealers, who were scrapping old metal with a blow torch in the structure. The men, one Walter Harg, of 927 Pollmey street, fell from the first floor to the basemen as he sought to escape and crawled to safety through a basement window, and the other, Thomas S. Chadwick, of North avenue, jumped from a first floor window, police reported.

USED FOR STORAGE

Company officials said the storage building contained nothing of inflammable nature, being used for storing office records and empty barrels.

The building was formerly occupied by the Armstrong & McKelvey Paint Company. Fire shutters on the main building of the National Lead were closed as the flames gained headway. Firemen fought the blaze from the adjoining buildings of the Lutz & Schramm Company.

Hundreds of persons were attracted to the scene as the flames leaped high above the building and huge rolls of smoke spread over the district.

Grief Kills Prince's Faithful Servant

PAROLE, FINE IN BAT KILLING

William Hartlep, 55, former North Side park supervisor, because of his good reputation, will be paroled for two years in the baseball bat killing of George J. Nieberding, 16, of 616 Sherman avenue, Visiting Judge W. A. McConnell, of Beaver County, announced from the bench today.

Judge McConnell said:

"The boy was killed as a result of an intentional but unconsidered blow.

"Because of his good reputation we do not contemplate putting Hartlep in prison, but placing him on probation for two years and fining him $500, with the condition that he pay all costs, bills, including hospital and burial expenses, and $500 compensation to the boy's parents, with understanding that no civil suit for damages be filed against him."

The Nieberding boy died June 27, from a blow struck by Hartlep with a bat after he had stopped a ball game in West Park. Hartlep was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter.

HOLDUP VICTIM, BANDIT SHOT

While police today were checking hospitals for trace of a bandit believed wounded by a policeman during a drug store holdup attempt last night, hospital authorities reported that a man shot while battling a robber in another holdup was recovering.

The robber believed wounded fell, but escaped, in a gun battle with a policeman who interrupted the holdup of the store of J. C. McNulty, 1125 North Highland avenue, shortly before midnight.

Ford in Florida For Winter's Rest

He eluded newspapermen and hurried away to his estate, which adjoins that of his old crony, Thomas A. Edison, on the banks of the Caloosahatchee River.

Weizmann Declines Zionist Presidency

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Dr. Chaim Weizmann, former president of the World Zionist organization, told the London Jewish Times today on the eve of his departure for Palestine that he does not intend to be a candidate for the presidency at the forthcoming World Zionist Congress.

Rockview Denies Damage To Chair by Power Fire

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Officials of Rockview Penitentiary here branded as a "lie" reports published in some newspapers that the electric chair at the penitentiary had been damaged by fire. The deputy warden's office said:

"An electric transformer was burned out at the plant of the American Lime and Stone Company early this morning, but there was no fire at the penitentiary, and the electric chair was not damaged. The report that the chair was damaged is a lie."

Officials at the stone plant, eight miles from the prison, confirmed the report of the minor blaze which burned two electric poles and a transformer.

The transformer burned about 2 a. m. today, it was stated, but by 6 a. m. a new one had been installed. There was no damage of any consequence from the blaze.

As most of the convicts were asleep at 2 a. m., few knew anything of the occurrence.

An emergency power plant at Rockview would permit electrocutions to go forward as scheduled, even though the power supply from the West Penn system were cut off, officials said.

Gen. Butler on Way Here; Will Aid Unemployed

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Maj. Gen. Smedley D. Butler, before leaving here today for Pittsburgh where he speaks tomorrow night, announced that he would ask the Navy Department for an immediate leave of absence so that he might help swell the funds for the relief of the unemployed.

The fiery commander of the Marine Corps said that he would accept invitations to speak at any place in any city where admission is charged and will turn over half of his earnings to the committee on unemployed in Philadelphia.

The general reached this decision today after a member of the committee had appealed to him to do something on behalf of those out of work. No sooner had he made his decision than he was asked to speak at a luncheon of the committee here next Wednesday. He replied:

"Of course."

In two speeches here yesterday, the peppery Marine commander did not mention the Mussolini incident which resulted in his being ordered up for court-martial and his subsequent apology, but in his talks he referred to "jams" and "messes" and let his hearers make their own guesses.

GOVERNOR DISMISSES CROZIER

Rehabilitation Director in Labor Department Among Those Given Notices

By I. W. PRENDERGAST
State Correspondent

HARRISBURG, Feb. 20.—Ten appointments and an equal number of dismissals were announced today from the Governor's office. Listed among both categories were Pittsburghers.

William S. Crozier, of 3911 Dewey [illegible] North Side, who has been suspended to be let out for several weeks was one. He had served as director of rehabilitation in the Department of Labor and Industry at $5,000 a year.

Joseph T. Connelly, 5809 Hays street, [illegible] assistant was dismissed from the revenue department. He was sponsored some years ago by former Mayor William Magee and later by Max Leslie.

WOMAN DISMISSED

Mary T. Galiszewski, of 76 South Tenth street, South Side, from the Josiah G. Armstrong district, was dismissed from the Department of Labor and Industry. She had been stenographer.

Pittsburghers appointed were: Michael H. Kennedy, 266 Main street, a [illegible] officer; Dorothy G. Sorg, [illegible] Beech avenue, North Side, stenographer in the Department of Labor and Industry.

Luzerne County got some of the choice appointments. Mayor Ambrose Lancaster, of Pittston, succeeding to the membership of the Bureau of Industrial Relations.

George W. Eisenman, of Greensburg, was named special representative in the Revenue Department, at a salary of $4,500, while Adessa Liscomb, of Beaver Falls, was dismissed as executive secretary of the Welfare Department.

In a mysterious way, the bill creating two additional judges for Allegheny County appeared on the House calendar for next week, published today.

How the bill got out and who put it out were unrevealed. It was apparent only that the bill had gotten out of committee Wednesday.

Associates of Clinton Sowers, Philadelphia, a member of the Judiciary Special Committee where the bill had reposed since being sent from the Senate the previous week, denied reports that he had forced it out. Charles W. Studenmeyer, chairman of the committee, did not attend this week's session due to illness.

QUICK DISPOSAL POSSIBLE

Final passage of the bill can be had before Wednesday if the House agrees. It is assured first reading Monday night, and unless unexpected disagreement arises it will not be returned to committee.

The bill, sponsored by Senator James J. Coyne, Allegheny County, has had a swift flight through the Senate. Only last week the Allegheny County Bar Association, through Alexander W. Lindsay, legislative chairman, asked for a hearing on the bill. It will probably be granted this week.

Once it is passed the Governor must sign or veto it within 10 days. He can fill the positions created at his leisure if he approves the bill.

HARRIS URGES MOTHERS' AID

Senator Frank J. Harris outlined his mothers' pension measure introduced in the Legislature before the Mothers' Pension League luncheon today in the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The local meeting was in conjunction with several being held in the State today in support of the Harris measure. Attorney Leo Griffith presided. The Rev. Dr. Carl August Voss, president of the league, introduced the principal speaker. Others heard on the program included Mrs. Henrietta Spiro, chairman of the board of trustees, and Horace F. Baker, chairman of the state committee.

Two Doomed Slayers Ask Simple Meals

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Simple meals were requested today by Emory Stevens and William C. Adams, Mingo County slayers, as they spent their last hours in the death house at the state prison here awaiting death on the gallows tonight.

All Adams requested for his last meal this evening was grapes and oranges, cigars and cigarets. Stevens will have fried chicken with tomato sauce, scalloped potatoes, cold slaw, pie, milk and coffee.

Peace Broke Wilson, Says George Bernard Shaw

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw in his new book "What I Really Wrote About the War," says that if Woodrow Wilson had been assassinated at the climax of his popularity his fame today would equal Lincoln's.

Instead, he wrote, the "Strain of the Peace Broke Him," and Clemenceau "soon had the Fourteen Points in the wastebasket."

Shaw quotes his own writing to show that he forecast accurately the peace conference developments and the Locarno agreement.

The pamphlet, "Peace Conference Hints," written by him some time before the conference, could have saved statesmen from many pitfalls, he says.

In a chapter on "Joy Riding at the Front" Shaw repeats what he says an American major told him—that immediately after the American Army was placed under its own command "its lines of communication immediately jammed and became impassable for 48 hours."

LONG DRAWN-OUT EMERGENCY CASE

By Quin Hall

TO QUESTION PAIR

District Attorney John S. Powers, of Lawrence County, planned to question Irene and Dague before they were taken away, as to the story attributed to Dague that Tom Crawford, brother of Irene and their accomplice, was buried in a Wets Virginia ravine during their flight from the Paul killing.

Attorney Ben Jarrett paid his last visit to Irene and Dague today. He said Irene was unable to throw any light on the location of the Fort Worth (Tex.) pawnshop in the which the Spanish type revolver belonging to Dague was said to have been pawned.

From Johnstown came word that Attorney Percy Allen Rose had sent a last-minute request to Gov. Pinchot for a respite to permit the defense to find the revolver.

The contention is that the 38-caliber Spanish revolver owned by Dague was not the type gun used in killing Paul, according to testimony of a ballistic expert at the trial. The bore of the gun showed an opposite twist, the expert testified, according to Rose. Little hope was felt that the Governor would grant a reprieve.

The news of the Governor's refusal to intervene was received last night by Irene in the same calm manner in which she has accepted all other developments of the case. She said:

"Do not worry, father. I am ready to die. You have done all you can. Please take care of Donnie."

The convicted slayer of Corp. Brady Paul then lifted Donnie into her arms and kissed him goodby.

PLANS STILL SECRET

From Irene's cell Sheriff Johnston conducted Crawford to the cell of Dague, convicted with Irene in the slaying of the state highway patrolman.

The news was received calmly by Dague. Both appeared ready to die. The death sentence will be carried out Monday at Rockview Penitentiary.

After the trying visit Crawford and the relatives who accompanied him returned to the home of friends in North Mercer street.

The blonde and her sweetheart continue to contend they are innocent. After the reported admission yesterday that Tom Crawford, brother of Irene, was killed during the gun battle which resulted in Corp. Paul's death, it is believed that Dague might make a confession before his execution.

After having refused to see his wife and his two small children, Dague yesterday granted an audience to his family. For the children there was a farewell kiss, but for his wife there was only a handclasp. Mrs. Dague and her children then left immediately for their home in West Virginia.

GUN PLEA LAST HOPE

Dague, the former West Virginia Sunday School teacher, seeks solace in the Bible.

Upon his return to New Castle, Crawford announced that he had received courteous attention during his interview with the Governor. He said:

"The Governor is a fair man. I believe he would like to help us, but his hands are tied. I believe the Governor did the best he could under the circumstances."

KIN WILL BURY IRENE DAGUE

WHEELING, W. Va., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Arrangements for burial of Irene Shrader and W. Glenn Dague following their electrocution in Pennsylvania were completed today. The bodies will be brought here immediately and no person except members of the families will be permitted to see them. The families have asked for police protection.

The Rev. H. O. Teagarden, former pastor of the Sand Hill Methodist Episcopal Church, where Dague once taught a Sunday school class, will accompany Dague from New Castle to Rockview Penitentiary and then will claim the body for relatives. Mr. Teagarden will conduct private funeral services at a funeral home at Elm Grove.

The woman's body will be taken to another funeral home.

Mrs. Theresa Dague returned last night with her two children, Marlys, 7, and Delmar, 11, from New Castle, where they bade a last goodby yesterday to husband and father. She said:

"It doesn't matter all that Glenn has done. All I can think of now is that he's going to die and he's still my husband."

NEW REFUSES CABINET TALK DISCLOSURE

Declines to Tell Senate If Postal Lease Was Taken Up at Coolidge Meeting

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Postmaster General New refused today to tell the Senate committee investigating postal leases whether the St. Paul commercial station postoffice lease was discussed at a meeting of President Coolidge's cabinet. He said:

"I decline to testify to anything that took place in a Cabinet meeting."

Chairman Blaine asked:

Blaine's question referred to John H. Bartlett, first assistant postmaster general under New. New replied:

"Never there or anywhere else."

BARTLETT TESTIMONY

Bartlett had testified New attempted to blame him for the lease. He did not know whether it had been discussed by the Cabinet, however.

New reiterated today that Bartlett was familiar with the negotiations leading up to the lease. He said:

"If he thought I made a mistake it was his duty to tell me."

A grand jury investigated the lease and found evidences of fraud and recommended a full investigation. Blaine yesterday asserted there was "a growing chain of circumstances" to support a belief there was collusion to prevent a second grand jury inquiry.

LOWER RENTAL

The lease in question was executed to replace one already in effect. In return for relinquishing a cancellation clause, the government received a lower rental. New has testified this saved the Treasury $17,000.

Blaine read a letter from Director Lord, of the budget bureau, to New in October, 1926, reviewing the facts of the lease and recommending the government purchase the Commercial Station Building.

Under questioning, New said he did not believe he took any action to buy the building. He asked:

"What was I going to buy it with—marbles?"

Questioned by Blaine, New agreed he had not recommended condemnation of the property or appropriation of money for purchase of the building. He said he "informally" recommended construction of a new building.

RUTH ETTING . . . LOOKING INTO PITTSBURGH'S FOG TODAY

Patrolman William J. Milton was in the back room. A clerk and errand boy were being ordered into the rear room by two of the bandits, when their accomplice observed the patrolman and shot at him. Then the intruders ran for the street door, while the policeman fired at them. One of the robbers, apparently struck by a bullet, fell, but arose and was helped into an automobile by his accomplices. The car sped in the direction of Highland Park.

SHOT RESISTING BANDITS

Louis Levin, 43, of 6401 Forward avenue, was in Montefiore Hospital today with a bullet wound in the left cheek, a victim of two bandits he resisted when they attempted to rob him while he was placing his car in the garage at his home last night.

His condition was reported as fair today.

ROBBERY THWARTED

Caught after a chase in which two patrolmen fired shots, a man who said he was John Clancey, 35, of 606 Forbes street, was held today by McKees Rocks police in connection with the attempted robbery of the George Simchak confectionery, 205 Helen street, McKees Rocks, early today.

Driving a clerk and three customers into the prescription room of the J. W. Hyde, Jr., drug store at Grant avenue and North street, Bauerstown, near Millvale, four armed bandits stole $56 and a watch last night.

TEACHER LOSES WATCH

J. P. Swain, an instructor in Millvale Central High School, was robbed of his watch and $2. Charles J. Simon, a clerk, was robbed of $4, and $50 was taken from a cash till, according to a report to the State Highway Patrol.

FANS DISCUSSED BY RUTH ETTING

If theater patrons and radio listeners think the actress or songstress finds the male admirer leading in fan mail, Ruth Etting, star of stage and radio, today dispelled that illusion.

Women are the writers of her fan mail, the charming songstress declared upon her arrival at the William Penn Hotel today for a week's engagement here. The male representation is a minor number and college boys predominate. And most of them want photographs.

"Broadcasting means more care. On the stage you can cover up a mistake, a spoiled recording can be duplicated, but once the voice is in the 'mike,' the mistake is beyond recall."

Police Search Block, Recover Lost Jewels

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Policemen guarded a block bounded by four streets today while men crawled about on their hands and knees, peering here and there.

The block was the scene last night of a daring holdup which ended when a wounded gunman dropped his loot of $10,000 in the streets. Eighty policemen formed a deadline around the dropped gems and most of the diamonds were recovered.

Rupp, Ruler of Elks, Honored in Bay State

BOSTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Lawrence H. Rupp, of Allentown, Pa., grand exalted ruler of the Elks, was the guest of honor at a dinner and reception of the Massachusetts Elks' Association. Gov. Ely, a member of Westfield Lodge, lauded the order as: "To my mind the organization most nearly representing the true spirit and democracy of America."

HOOVER GETS BONUS BILL

Veto Held Sure; President To Study Measure Before Taking Action Next Week

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON,
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Although he has already expressed his disapproval of it rather vigorously, President Hoover does not plan to "fire" the soldiers' loan bill back at Congress in any precipitate manner, it was stated at the White House today.

While the expectation is general that a veto awaits the measure, it was said on Mr. Hoover's behalf that he would give the completed bill "careful consideration" and perhaps refer it to the Treasury for an opinion. This is the usual procedure for all bills having to do with federal financing.

MAY ACT NEXT WEEK

In any event, it was said to be unlikely that the President will act on the bill until next week.

The $700,000,000 measure, enacted by House and Senate with overwhelming majorities, today received the signatures of Vice President Curtis and Speaker Longworth. It was then sent to President Hoover.

Advocates of the bill showed little concern in the President's attitude, since they were assured both the House and Senate would enact the measure over a veto. The Senate passed the bill, 72 to 12, while the House previously approved it 363 to 39. It requires but a two-thirds majority of both branches to pass it over the presidential "no."

The President has the constitutional power to kill the bill by a pocket-veto, by failing to act upon it until after Congress adjourns at noon March 4. His advisers have announced he will either sign or veto is early next week, sending a vigorous message to Congress at the time. It was stated authoritatively he would not exercise his constitutional prerogative of a pocket veto, because 10 legislative days, exclusive of Sundays, will not have elapsed entirely before noon of March 4.

RESENTMENT SHOWN

There was deep resentment on Capitol Hill at the administration's attitude toward the bill. Many administration leaders joined with Insurgents and Democrats in indorsing the bill and protesting that the President was being misled in his belief its enactment would upset economic conditions.

RAIL HOLDINGS LAW URGED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Prompt enactment of a law to place railroad holding companies under the jurisdiction of the Interstate Commerce Commission was advocated to the House today by Chairman Parker, of its Interstate Commerce Committee.

The recommendation was made in a speech in connection with the submission of an exhaustive report on the investigation begun a year ago at the instance of the commission, which complained it was without power to prevent rail consolidations through holding companies.

Parker proposed an amendment to the interstate commerce act, suggesting that when it is passed "it should be made very clear that it does not give immunity to any company which before the effective date of the amendmemnt had acquired control of some railroad in violation of an existing statute."

Coolidge Sees Immense Benefit in 'Town Meeting'

NORTHAMPTON, Mass., Feb. 20.

To the Editor of the Sun-Telegraph:

One of our most beneficial institutions is the town meeting. Each springtime sees it flourish all over rural New England, from whence it spread to other parts of the nation. In this region it goes back to the cabin of the Mayflower, where before the final landing of the Pilgrims they adopted the compact which was the forerunner of our written constitutions. For more than 20 years the town meeting was the supreme legislative and judicial authority in the Plymouth colony.

Calvin Coolidge

No more effective instrument for demonstrating the principle of equality and liberty and teaching the art of self-government has been devised. When the people of a state who are qualified voters can meet together on a common footing in assemblies of moderate size and there, after due deliberation, choose their own magistrates, impose their own taxes and appropriate their own money they have provided themselves with the firmest foundation of government and the best guarantees of liberty. Such gatherings afford the finest training in the practical elements of citizenship. By placing both the power and responsibilitiy solely in their hands the town meeting demonstrates to the people that this is their country and their government.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.

CAPONE NAMED BY BARRISTER

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Federal agents today were investigating the explanation of W. Perkins Bull, K. C., wealthy English barrister, in which he said "sinister influences" caused his flight from Chicago Tuesday which resulted in an automobile smashup that nearly took his life.

In a hospital at Windsor, Ont., the King's councillor himself mentioned the name of "Scarface Al" Capone, Chicago gang lord, the federal men were told. The barrister implied that in Capone may be the key to the mystery of the "sinister influences."

In checking Bull's actions before his departure, investigators said they learned that he had been summoned to a fashionable resort here said to be operated by Ted Newberry, reputed Capone henchman. Federal men said they believe he was threatened there during an interview with two men.

Aged Squaw Trips Herself Under Lawyer's Fire

LAPSES INTO ENGLISH AT TRIAL

Testifying Against Lila Jimerson in Slaying, She Insisted on Interpreter

BUFFALO, N. Y., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Cross-examination of Nancy Bowen, aged Indian woman who is the state's star witness in the second trial of Lila Jimerson, Cayuga Indian, for the murder of Mrs. Clotilde Marchand last March, was resumed today.

It was this cross-examination by Thomas F. Rogers, of defense counsel, which late yesterday momentarily shattered Nancy's self-possession and caused her to lapse into hurried English, which she was not supposed to understand.

ADMITTED KILLING

Throughout the day, the silver-haired, plump old Indian woman had told in a quick, high-pitched voice, her story of the slaying of the wife of Henri Marchand, artist and intimate friend of Lila Jimerson, who once had posed as his model. She testified that Lila had told her that unless Mrs. Marchand, whom she called the "white witch," was slain, Nancy and all her people would die.

Without hesitation she admitted committing the actual murder, explaining the gruesome details of the crime without a break in her monotonous recital and answering questions of District Attorney Guy B. Moore promptly. All this time she spoke through an interpreter.

TRAPPED BY QUIZ

Then Mr. Rogers began his cross-examination and hurled a dozen question at Nancy in rapid order. Suddenly he asked:

"What was your husband's name?"

Without waiting to have the question translated, Nancy snapped in English:

"What do you want to know for? That's none of your business!"

Mr. Rogers attempted to take advantage of her momentary lapse, but Nancy recovered her composure immediately.

DU PONT'S WIFE DIES OF FUMES

WILMINGTON, Del., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Police said today they were satisfied the death of Mrs. Eugene E. du Pont, 45, wife of a director of the du Pont company, was due to monoxide gas generated by her automobile.

Mrs. du Pont, who was deeply interested in art, was found dead last night in her studio at the du Pont estate in Greenville, near here, by her husband. She had run her car into the garage, above which the studio is situated, but had neglected to shut off the motor. She was engaged in painting a chair when she was overcome.

Du Pont was almost overcome when he opened the garage door.

AUTO, TROLLEYS JAM; 1 SOUGHT

Two men were injured, a truck was reduced to a mass of junk, and a trolley car was derailed at Second avenue, near Lock No. 1 of the Monongahela River, when the truck was crushed between two trolley cars this morning.

Police are seeking Julius Yerchiver, of 5258 Second avenue, said to have been the driver of the truck which a Greenfield car operator says tried to pass him on the left and was caught between the car and another Greenfield trolley.

Cleveland to Open Air Races Aug. 29

CLEVELAND, O., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—L. W. Greve, president of the corporation to promote the 1931 national air races, has announced they will be held from August 29 through Labor Day, September 7. The event will be held here annually for five years.

CHAPLIN FLEES LONDON FANS

LONDON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Charlie Chaplin slipped out a side door of his hotel today and set off down Pall Mall for a quiet walk, incognito, so to speak.

Before he had gone 50 yards a street sweeper spied him, flung his hat in the air and cried:

"Wot cheer, Charlie, old boy."

Instinctively Chaplin waved back and in a moment he was the center of a crowd in the middle of Trafalgar Square. He escaped in a taxicab.

He had planned to escape the public gaze as soon as possible and stroll alone to scenes of his boyhood and later wander quietly around England. One of his first visits will take him to the drab Kennington district here, where he roamed in his urchin days. Chaplin hinted he might make a picture in England.

PROTECTION OF YOUNG STUDIED

Use of Preventive Medical Services by Parents Topic At Capital Conference

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Data gathered by the White House conference on child health and protection in 12 Pennsylvania cities, made public today, shows that the young children of Pittsburgh are better protected against ill health than those of any other city in the state.

Other cities covered in the survey are Philadelphia, Erie, Harrisburg, Johnstown, Allentown, Altoona, Wilkes-Barre, Bethlehem, Chester, Lancaster and York.

The purpose of the survey was to show to what extent preventive medical services are utilized by parents for benefit of their children under 6 years of age.

In Pittsburgh it was reported that 52 per cent of the children falling in the category mentioned had received health examinations, 11 per cent had received protective dental care, 12 per cent had been vaccinated against smallpox and 16 per cent immunized against diphtheria.

In Philadelphia only 42 per cent of the children had received health examinations, 8 per cent had been given some protective dental care, 28 per cent had been vaccinated and 27 per cent protected from diphtheria.

The survey was made in 146 cities in the country, and Pittsburgh ranked fifteenth in the list of cities of comparative size in health examinations, nineteenth in both vaccinations and protective dental care and twenty-first in the number of children immunized.

GENERAL STRIKE FACES SPAIN

MADRID, Spain, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Taken by surprise at the monarchist union, which has permitted formation of a government under Premier Admiral Juan Aznar y Cabanas, Socialists, Republicans and other radical elements were believed today to be marking time before renewing active opposition to the throne.

Although Spain continues tranquil, there were reports that the Socialist and Labor leaders were planning a general strike, withholding action temporarily in order to witness the governmental program in full swing. A meeting of the Socialists and General Workers' Union has been called for tomorrow to formulate a program.

Ministers said that elections would be called as soon as possible for municipal and provincial officials, those for the Cortes to follow.

Rain Falls for 63rd Day in Spanish City

SANTANDER, Spain, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Rain fell today in Santander, Biscayan port of Northern Spain, for the sixty-third consecutive day. It was mixed with snow and hail and provided thoroughly miserable weather for inhabitants of this district, who would like very much to see the sun shine again.

A terrific storm has raged for many hours at sea, and the movement of ships has been greatly impeded. Trains have been delayed and some are not arriving at their destination at all.

FEW IDLE HOURS FOR LILY PONS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—If you think it would be fun to be a Metropolitan Grand Opera star, listen to this:

Lily Pons, coloratura soprano discovery of the season, and the Metropolitan's most recent sensation, has the happiest, most carefree minutes of her day when she tends her canary.

Once that little chore is done she's into the routine of the day's work—rehearsals, rest, another rehearsal and more rest. She studies every day.

On the first of March the 29-year-old French songstress starts on a concert tour of eastern cities including Baltimore, Boston, Pittsburgh and Toronto. Her season with the Metropolitan terminates May 4. In May she is to sing at festivals at Chicago and Ann Arbor, Mich.

POPE THANKS WELL WISHERS

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Through the Vatican City radio station the Pope today thanked the thousands of persons all over the world who have sent him congratulatory messages in connection with his initial broadcast speeches on February 12.

The Pope did not speak personally, but a Vatican City representative, understood to have been Father Gianfrancheschi, director of the station, declared the Pontiff was most anxious to acknowledge every telegram and cable he received, and he has instructed his secretaries to that effect.

Station HVJ was "on the air" from 9:30 to 10 a. m. The program was not rebroadcast in the United States, but engineers of the National Broadcasting Company picked it up for test purposes and declared reception was quite clear.

NUMBER RACKET TO TRY WHEELS

While one leader in the "numbers" racket was expected back from the West today with three specially built wheels for his lottery, other Pittsburgh racketeers continued to eye the New York Curb Exchange totals and the Miami pari-mutuel payments as possible solutions to their present difficulties.

The operator returning with the wheels has been booking on the dice. He is expected to spin the wheels for a number until he finds a more satisfactory method. That may be the curb totals, it is said.

Regarded as one of three leaders of the racket in Pittsburgh, this man is known to have posted a $1,000 bet that the New York Clearing House figures again will be issued daily, beginning March 2.

Deny Making Search For Pawned Pistol

FORT WORTH, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Police last night said they had not been asked to search pawn shops for a pistol which Mrs. Irene Shrader, sentenced to die Monday in Pennsylvania, told her attorney she pawned here while she and W. Glenn Dague were fleeing arrest.

HIGH ALTITUDE ROUTS WALES

LA PAZ, Bolivia, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The Prince of Wales, oppressed by the high altitude of this mountain capital, hurried back today across the Andes to Antofagasta, Chile, after spending just seven and one-half hours in La Paz.

In that time he crowded an official reception at the executive palace where he and Gen. Blanco Galindo, president of the military junta, exchanged decorations, another reception at the town hall, a final reception at the British legation, and dinner with the president at the palace.

Both he and Prince George, although commenting that the trip from Cuzco, with its delightful mountain scenery and across Lake Titicaca had greatly impressed them, were obviously tired and oppressed by the rarified atmosphere here. They did not play golf at the La Paz links, the highest 18-hole course in the world.

Daughter of Congressman Elopes at Midnight

BALTIMORE, Md., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Thomas P. Littlepage, Jr., son of a prominent Washington attorney, and Miss Geraldine Floy Free, daughter of Representative Arthur M. Free, of the Eighth Congressional District of California, obtained a license late last night at Towson and were married about midnight.

The clerk of the court at Towson, in Baltimore County, was roused from his bed by the young couple to issue the license. The ceremony was performed in the parsonage of the Towson Baptist Church.

The license gave the bride's age as 20 and Littlepage's 23.

The couple have been engaged for months. Representative Free said when informed of the elopement and added they had his blessing.

Littlepage is a senior at George Washington University and will enter law school there next September.

Alma Rubens at Death's Door Through Doctor's Error in Drug

Betrayed by Man to Whom She Had Given Fortune To Supply Dope

By ALMA RUBENS.

CHAPTER XIX.

That same afternoon I was sitting in the living room, entertaining several women friends at tea, when, without warning, Ric burst into the room. He was attired in a magnificent toga and wore powdered curls, for a role in "Helen of Troy."

He looked gorgeous. There was no question about that. But I simply couldn't resist the temptation to make a dirty little dig at his egoism.

Thinking back over the time, I really believe I must have been unusually exhausted by the drugs that afternoon, although no other woman present was an addict. I followed up the insult by adding after I had walked up and placed my arms around his shoulders:

"Oh. You're all padded up, too. Aren't you?" Then I pointed out the huge lumps of padding on each shoulder.

Miss Rubens

Ric glared at me. You can't blame him much for that. Then he turned and rushed out, without saying a word. His face was livid and he trembled in his anger.

The other women tittered, and, much to my shame, I must confess that I enjoyed my husband's discomfiture.

At this time I seriously considered seeking an annulment of my marriage. My love for Ric was dying. But after thinking it over, I didn't dare to, because I was so afraid that it might leak out that I was using morphine.

That is the insidious thing about dope. Always one is laboring under the fear of something or other. Fear that some one will find out; fear that you will not be able to get the next day's supply; fear that your source may be shut off; a thousand fears, any one of which would be sufficient to drive a victim into insanity.

So I went East. I completed my picture and I returned.

Ric still had not the slightest suspicion that it was dope that was making me so nervous and irritable. Not for a moment did he think I was a confirmed drug addict. Neither did my mother. She thought it was my husband's lack of interest in our married life.

New Home

Soon after my return my mother bought me a beautiful six-room house at No. 1745 Wilton place.

Well, despite the gnawing at my vitals, I went along, buying a stick of furniture here, a piece there, all of good quality and mostly antiques, which I sent to our new home.

The second year of our married life drifted by in about the same manner. I was cold; he was indifferent. However, during this time, we took a "honeymoon" trip.

Throughout these first two years of our married life I had been getting my daily drug supplies from half a dozen physicians, including Dr. C., with whom I later had so much trouble. He accused me of stabbing him, but it wasn't so.

It was through Dr. C., incidentally, when he could no longer safely comply with my more and more frequent demands for dope prescriptions, that I was contacted with a federal agent, named M., of San Bernardino.

But that is getting ahead of my story. Ric and I were growing further and further apart. I didn't dare leave him and I felt he was growing suspicious of me.

An addict once told me that his greatest suffering during his futile battle against the habit came through his deadly fear of being found out. Of course, I wasn't an addict at that time, but his words came back to me time and again now that I had acquired the habit.

On many occasions I was sorely tempted to go to my mother and confess. Then I would cast aside the idea because I felt that this knowledge might kill her. The Lord knows she had had a hard enough time in her earlier life without adding this.

Then came the incident through which both mother and Ric became aware of my secret.

Wrong Drug!

Dr. C. was responsible.

He gave me a tube of hyocine, in mistake for morphine. I opened it and thought it was off color, but went ahead and fixed myself a one-half grain "shot," with trembling hands. That was my first of the day, and I was beset with deprivation pains, tearing at my body like long fanged wolves.

Inside of five minutes I knew something was wrong. Morphine usually works quickly, but never like that. My eyes blurred and I grew dizzy. I was convinced that I was going to die.

I rushed to the bathroom, seizing a pencil and a piece of paper from the dining room table on the way. Both my mother and Ric were away at the moment. I was in the house alone. I tried to write, but I was paralyzed and couldn't make a letter.

I remembered collapsing into a heap on the floor and frantically trying to crawl into my bedroom, adjoining the bathroom. Somehow, I got to my bedroom, tortured, raving, but how I got there I do not know. I lost consciousness. I seemed to float away.

Mother found me lying across the bed when she came in a little later. She called a doctor—our own family physician—and he couldn't diagnose my case. He called in other doctors and they couldn't, either.

They thought something was wrong with my eyes. They punctured the soles of my feet with needles on the third day of my unconsciousness, to see if my eyes would flicker.

Then, somehow or other, our family doctor thought of Dr. C., who had given me hyocine, and he immediately diagnosed the case correctly.

I was brought around to consciousness and Dr. C., not letting on that he had been regularly supplying me with drugs, informed my mother and my family doctor that he was "suspicious of my being an addict."

And this, mind you, after I had given him thousands of dollars in cash—two diamond bracelets and several other valuable pieces of jewelry when my money had run out.

My mother immediately told Ric. I was frightened to death at the consequences of this, but she insisted. And while Ric did many things to make me unhappy, I must give him credit for his kindly actions when he learned that his wife was a dope fiend!

He never once mentioned it, throughout the days I lay there recuperating from the effects of that dose of hyocine, so nearly fatal.

Eager for Cure

Even our family doctor admitted that it was necessary for me to have my daily dosage of morphine during this convalescent period, and he regularly attended me, counseling me at times—and always in the presence of my mother—as to the best measure to combat the evil when I got on my feet again.

I was eager to be cured. I knew their advice was right, but, in the queer frame of mind I was in then, I resented the fact that Ric did not discuss the subject. I wanted him to ask me to go some place for the cure.

And, strange as it may seem, his—I thought—very indifference caused me to fall in love with him all over again.

I wept in anguish for days. My mother tried to comfort me but it was futile. I fear that I had lost Ric for good, although for more than a year before that I would have welcomed his disappearance for all time.

There is no accounting for my whims and my loves, apparently. I just adored him, so tall, so handsome.

Occasionally, he would come into my room and sit on the edge of my bed. He'd stroke one of my hands. I would go into ecstasies. He'd peck me lightly on the cheek with his lips I'd be in heaven. I had rekindled our love. But never did he mention the dope.

Then came the time when I was able to be up and about. Our family doctor cut out my morphine injections and I was beginning to feel the terrible, gripping, deprivation pains again. I was driven frantic. On occasions I had the impulses of a maniac.

Half a dozen times I was on the verge of calling Dr. C., but each time I would hold myself back. I wanted to be cured. I hated myself. I loved my husband. I must get over the deadly habit for his sake. I was fighting hard. I would be braver. I would win!

Once my mind was made up—confused as it was, and suffering as I was—I packed a little bag, and without saying a word to anybody, I went to a Hollywood hospital.

More Leaders Indorse Job Plan

Additional indorsements of the Pittsburgh plan for stabilization of employment, as advanced by the Allegheny County Emergency Association, were receive today at association headquarters. Among the indorsements were these:

S. L. BASSETT, President, Penn General Supply Company: We are supporting the plan of the Allegheny County Emergency Association because we are convinced it is the best system in the entire United States to bring about community action. It relieves taxpayers of a burden. It relieves worthy people of the humiliation of receiving something for nothing. It avoids a dole system with all its evils. It gives employment to those in need of it. It will result in several millions of dollars of public work which would not otherwise be done.

CHARLES H. BUNTING, President, Bunting Stamp Company: I think this plan is a very good move in the right direction and will do much to get employment started on the upgrade. We long have needed something of this very nature, and now that we have it it is everyone's duty to support it.

GEORGE H. ALEXANDER, President, George H. Alexander & Co.: It is a practical working plan and as approved by those familiar in employment stabilization work. I believe it to be the best plan yet devised.

S. G. HARTMAN, Treasurer, South Penn Oil Company: Our president and his associates were impressed by the appeal of the Allegheny County Emergency Association for the aid of unemployed and therefore subscribed to it. We feel the plan will prove a sane way to help relieve a distressing situation.

JOHN F. CASEY, JR., Secretary, Swindell-Dressler Company: We think that the plan is going to help a great deal in stimulating the economic recovery of the Pittsburgh district. Its full success, however, depends upon the full co-operation of all employers in Allegheny County.

W. I. BICKFORD, Secretary-Treasurer, Iron City Electric Company: I am heartily in favor of this plan as opposed to giving charity to individuals who are perfectly willing to work. I believe it will have a generally beneficial influence on industry as a whole in this district.

A. K. RABE, President, Commercial Sash and Door Company: I believe the plan will re-establish confidence in business in the Pittsburgh district and will eventually aid in releasing capital for home-building operations.

G. S. LEHNER, Manager, Hotel Henry: It is better than any other plan I have studied. I think it will go far in stabilizing employment.

EUGENE HERZOG, President, Benswanger, Hast, Herzog: Speaking as an officer of this firm and as president of the Jewish Family Welfare, I feel that this idea of giving work in place of dole is the most practical, logical and sensible plan devised.

E. J. DEERE, Secretary-Treasurer, Iron City Heating Company: We are very much in favor of the plan. It is the most practical road to a normal labor situation and will bring us to normalcy quicker than any other plan because it deals exclusively in labor.

R. G. JENNINGS, President, E. H. Jennings Brothers Company: Our firm is very much in favor of the Emergency Association's employment stabilization plan. We believe it will accomplish all that is expected of it.

A. C. LEHMAN, President, Blaw-Knox Company: I have been very much in favor of the employment plan of the Emergency Association from the beginning. It is the only constructive plan in America. As long as the city and county can provide the materials and the citizens the funds the plan will remove from the class of charity those who do not want charity, and provide them with work, which they do want.

H. M. REED, President, Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company: We are thoroughly in accord with the plan. With the existing national depression in the middle of winter, it is up to all of us to take on our share of the responsibility and help in every way we can to relieve those in need on account of unemployment.

HAYS M. JUNKIN, President, Knox-Strouss & Bragdon Company: I feel that the work of the Emergency Association is a very constructive move and so good that it probably will be adopted by other communities.

G. C. GERWIG, President, Manchester Savings Bank and Trust Company: I am heartily in sympathy with the movement sponsored by the Allegheny County Emergency Association. It is commendable and practical.

F. C. PIERSON, Western Pennsylvania Manager, Prudential Life Insurance Company: The plan of the Allegheny County Emergency Association is a splendid one. If all citizens cooperate the purpose of the organization will be achieved.

WALTER ROSENBAUM, President Retail Merchants Association: The Pittsburgh Retail Merchants Association heartily indorses the stabilization plan and believes the entire community will enter into its spirit and assist to bring about the return of normal conditions here.

W. D. BOWERS, President, First National Bank of Swissvale: The plan is extremely logical and should go far in stabilizing employment throughout Allegheny County. It is practical because it stays away from charity and gives a man an opportunity to earn his own living.

ROY C. McKENNA, President, Vanadium-Alloys Steel Company: Mr. Edgar J. Kaufmann and the Allegheny County Emergency Association have, in my opinion, worked out a plan for providing employment which is workable and which is fair to all contributors.

JOHN W. SANDS, Vice President and Manager, Nufer-Cedar Corporation: The work stabilization plan of the Emergency Association has our full approval. We regard it as highly practical and greatly worthy of financial support.

JOHN B. WATSON, Secretary, C. A. Turner, Inc.: The "Pittsburgh plan" of solving the employment problem in Allegheny County has our full approval. It is certain to be effective and is a wise course to take.

LLOYD W. SMITH, President, Union National Bank: The Pittsburgh area faces its greatest opportunity for hastening the return of prosperity by putting men back to work under the plan of the Allegheny County Emergency Association. The immediate and wide support of the program will assure its early start.

REX FLINN, President, Booth & Flinn Co.: I think of this plan as everybody else does, that it is a most logical way of meeting the present situation. If it receives the co-operation due it, it is certain to bring about stabilization to a large extent.

HOWARD N. LAVENSON, of Lavenson, Alford & Hicks: I think it is the most sensible plan advanced for bringing about a return of employment normalcy. I feel confident it will work for immediate relief of the present situation.

EDWARD EILER, President, Edward Eiler Lumber Company: It is the best plan ever brought to my attention.

PAUL N. CRITCHLOW, of Brown and Critchlow Company: I think the plan is very good, better than any ordinary charitable contribution program.

WALLACE RUSSELL, Secretary, Standard Talking Machine Company: We are with the plan 100 per cent because it follows so closely a sane and sensible system. The Emergency Association is on the right track.

Canned Goods Off City's Monthly Food Order

Municipal Hospital and the Leech Farm—to care for immediate needs.

Here are the highest and lowest bids for canned goods which were not acted upon:

Three dozen cases of string beans: Parke Company, $6.65 per dozen cases; H. F. Berequist, $4.85.

Two dozen cans pineapple: Parke Company, $9.72; Marcus & Co., $9.

Four dozen cans tomatoes: Parke Company, $4.76; Fred Fichtel, $4.10.

"PARKE" QUALITY

Two dozen cans tomato puree: Parke Company, $4.60; P. W. Schuster, $2.75. For this contract the city specified "Parke quality or equal," the qualification which has been criticized.

Kidnes beans: Parke Company, $6.65; Fichtel, $4.70.

No caviar. Brussels sprouts or out-of-season strawberries were bought for the Mayview Hospital. These are the delicacies which Dr. James S. Hammers, superintendent of the hospital, bought for himself and his staff, at the city's expense, until Controller J. P. Kerr refused payment last June.

Since then Dr. Hammers has been buying them out of his own pocket, he said last night from Washington, where he is attending President Hoover's conference on hospitalization. Dr. Hammers explained he had served such foods to visitors, including city officials.

INQUIRY PROMISED

Mrs. Enoch Rauh, director of the Department of Welfare, promised to investigate the matter.

Meanwhile Mayor Kline's report on his secret investigation of the charges against Succop was awaited.

The report probably will be given Council today, in the face of a warning from John D. Houston of the James W. Houston Company that he will demand an open councilmanic hearing if the Mayor's report is "a whitewash." It was Houston's charges which precipitated this investigation.

Views on Marriage Gained in Sermons

Views of 100 young people on the qualities of an ideal husband and wife were obtained by the Rev. J. Norman Hunter, of the Avalon Presbyterian Church, in preparing a special series of sermons on marriage. His first sermon, last Sunday night, was on "Marriage." Subsequent topics are: February 22, "Courtship;" March 1, "Choosing a Husband;" March 8, "Choosing a Wife;" March 15, "Establishing a Home."

Violate Ordinance, Two Draw $100 Fine

Patricia Long, 22, and Mildred Adair, 25, both of 1708 Forbes street, were each fined $100 or 30 days in the workhouse on charges of violating a city ordinance, at a hearing in Morals Court this morning. They were arrested by Plainclothesmen Thomas Slavin and Thomas Delehanty at Sixth and Wylie avenues early this morning.

64 Cases Reported For City Quarantine

The City Health Department today reported the following new cases in quarantine: Scarlet fever, 3; diphtheria, 1; whooping cough, 4; measles, 20; chickenpox, 19; pneumonia, 16, and erysipelas, 1.

MASONS OPPOSE NICOLA SITE FOR HALL

Will Abandon Cathedral Plan If County Erects Building Nearby, Members Warn

Plans for the erection of a Scottish Rite Cathedral in Pittsburgh adjacent to Masonic Temple and Syria Mosque will be abandoned if the town hall is erected on the Nicola site, county commissioners were notified today.

The Masonic Fund Society, holding corporation for the Masonic Temple, and the Syria Improvement Association, holding corporation for the Shriners' Mosque, have both filed protests on the Nicola site for a Town Hall.

MAY ABANDON CATHEDRAL

The Masonic Fund Society, transmitting a resolution passed February 14, stated that the Masonic Fund Society contemplated the erection within the near future of a cathedral on part of its property, which plans will have to be abandoned, in the event that a Town Hall is erected as contemplated. No time had been set for the erection of the cathedral.

PROTEST SITE

James H. Lytle, chairman of the Syria Improvement Association, said:

"We are protesting the proposed site for the Town Hall because its proximity to our property will depreciate the value of our buildings. The board has directed our attorney to protest erection of the Town Hall so close to Syria Temple."

Joseph E. Lewis is chairman of the Masonic Fund Society for Allegheny County, owners of the Masonic Temple, opposite the Nicola site. According to Mr. Lytle, the society also will enter a protest.

Why Need Smedley Resign?

By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER

Hawaiian Legislature starts sixteenth session. Just callow youths.

Scarsdale couple engaged 51 years were married this week. This romance was really postponed by Henry Ford, as the happy young man was saving up to buy a hoss and carriage.

England has put the Mohawk signature on the Scrymegeour bill in spite of Lady Astor's fanciest dressed efforts.

Nancy was for this prohibition which would make England as dry as the United States.

And England cannot brew it that fast.

The royal commission is investigating the liquor problem on the tight little isle. Sir William Wayland painted a gloomish verbal picture of America under prohibition. Mere hearsay.

He says we are drinking more and under worse conditions than before. There's a preamble for your epitaph. But it's not that bad.

All you do is skin the back of your hand wrapping on rough doors and the back of your head coming out on rougher sidewalks.

It's the truth about the New York man who put a sign on his door saying "that his home was not a speakeasy. That didn't stop the nocturnal rappings and countersigns because he had to think up plausible reasons why it wasn't.

The boys wanted an explanation. They were entitled to it.

So far as liquor is concerned we are a testing ground for high-velocity recipes and terrific prescriptions. Now that the dentists have been allowed as much as the doctors, they are froced to X-ray hip pockets as well as teeth.

We will say one thing about England through the years. She has always given us the best she has.

"The first thing," amends Lady Astor, "is to get the liquor trade out of vested interests."

We don't carry it there. That's the second stage.

Scrymegeour is a Scotch prohibitionist from Dundee, a city of Forfarshire, noted for its jute and marmalade, a combination which is best when sold separately. Also for the bridge which is two miles long and 50 feet wide. Yet on Saturday night, many a bonnie lad from Dundee crosses the bridge with all the confidence and dexterity of walking on a slack wire.

At the last census there were a lot of human beings in Dundee, with or without Mr. Scrymegeour.

Youthful New Suits

With Scarf-Finished Jackets

$39.50

One way of proclaiming that you are young or have young ideas, is to wear one of the new short-jacket suits. And if its neckline is collarless and has a chic, self scarf, there'll be no mistaking it for anything but new.

Next-to-the-Last Saturday in the Furniture Sale

Only two more "family days" remain in the February Furniture Sale . . . for husbands and wives, prospective brides and grooms, all members of a family to shop together conveniently for new furniture. Our furniture stocks are primed for thorough inspection tomorrow . . . new pieces have replaced those which were sold at the beginning of the sale . . . displays of period furniture have been enlarged so that it will be impossible for anyone who views Horne's furniture tomorrow . . . and notes the special sale prices . . . not to become actively interested in home improvements.

Our plan of Deferred Payments allows you to make a reasonable down payment and take care of the balance over a period of months.

Tables in the February Sale

Chair-Side Table
$22.50

A walnut, round top table with graceful fluted legs and dainty beading.

The same style table in mahogany is also $22.50. In Hura wood, $27.50.

Lamp Table
$22.50

A mahogany table that would be in good taste in an 18th Century living room. The unique little railing is both decorative and useful.

Occasional Table
$39.50

A smart little table that looks well in a living room, dining room or hall. An ample drawer and two drop leaves add to its usefulness. Mahogany or walnut.

Women's Jacket Frocks

of Dark Washable Silks

$16.75

These costumes come as companions to the very successful "Sunshine Corner" dresses of dark washable silks. Like the dresses, they are of pure-dye silks, which give no hint by their appearance that they can be tubbed as easily as cotton.

The costumes have sleeveless frocks which may be worn without the jackets. Of attractive prints in shades of blue to harmonize with the blue jackets, in brown to go with the brown jackets, and in black to match the black ones.

To be had in all sizes, 34 to 42.

Girls' Silk Dresses

$8.75

Dresses for almost any occasion on a schoolgirl's calendar . . . in a gay assortment of colors that will brighten winter wardrobes. Popular plaids and roman stripes with neat collars, pleats or flares—and plain-color silk crepes with tiny lace frills, georgette collars, bow trims. Long or short sleeves—in sizes 6 to 14 years.

Worsted Cuff Knicker Suits

What a good-looking suit—of such fine woolens—can be bought in the Boys' Shop for only $13.75!

Of fancy mixtures in tans, browns, and grays — and plain blue cheviots — with elastic-ribbed knitted cuffs at the knees, that boys like because they stay up without buckles. Two pairs of trousers. Sizes 8 to 18 years.

"Prep" Suits

Two-Trouser "Prep" Suits—exceptionally well-fitted, carefully tailored suits of smooth-finish woolens in browns and oxford grays—herringbones and tweed mixtures. With two pairs long trousers. Sizes 15 to 20 years, $20.

CANADA'S AUTO TAX CUT HAILED

WINDSOR, Ont., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Gratification at the action of Canada in setting the discount rate at 20 per cent on motor cars entering Canada from the United States was expressed by leaders in the industry.

Malcolm G. Campbell, president of the Essex West Conservative Association, said:

"It will stimulate the motor industry and greatly accelerate auto sales throughout Canada. It means more employment to many border people."

John D. Mansfield, president of the Chrysler Motor Corporation of Canada, Ltd., said:

"It puts a totally different face on the automobile situation. It will have a big beneficial effect on employment. Because it applies to high-priced cars and to all makes, it is particularly pleasing."

Ruling of Court Makes Marital Ties Uncertain

RAYMONDVILLE, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Numerous residents of this section were wondering whether they are married and, if so, to whom.

The Court of Civil Appeals at San Antonio held the Civil District Court of Judge A. M. Kent without authority to try divorce cases. Since the creation of the court here it has granted a number of divorces and in several cases one or both of the persons divorced have remarried.

Sheppard Denies Seeking Presidency

VICTORIA, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—United States Senator Morris Sheppard, of Texas, co-author of the Eighteenth Amendment said he is not a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1932. The Senator made the statement in a letter to Leopold Morris, editor of the Victoria Advocate.

HIT-RUN DRIVER SENTENCED

Sentence of three years to the workhouse and a fine of $300 was pronounced on James Crenshaw, Negro, 22, of Castle Shannon, by Visiting Judge William A. McConnell, of Beaver County, following his conviction in Criminal Court of a charge of failing to stop and render assistance after his automobile had struck Alexander Grech, 1814 Enoch street.

The defendant had denied he was driving the car at the time of the accident, declaring he had stopped in a restaurant and that another Negro, whose name he could not remember, was operating the machine.

Anthony Thomas, 21, of Hamilton avenue, was paroled for 15 months by Judge George V. Moore in Criminal Court after he pleaded guilty to involuntary manslaughter in connection with the death of Lena Gardone, 27, of 1021 Mohler street, September 1. An automobile in which she was riding with Samuel Gardone was struck by a car driven by Thomas Woods, and she died the next day from internal injuries.

LECTURER SEES WORLD ILLNESS

Speaking last night at the first mid-week Lenten service in St. Paul's Cathedral, Fifth Avenue and Craig street, the Rev. John A. McClorey, lecturer and writer, from Detroit University said:

"The world of today is sore in need. God looks down upon it from heaven, grieving at its condition, loving it, able and willing to deliver it, and knowing the best means of effecting its cure. But up to the present moment, the world as a whole has not accepted his ministrations. If it continues in its spirit of self-sufficiency, who can say that it will not be beaten to the ground and not a stone of modern civilization will be left upon a stone.

"And, first of all, it would be a capital mistake to take the view that the world is not gravely sick at the present time. It seems to me that we are in a condition parallel to the disolution of the Roman Empire.

"No good can be done in the present predicament by throwing all the responsibility for our distress on one party, when the other is equally to blame. An unfair distribution of censure would only serve the purpose of implanting animosity in the hearts of those that are taken to task, and of confirming the equally guilty in their iniquity. The unjust rich, as well as the unjust poor, are driving us toward the precipice, and only a fool will say: 'All is well; we are not rushing toward the precipice; indeed there is no precipice'."

Islam Grotto Crowns Queen at Radio Revue

Jane Mulligan, of 209 North Dallas avenue, East End, was chosen Personality Queen in Islam Grotto's personality contest at the Grotto Radio Revue in Carnegie Hall last night. Miss Mulligan, selected from more than 100 girls, was awarded an automobile for a prize. Miss Mulligan is employed by the Reliance Life Insurance Company.

Freda Lenz, of 2906 Zephyr street, Sheraden, was given a diamond ring as second prize. Marion Johanns, of 520 Lincoln avenue, received a wrist watch for the third prize award.

Pitt Frat Mothers Hold Benefit Bridge

The Mothers' Club of Theta Delta Psi Fraternity on the University of Pittsburgh campus, held a benefit bridge yesterday at the chapter house, 151 North Dithridge street. About 80 guests attended. The bridge was under the direction of Mrs. Howard Neely, president of the club.

Jury Views Land Without Waiting For Orders

BUTLER, Pa., Feb. 20.—(AP)—A jury played "hookey" at a damage suit trial here.

Upon objection by the defense to a motion that the jurors be taken to view property involved in the case, the jury was instructed to retire. It retired—and then some.

While the defense argued that the weather was too bad to permit the inspection, the jurors walked out and went to view the premises in question. When a bailiff was sent to the room where the jurors were supposedly closeted he found it empty.

RIVER UP, DAM WICKETS DOWN

For the first time in 300 days wicket dams in the Ohio River were lowered today as the stage registered 14.2 feet at the Point.

This is the longest period wickets have remained up since the dams were constructed, some of them 25 years ago, according to Weather Observer W. S. Brotzman. The longest previous period was 213 days in 1908. Prospect of continued snow or rain, he said, indicated the present stage would be maintained for some time.

Heavy snow blanketed the mountains today and made traffic difficult. Six to eight inches were reported on William Penn highway over Cresson Mountain, and 10 to 12 inches on the Bald Eagle Valley route between Altoona and Bellefonte. The Lincoln highway was not seriously affected except for thin layers of ice on the mountain tops.

SCOUTS TO GET LOG CABIN

Plans for the erection of a log cabin have been announced by Boy Scout Troop No. 32. The cabin, which will house 40 boys, will be built at Guyasuta Scout reservation, near Aspinwall.

The construction of the cabin has been made possible through the generosity of a few friends of Cavalry Episcopal Church, Shady avenue, with which Troop 32 is affiliated. R. Gordon Schell is scoutmaster.

Free 83 Students In Frat House Raids

ANN ARBOR, Mich., Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Police today dismissed the 83 youths who were involved in the raids on five fraternity houses on the University of Michigan campus here.

SURVEY ROUTE OF LAKE CANAL

Economic survey of the Pittsburgh-Ashtabula route of the Lake Erie-Ohio River canal will be undertaken by the Pittsburgh-Youngstown "contact" committee of business men as its next step to promote the waterway project.

Definite action was postponed at the committee meeting yesterday in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce, however, pending the possible re-establishing of the canal board by Gov. Gifford Pinchot, appointments to which are expected to be made shortly. Efforts will be made to obtain a state appropriation to cover expenses of the survey.

Chairman Alexander W. Dann outlined the need of the survey. He cited the necessity of preparing figures of the possible tonnage and earnings of the canal to be submitted to the U. S. Army Engineers in the latters' consideration of the project.

TERM FOR FAKE CASH PASSER

Sebastino Passalacqua, alias Joseph Paro, of New York, was sentenced by Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker to serve two years in the Atlanta penitentiary when he pleaded guilty of passing counterfeit Federal Reserve Bank notes last May on merchants in Cambria County.

Sam Leone and John Dispposito, co-defendants, were convicted last December, each receiving a two-year sentence. Angelo Perrago, another defendant, who testified for the government, was paroled for two years.

Knights of Columbus Annual Ball April 8

The Pittsburgh Chapter of the Knights of Columbus has chosen April 8 for the date of its annual ball, which has for 25 years been the largest spring social event in Knights of Columbus circles in Western Pennsvivania. Lawrence O'Toole, grand knight of Chartiers Council, has been appointed to head the committee.

Los Angeles Proves Airship Necessity

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—The Navy dirigible Los Angeles "definitely proved," during its maneuvers off Panama, the necessity for the development and maintenance for lighter-than-air craft as a part of naval defense, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aviation David S. Ingalls wirelessed the Navy Department today.

$35,000 DAMAGE ASKED IN SUITS

A suit against the Pennsylvania Railroad, seeking to recover $25,000 damages for personal injuries when, he says, his truck was struck by a train, was filed in Common Pleas Court by William A. DeHaven, of Commodore, Indiana County. The suit alleged that the collision occurred June 3, 1929, on the Simpson crossing, Perry highway, near Mercer, and that he was prevented from having a view of the railroad tracks by cars standing near the crossing.

The Pittsburgh Equitable Meter Company was named defendant in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court by Ferdinand Einstein, of Washington, D. C., who asked $10,000 damages for injuries in an alleged collision between a truck of the meter company and a truck in which he was a passenger November 23, 1929, at Rosedale and Susquehanna streets.

JUDGE REFUSES 'EASY' DIVORCE

Judge Harry H. Rowand, of Common Pleas Court, in refusing a divorce to Harvey M. Keiper, 524 Mountview place, a salesman for the Allegheny County Memorial Park, who sought a divorce from Mrs. Nora M. Keiper, of Brooklawn, N. J., on the grounds of desertion, said:

"Our conclusion is that he did not care for his wife's presence and companionship, and it is certainly not the policy of the courts of this commonwealth to permit divorces to be so easily obtained."

They were married May 1, 1918, and lived in Philadelphia and Pottsville. Keiper testified that in 1925, when he was working in Atlantic City, he met his wife there and she told him she was through with him, as she heard he had another girl. He said he wrote her two letters afterwards, but never heard from her. He admitted he made no effort at a reconciliation when they met in Atlantic City.

Mrs. Keiper did not contest the suit.

TRUCK FUMES KILL OWNER

Seated at the wheel of a truck in his garage in Coverdale, O. G. Sullivan, 56, was found dead today, by his wife. The motor was running and a preliminary report to the morgue indicated that carbon monoxide fumes had suffocated Sullivan, who operated a hauling business. Morgue officials believe that he had encountered difficulty warming up the motor.

Will Leaves $200 To Estranged Wife

Real Estate

According to the report of C. C. C. Stotler, secretary of The Title Guaranty Company, 347 mortgages totaling $1,567,557.50 were placed on record from February 13 to and including February 18. Twenty-four of these were purchase-money mortgages and amounted to $117,303.50. Mortgages totaling 323 and valued at $1,450,254 were straight mortgages. One hundred and nine of the straight mortgages were to corporations, 134 to building and loan associations and 80 to individuals.

The Penn State Savings and Loan Association has sold to Otto Lindner a three-story brick and stone house at 3612 Dawson street. Lindner gave in part payment a brick and shingle home at 4203 Bryn Mawr road. The Lawton Real Estate Company were the brokers. The total consideration was $20,000.

The J. H. Aronson Company, downtown brokers, has sold for Adolph Klein to Mary Haddad the three-story brick building at 1716 Locust street, First Ward, for $5,800. The purchaser will occupy the property as a home.

The Stevenson-Williams Company, South Hills realtors, announce the appointment of Herbert B. Jones, formerly of the Steel City Sheet and Tin Plate Company, of Pittsburgh, and William R. Morgan, formerly of the Rieck-McJunkin Dairy Company, as salesmen.

YOST CLINGS TO HIGH POWER PLAN

WE NOW PRESENT

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Radio Editor.

The second Yost report opposing the granting of 50,000-watt power to 16 clear channel stations came as a surprise to the Radio Commission yesterday.

Only a few weeks ago Chief Examiner Yost had recommended higher power and the radio pedagogues sent him back to class with his books. In a polite way they asked Mr. Yost to study the situation for a better way out.

Result: The undaunted old fox of the Mt. Vernon Ave. nearly the same report, except that he made first, second and third choices for 50,000 and 25,000-watt assignments.

The report has no direct bearing on Pittsburgh stations, but it does affect directly the Pittsburgh radio audience. Higher power on clear channel stations means a much wider and more diversified selection of programs.

In the ante-bellum way the commission doubtless will take several weeks before announcing disposition of the Yost report.

DO YOU KNOW—

THAT good singers like Harriet Lee receive $100 for three solos on the network?

THAT there is not a man over 20 in Tubby Flint's Orchestra (WJAS) and that they've been together five years? Organized when pupils at Langley High School.

THAT the crackle-proof paper submitted by the Department of Commerce for broadcasting manuscript was turned down by the NBC in a special audition last night?

THAT Francis Owen of WJAS once was a lighting expert for movie concerns in Hollywood?

THAT Frank Singiser, the announcer in Col. Goodbody's Sun Dial, is the musical director of the Mutual Broadcasting System?

THAT Adrian Cooper and KQV have a "real thing" in the "30-Minute Minstrels."

THAT Senator Clarence C. Dill, author of the first Radio Bill, speaks over WJAS at 2:15 tomorrow.

THAT Ray Knight as m. c. of the Eskimos Night Club of the Arctic wears a coal black wing collar to top off the white fur-covered full dress suit he wears at the broadcast of this program over WEAF-WCAE every Friday night at 9?

THAT the Sun-Telegraph is the only Pittsburgh newspaper with membership in the National Association of Radio Editors? This organization, as Kaltenborn likes to say, is a choice of members admitting only the most competent writers in the leading cities.

THAT the idea for the Pope's broadcast originated here? It was the Sun-Telegraph's suggestion and was planned first via KDKA and WSXK. When the scope of the broadcast grew it was taken up by the Hearst Radio Service in New York.

THAT Ross McDonald, of old WJAS fame, is to be a featured star on the Majestic Night Club program over KDKA? A wonderful fellow, Brian.

TODAY'S TID BIT

Billy Jones and Ernie Hare gave us one of their best jokes at Carnegie Music Hall.

Billy asked Ernie if he wanted to buy stock in the "Rest Well Cemetery Corporation."

The LOUDSPEAKER

By LOUIS REID

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—One of the first duties of television when it comes—and have you any further news of its approach, Mr. Sarnoff?—will be to restore the American phenomenon, the parade, to its former glory.

The sharp-edged heels of sophistication, the expanding lure of the nineteenth hole and the concrete highway and the rebelliousness of shopkeepers along the line of march have dimmed in late years much of the parade's oldtime appeal. Television should revive it.

It was once a custom for radio prophets when called upon for television predictions to declare that "it is five years away." Today they don't take refuge behind a definite period. Practical television to them is vaguely in the future.

Metropolitan radio stations have glorified microphonically every colorful phase of New York life save that of the midnight sailing jamborees of the ocean liners. They neglect them with a persistence that defies understanding.

Nor has any microphone yet been pointed to the lips of Al Capone. Good newspaper copy, Capone. But apparently he is not good broadcasting copy. Yet, I imagine Capone can give as good a law-and-order observance talk as anybody in the land.

Practically every class of manufacturer is now sponsoring radio programs with the exception of that concerned with the production of musical instruments and megaphones.

Stories of old songs are passing more and more through the presses. It's about time. They make good reading. They offer an interesting picture of the American panorama . . . Broadcasters no longer hesitate to announce track meets. If a meet can be made exciting on the air—and several have been—there is no form of sports that defies the microphone . . . The most somber of all programs are those offered by Russian violinists and balalaika thumpers . . . And now visitors to the more pretentious movie basilicas are to see as well as hear the Russian radio program called "Around the Samovar" . . . It has been an eternity since the expression "guest announcer" has been aired. And can you remember when you last heard Grover Whalen?

No one has as yet offered an imitation of Ogden Nash's rhyming style on the radio . . . The only poet heard regularly on the loudspeaker is Edgar A. Guest, of Detroit . . . Of all the dance bandmen who worship at the shrine of jazz, Ben Bernie takes himself the least seriously. He still refers to himself as "the old maestro." One of the best of commercially sponsored musical periods on the air is that known as the Household Program on the NBC. And it is the most free of ballyhoo.

While You Sleep!

When a headachy, bilious, or a gassy condition tells that bowels need help, there's nothing like cascara. Doctors say this marvelous substance actually strengthens bowel muscles. That's why candy Cascarets bring constipation sufferers lasting relief. A Cascaret contains cascara in its most palatable form. No griping; no discomfort or sickening effects when you use Cascarets. Just quick, sure help for sluggish bowels. Both upper and lower bowels are cleansed. Coated tongue is soon cleared; breath sweetened; eyes brightened; the whole system benefits from a candy Cascaret. Try one tonight and see for yourself!

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Grown-Ups and Children Attend Junior League's 'Blue Bird' Premiere

The Junior League's presentation of Macterlinck's immortal "Blue Bird" yesterday afternoon in the Nixon Theater was a decided success, and will be more so this afternoon and tomorrow morning.

And in the audience was Miss Helenka Adamowska, a member of the Boston Junior League and director of the children's theater bureau of the National Association of Junior Leagues of America who as I told you before, has been influential in instituting the idea of the little play. She is the guest of the Joseph M. Schoonovers of Kinsman road, until tonight.

There were lots of children, even very tiny ones, and a great many grown-ups as you may well suppose. I saw Helen Leary, president of the league, wearing a beige jersey sport suit with a beige and black cloche, and a black caracul coat. Mrs. William L. Jones I noticed in the audience, wearing green crepe with lingerie touches, a green turban and mink coat. Louise Reed chose black crepe and a brown caracul coat.

Mrs. J. Henry O'Neil wore black crepe and a black caracul coat and Mrs. J. Jackson Bissell also chose black crepe for her afternoon dress with a sealskin coat. I caught a glimpse of Mrs. Herbert A. May with Mrs. Felix B. Smouton before the play. Mrs. Gordon King arrived late, wearing a frock of pistachio green georgette and a black broadcloth coat. Mrs. George Fabel Downey wore an ensemble of dark green bouclet with a black felt hat and chinchilla coat.

Black Is Popular

Mrs. T. Howe Nimick, wearing a black crepe ensemble, accompanied her young daughter, Kathleen, who was in the play. Mrs. Frances Burke Rodgers and Mrs. James Scott Burke had in their box Livingston Rodgers and James Francis Burke II, and James Scott Burke. Mrs. Lawrence Blair wore green tweed. With her were Susan Hays and Lawrence and Church Blair.

I caught a glimpse of Mrs. James I. Marsh, too, wearing a black knitted frock with a black hat. Mrs. Thomas Orr was there with her young daughter, Peggy, who was in the play, and Judson Scribner, who was also in the play.

Mrs. Samuel Hartwell, Jr., arrived with her two young daughters, Caroline and Eleanor, who appeared in the "Land of the Future" as did James J. Turner III, who arrived with his mother, Mrs. James J. Turner, Jr.

Children In Play

Mary Carroll chose a brown ensemble and her mother, Mrs. Walter Carroll, chose heliotrope crepe. Mrs. Frederick I. Merrick was regal in black crepe. Mrs. Charles Painter, Jr., was with her daughter, Alice, who was in the play, and I noticed Mrs. William Lloyd Standish III wearing brown tweed with a matching turban.

Mrs. Wallace Hurtte Rowe, Jr., chose a frock of black and white tweed and Mrs. Peter Williams appeared in a wood brown wool ensemble. Mrs. J. O. Dawson Painter was there with her small daughter, Priscilla, and Mrs. David Craig was with her daughter, Ann. Mrs. John Buchanan was there too.

Dramatically, yesterday was a notable day for Pittsburgh society folks. For after the premiere of the "Blue Bird" in the afternoon there was the Stage and Play Society program last night in the Twentieth Century Club. A group of Sewickley Cot Club players gave "The Kite," and Stage and Play members appeared in "Squaring the Triangle" and "Seven Women."

Cot Club Players

Up from Greensburg was Mrs. Arthur C. Martin in embroidered blue chiffon. Mrs. Herbert DuPuy in black lace arrived with her daughter, Mrs. Frederic Ickes Merrick, also in black. And I saw Wilhelmina Balken in black chiffon, La Salle Dorrance, Helen Pendleton in yellow satin, Mary Black in a rose cerise wrap over a black chiffon gown, and Virginia Johnston.

Mrs. Henry Chalfant was there and Miss Isabella Chalfant. Mrs. Mortimer Miller and her daughter, Mrs. Roy A. Hunt, Mrs. William Maclay Hall was in powder blue chiffon, Mrs. Dudley Ligget in black chiffon, Mrs. Simon T. Patterson in turquoise blue chiffon and Mrs. Kenneth Jennings was in blue chiffon, too.

Mrs. Wilmer M. Jacoby, who was taking tickets as usual, chose a gown of jonquil chiffon. Mrs. Carol Fitzhugh was in black lace, Mrs. William Sang in black, and her daughter, Neil, in cerise satin.

Others there were Mrs. Stanislaus Sutton in black velvet, Mrs. Elizabeth Vermorcken in black chiffon and jet, Mrs. Douglas Stewart in mulberry chiffon and Mrs. John W. Lawrence in black velvet with sequins at the waist and hem line.

Also attending were Marjorie Kimball with her mother, Mrs. G. Cook Kimball, Nancy Brown in cream pink satin, the George S. Olivers, the William R. Jarvises and her son-in-law and daughter, the Frederick Weeds of Boston, the Herbert A. Mays, the James I. Marshes, Helen and Betty McCance, Mrs. John A. Muirland, Mrs. H. Allen Machesney and Mrs. H. Allen Machesney, Jr., in water blue satin.

PITTSBURGHER'S BRIDE

MR. AND MRS. FREDERICK BANNEROT, JR. . . . AT WEDDING

Mr. Bannerot, Pittsburgh, and the former Miss Mary Francis Palmer in their wedding dress a few minutes after they were married at Miami Beach. Many Pittsburghers attended the ceremony.

Librarians To Convene Sunday

The first meeting of its kind in Pittsburgh will take place when librarians of the city's 30 special business and research libraries will entertain a number of distinguished out-of-town librarians on Sunday and Monday. An informal tea will be given by the Pittsburgh Special Libraries Association on Sunday afternoon in the College of Fine Arts Library, Carnegie Institute of Technology, from 4 to 6 o'clock, in honor of Miss Margaret Reynolds, of Milwaukee, president of the National Special Libraries Association; Miss Elizabeth Cullen, of Washington, treasurer, and other national directors who will be in Pittsburgh for the meetings on Monday. There will be a short musical program.

On Monday a library luncheon will be held at the Hotel Schenley and a joint dinner meeting of the Cleveland and the Pittsburgh Special Libraries associations at the Rittenhouse Hotel. Miss Adeline M. Macrum, president of the Pittsburgh Special Libraries Association, will preside. In addition to Cleveland visitors, the guest list will include the directors of the national Special Libraries Association. Speakers will be Miss Margaret Reynolds, national president; Ralph Munn, Carnegie Library of Pittsburgh, and Harold J. Rose, director of general laboratories, Koppers Research Corporation. Mrs. Blanche Wappat, of Carnegie Tech Library, will be toastmistress. The following members of the national executive board will be present: Miss Margaret Reynolds, librarian of the First Wisconsin National Bank, Milwaukee; Miss Elizabeth Cullen, Bureau of Railway Economics, Washington; William Alcott, Boston Globe; Miss Eleanor S. Cavanaugh, Standard Statistical Company, New York City; Angus Fletcher, British Library of Information, New York, and Mary H. Brigham, of Providence, R. I., who is national secretary.

Members of the local association hope to promote a co-operative way of getting answers to difficult reference questions, and to so pool their library resources that Pittsburgh business men and research workers may quickly find any information they need, with a minimum of cost, effort and time. "Putting Knowledge to Work" is the slogan of the association.

Elsie Johns Wright will give soprano solos Monday evening as part of the program arranged by the Homewood Senior Club for the Junior Woman's Club. Mrs. Wright will be accompanied by Helen Thomas. The program will also include surprise features.

STYLIST PRESENTS LATEST MODE IN MORNING CLOTHES

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau,
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 20.—We prefer to take our morning wardrobe neat. For neat morning clothes alone have the right amount of dash necessary to express the essential simplicity and absence of fuss that should characterize the really correct before-luncheon clothes. Of course there are many women who like to fare forth in the morning quite richly accoutred. But fortunately they are not of the majority, nor do they include in their ranks any of the really smart, well-dressed women. For the good dresser understands how to vest even the simplest garment with the necessary chic and smartness, and never, never, does she spoil its smart simplicity by trimmings or costume jewelry.

ACCESSORIES are kept down to a minimum and then they are so unobtrusive that they seem to be part of the frock or suit. Many women there are indeed who prefer to wear a frock of this kind in simple woolen, if they find it necessary to spend a day away from home, for a frock of this type seems to fit into almost any but a really formal or important function. And so by all means include one or more of these dresses or suits in your spring wardrobe. You will be grateful for them and give them much to do.

SHOWN TODAY are sketches of a tailored morning dress and morning suit done in the best Molyneux manner. The tailored frock is of brown and white jersey with a diagonal weave. Small brown leather buckles clasp the tabs at neckline and wrist and break the monotony of the material that sometimes is a deterrent factor with the quite severe, untrimmed frock. At one side of the pleated skirt is a square patch pocket.

* * *

THE SECOND MODEL has a short cardigan jacket and a detachable scarf of beaver. The cuffs are bordered with beaver and the fabric of both coat and frock is beige and brown homespun. The dress closes in front with wooden clips and same wood is used for the belt buckle. The pointed border that edges the jacket and skirt is formed of narrow pointed strips of the self-fabric.

"Beauty in a Hurry!"

To be beautiful in a little less than no time! To remain youthful on the limited allowance of five minutes a day! To make a limited income cover the necessities of life and the luxuries of loveliness! It's the modern demand and one that no one so fully appreciates as Helena Rubinstein—the great international beauty scientist. Through her understanding and cooperation, we have the privilege and the pleasure of issuing this cordial invitation to The Busy Business Woman.

Through a Special Arrangement with her personal representative,

HELENA RUBINSTEIN

MISS MARION A. TOWNE

will conduct a special lecture—Tomorrow, Saturday, at 2:30 P. M. on

"Beauty—in a Hurry!"

You may discover in the practical and scientific facts presented here for the first time, the simple way to prolonged youth and greater loveliness.

If your time or your income is limited, if you have thought of exquisite grooming and physical loveliness as a luxury beyond your reach, do not miss this opportunity. For whether your problems are simple or complex, you will find them answered in the skill and genius of the world's premier beauty scientist.

NEW FIRE TRUCK FOR BRENTWOOD

The new $11,000 fire truck purchased by the Brentwood Volunteer Fire Company will be delivered March 3, it was announced today.

The apparatus is 38 feet long, equipped with 240 feet of ladders and a body carrying 1,000 feet of hose. It will also have an inhalator, gas masks, stretchers, first aid kits and life nets. This addition will give the company three pieces of fire apparatus with a valuation of $30,000. The volunteers are financing the new truck by holding dances every Saturday night in the Municipal Park shelter house.

DINNER TO FETE CARTOONIST

Cy Hungerford, cartoonist, will be honor guest at a dinner given tomorrow night by the Amen Corner in its club rooms in the William Penn Hotel. Among the speakers will be Council President John S. Herron, W. Heber Dithrich and State Senator Frank J. Harris, who will preside.

Australian Seeks Relative at Donora

R. H. Scotch, of 478 Seventh street, Donora, has received a request from Mrs. W. H. Dealy, of Gawler, South Australia, for information as to the whereabouts of William Dealy, a relative of her husband, who had lived for some time in Western Pennsylvania. Mrs. Dealy had read a magazine article by Scotch and took that means of inquiring for her relative, with whom she had lost touch.

Don't neglect a COLD

DISTRESSING cold in chest or throat—that so often leads to something serious—generally responds to good old Musterole with the first application. Should be more effective if used once every hour for five hours.

This famous blend of oil of mustard, camphor, menthol and other helpful ingredients brings relief naturally. Musterole gets action because it is a scientific "counter-irritant"—not just a salve—it penetrates and stimulates blood circulation, helps to draw out infection and pain. Used by millions for 20 years. Recommended by doctors and nurses.

Keep Musterole handy—jars and tubes.

To Mothers—Musterole is also made in milder form for babies and small children. Ask for Children's Musterole.

MUSTEROLE
BETTER THAN A MUSTARD PLASTER

A Wise Woman Trains Her Bowels!

When elimination is perfect, there is seldom an ache or ailment. Even the complexion shows what calcium does for the system.

Do you know that frequently only an occasional tiny calcium wafer will soon have your system functioning every day—of its own accord? How much better than salts or harsh cathartics!

Stuart's Calcium Wafers help to keep you fastidiously clean inside, and give you a skin you read about! Ask a physician.

Try Them!

A five-day test should prove to you very conclusively the system's need for calcium and the decided benefit from Stuart's Calcium Wafers. Your druggist has it—the test size for pocket is 10c. Or the family size, 60c.

COAST HAS SITE FOR CADETS

Universal Service

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 20.—Through the San Francisco Chamber of Commerce, a site on the Bay district was offered today as the home of the new United States Military or Naval Academy.

Action followed the introduction of a bill in the House of Representatives Wednesday providing for the relocation of the West Point Military Academy. The author of the bill, Congressman James McSwain of South Carolina, has declared in favor of establishment of equal training branches of both the military and naval academies on the West coast.

Associate Justice Loses Case in Police Court

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP)—Associate Justice Stone, of the Supreme Court, lost a case in police court.

A jury acquitted Alvin Jackson, Negro, against whom the latter had appeared as the principal witness on a charge of reckless driving. Their automobiles had collided.

When the case was first called several weeks ago Jackson took advantage of a recent decision of the Supreme Court, which gave the right of jury trial to persons charged with reckless driving.

FRANCE BUILDS LARGER NAVY

By GEORGE W. HINMAN, JR.
Universal Service Special Cable

PARIS, Feb. 20.—Official notice of France's determination to resume building of capital ships, bringing with it a widening of the Franco-Italian rift, was given by Minister of the Navy Charles Dumont.

M. Dumont made the announcement in his address which followed the launching of the super-destroyer flotilla leader Aigle at Dunkirk yesterday. Eleven vessels of the Aigles type are yet to be built, and it is believed each will be able to log 42 knots, a world's record for armed craft.

The Minister of the Navy stated that it is his intention to present the Chamber of Deputies within a few days with a bill providing for a new installment for naval construction.

Germany's "pocket-battleship," the cruiser Ersatz Preussen, he said, has made it impossible for France longer to limit her building program to lighter vessels.

PHILA. HOSIERY STRIKERS HELD

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 20.—(INS)—More than 120 men and women pickets were taken in custody by police during the night as the clash between police and union officials over the hosiery strike here continued today.

Workers in all the union and non-union hosiery mills in this district have been called out and about 3,000 have responded in an effort to unionize all the mills and obtain wage readjustments and uniform working hours. In an effort to prevent disturbances Safety Director L. B. Schofield has forbidden any picketing, but union organizers declared the order in effect forbade them the right to strike and expressed their determination to continue picketing.

As a result more than 200 workers have been taken into custody as police carry out the director's commands to arrest all pickets. Further arrests are expected during the day.

TWO CHILDREN DIE IN FLAMES

CHICAGO, Feb. 20.—(INS)—Two children were burned to death and eight other persons injured, two perhaps fatally, when an explosion and fire destroyed the frame dwelling of Robert Havlicek today.

The dead were Dorothy Havlicek, 3, and her brother, Leonard, 8. Both children were asleep on the upper floor of the house where they were trapped in their beds. Two other children, Adeline, 10, and Loretta, 12, were burned so badly physicians fear they will die.

Firemen asserted that the explosion was caused by gas streaming from four open burners of a kitchen range. Fire swept the house immediately afterward, destroying the home.

Sleuth, Thug Slain In Holdup Battle

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP)—A detective and a robber were killed last night when two detectives frustrated an attempted holdup of a lower Lexington avenue cafe.

The detective was Christopher W. Scheuing of Staten Island. The robber, identified as Albert Chicchis, 30, was shot by Detective Dominick Pape. Scheuing's partner. The other robber escaped, but was believed to have been wounded.

'Hunch' Saved Flier When Plane Crashes

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 20.—(AP)—L. H. Atkinson, aviator, entered a cabin plane for a test flight. Then he got out again and borrowed a parachute from a friend.

Ten minutes later the ship went into a spin from which Atkinson could not extricate it. He jumped.

MASS MEETINGS TO DEFEND BLUE LAWS

SIDEWALKS of PITTSBURGH

By William Pfarr

Sir:

Your piece about the hotel crooks reminded me of the Pittsburgh reporter who flopped on a swell story. The reporter's name might have been Jones.

Mr. Pfarr

His boss sent him to interview young Baron George Frederick Exeter Von Krupp, Jr., of the Germany Von Krupps. The young fellow was staying at the William Penn and trying to keep his visit a secret. Finally, however, he consented to see the reporter in the Von Krupp suite.

Well, the baron said he was a student at Harvard and was spending the vacation touring America and learning about our big plants. A couple of big-shot steel men had been escorting him all over the district and treating him like a baron should be treated. Even Henry Ford had entertained him at Detroit and promised him one of the Ford samples.

Well, this baron was very enthusiastic about and loyal to Harvard. And Jones, the reporter, asked him why, if he thought so much about good old Harvard, he wore a lounging robe which flashed Yale's colors—which he did. Well, the baron shrugged his shoulders and the reporter let it pass—and a few days later the baron was arrested out in New Mexico and charged with passing bum checks on a half-dozen hotels, including the William Penn. And he admitted he wasn't even a baron or a Von Krupp, and he went to jail.

ANTI-PRO BONO PUB.

P. S.—The reporter's name might have been Jones, but it was really Pfarr.

Honus Wagner, the old ball-player, whose favorite meal is pickled eels, remembers all the tricks ballplayers used to play in his day—the time Frank Smith, the old Pirate catcher, dropped something or other on a new straw hat which was being worn by the owner of a Boston ball club, the fake calls which would be left for rookies, instructing them to report in the lobby of the hotel at 3:30 a. m. for practice, and so on.

Once this same Smith, who was noted for his practical jokes, failed to show up for practice one mornin, at training camp. Soon after the manager received a hurried anonymous telephone call which revealed that Smith had hanged himself.

Honus, the manager and several players hurried back to the hotel. Across the street they saw hanging inert from the top of a church belfry, what they thought was Smith's body. They borrowed ladders from the fire department and climbed the precarious route to the belfry, where they came upon a scarecrow, stuffed with excelsior and topped by a toy balloon. Nobody saw Smith for several days.

Reminiscence: Amusement parks today don't pretend to offer such spectacles as they did years ago—"The Johnstown Flood," "Noah's Ark," "The Great Western Train Robbery" and the like. "The Great Western Train Robbery" was Kennywood Park's spectacle years ago. Nightly, for several seasons, desperadoes boarded the train and held at bay the passengers and railroad laborers working along the tracks. Two of the laborers were Frank Danahey, then also manager of the park, and Danny Nirella, the musician, who was doubling in brass. The laborers sang, too, probably to the success of the robbers, and that tenor you remember was Mr. Nirella. Mr. Danahey, now the manager of West View Park, was the baritone.

"Don't eat the eggs," the waitress answered.

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Feb. 20.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

You talk about this country being hard up. Every place thinks its worse off than the other. The Red Cross, as usual, is doing heroic work, but it's the people that they can't reach, people that they never heard of, people that are so far back in the woods that the rest of the world has almost forgotten 'em. Those are ones that I pity in all this depression. I am speaking of the Senate and Congress of these United States. I want to see a Red Cross relief formed that will go so far back into the underbrush of the Hinterland that it will reach this little known but patriotic group. Then can the Red Cross say, "We have performed our duty."

FIND SQUIRE GUILTY OF FRAUD

Justice Gracie, Constable Hilpert Convicted Over Rum Case 'Settlement'

Justice of the Peace Thomas R. Gracie, of Brentwood, and George Hilpert, his former constable, were found guilty of conspiracy to defraud, by a jury in Criminal Court, after 30 minutes' deliberation. The case had been on trial for two days before Judge James H. Gray, who had ordered the jury locked up over night, just as murder case juries are kept together.

It was the first night he had spent away from home for 44 years, said Charles Nachreiner, shipper, of 700 Attica street. Mrs. Catherine Daws, 2828 Sarah street, another member of the jury, said it was her first night away from home since her youngest child was born, 30 years ago.

State evidence against Gracie and Hilpert had been to the effect that they had induced Anton Pollak, Baldwin Township, to turn over $100 after he had been arrested on a liquor charge.

Both went on the stand and denied the charges. Gracie said Pollak had offered him $100 "for my trouble," after his case had been discharged.

TUNNEL, BRIDGE DEAL IN SNAG

The purchase of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad tunnel and bridge ran into two snags at the meeting of County Commissioners today.

Commissioner C. C. McGovern said he had been under the impression, when he voted for the purchase at $3,000,000, that the county was acquiring all the railroad's property, except the station itself, which is bounded by Water street, Fourth avenue on the south side, Ferry street and Reddour way.

Now, McGovern said, he understands the county will acquire, in the downtown section, only the 60-foot trestle and not the warehouses and adjacent ground, nor a short spur.

County Solicitor M. B. Lesher said a state law of 1909 allowed the county to operate such properties, but was vague on buying them. The commissioners, including McGovern, authorized Lesher to try to rush an amendment through this session of the Legislature.

The commissioners voted to buy the Wabash property to create a new traffic outlet to the South Hills. It is likely, too, that McGovern's suggestion that the new thoroughfare be continued to Duquesne way, to complete a north-south connection, will be carried out.

NOTED AIRMEN TO ATTEND BALL

The ninth annual ball of the Aero Club of Pittsburgh will be held tonight in the William Penn ballroom.

Many nationally known Army, Navy and civilian pilots planned to attend. Among them are Jimmy Doolittle, Eddie Rickenbacker, Clarence Chamberlain, Frank M. Hawks, W. S. Brock and Al Williams. Military guests include Gen. James E. Fechet; Gen. William Mitchell, Patrick J. Hurley, Frederick H. Payne and F. Trubee Davidson.

Members of the Three Hundred Twenty-fourth Observation squadron, Pittsburgh's aerial reserve officers' unit, were to attend in dress uniform.

At least eight licensed women pilots of the district, Mrs. H. V. Thaden, Helen Richey, Mrs. Clifford Ball, Mrs. R. V. Trader, Mrs. Ida M. Snyder, Joan Diehl, Freda Zuend and Stella Sullivan, will attend, according to Maj. H. Frank McCaffrey, general chairman.

MAKE-BELIEVE

By FAITH BALDWIN

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Lou Thurston, beautiful orphan girl of the "home" type, lives with her aunt and uncle, Clara and Howard Sanderson. The former is private secretary to a publisher and the latter an engineer. Mary Lou looks after Billy, their small son. Larry Mitchell, young newspaper reporter, is Mary Lou's pal. Mary Lou is happy, but vitally restless. Larry appears on the scene, rescues Billy from peril in traffic, makes a date with Mary Lou for the next day and dashes off in his pursuit of news. Sanderson gets a chance to go to the Orient on a big engineering project and take his wife as secretary of the expedition. What Mary Lou will do is a problem and she is to stay temporarily with Grandma Jennings, Clara's mother. Larry is eager to marry Mary Lou and take care of her, but Mary Lou refuses his offer. The Sandersons and Mary Lou go to Grandma Jennings' home for dinner and to make arrangements for the journey. The Sandersons start on the trip. Mary Lou asks Larry to help her get a job. Larry sees an advertisement calling for a companion for an invalid. Mary Lou feels she can meet all specified requirements. He guides her to the train she must take to the Lorrimer home, where application must be made. Mrs. Lorrimer is a charming woman and Mary Lou likes her. However, the semi-invalid is Mrs. Lorrimer's son and the advertisement should have read "male" companion. Mary Lou is bitterly disappointed. Mrs. Lorrimer persuades Mary Lou to remain in the Lorrimer home until train time.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER VII.

When his impassive back had vanished, Mrs. Lorrimer relaxed in her chair, and, picking up a silver box from her desk, offered Mary Lou a cigaret. Mary Lou, feeling very young and unsophisticated, shook her head smilingly.

"I don't smoke," she said, "I'm sorry."

"Why on earth should you be sorry?" asked Mrs. Lorrimer, astonished, lighting a cigaret for herself and inserting it into a long black holder banded with tiny diamonds. "You're very lucky. I wish I didn't. Well, at your age, I didn't either. How old are you, by the way?" she asked, smiling.

"Twenty," Mary Lou replied.

"Really? I thought you were about 18. Do take off your hat and be more comfortable. Oh, what perfectly gorgeous hair!"

Mary Lou flushed a little, just a trifle indignant at the "18" appraisal, but soothed by the pleasant flattery. "This is the loveliest room I've ever seen," she commented happily.

"Do you like it? I'm so glad. I did over the whole house a few years ago, with decorators' help, in details, of course, but I really left very little to them; you see, I've always loved doing houses and a just plain 'decorated' house always looks it to me," Mrs. Lorrimer told her.

Becomes Talkative

She talked a little about Westmill, switched the conversation cleverly to Mary Lou herself, and before Mary Lou knew it, she was telling this beautiful and utter stranger everything about herself, pouring it all out, about her parents and her strange delightful childhood, about the Sandersons, about Gram and even Aunt Adelaide and Larry. Pouring it out? No, tumbling it out, helter-skelter, her face glowing, her eyes shining, her voice rising or falling on sad and happy memories.

What an adorable child! thought Mrs. Lorrimer again.

Peter appeared, tray laden and behind him a pretty, smartly uniformed maid. There were great but silent doings with tea tables and things and presently Mary Lou found herself gazing at perfect coffee and thick cream, honey and toasted biscuits and a silver bowl of

MUSICIANS QUIT AT PLAZA

Unpaid for two weeks, its members say, Vic Irwin's Havana Rumba Orchestra walked off the floor of the Plaza Restaurant, Fifth avenue, last night, just as the dinner program was to begin.

Irwin, who claims that $3,600 is due him and his orchestra of 10, said that 25 couples filed out of the restaurant, in the hands of a receiver since Saturday, when the music ended. Musicians from various theaters were recruited to finish the program, and the music resumed later, a man who said he was the manager and who declined to give his name said.

Norman J. Harris, of Pittsburgh, was appointed receiver after an involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed in Federal Court against the Fifth Avenue Restaurant Corporation, trading as the Plaza Restaurant. Three petitioners listed claims aggregating $19,298.26.

Cantor Rosenblatt Program Sunday

Prayers, Jewish folk songs and traditional temple selections will be heard at the B'Nai Israel Synagogue Sunday evening, when Cantor Josef Rosenblatt, known as the leading cantor of the day, appears in a special concert.

Samuel Kliachko, head of the 'cello division of the Pittsburgh Musical Institute and 'cello soloist of the Pittsburgh Symphony Orchestra, will be the assisting artist.

50,000 NAMES ON THEIR PETITION

BURGESS JOHN CAVANAUGH AND MISS MARGARET COYNE, SECRETARY, EXAMINING NAMES

The great petition that supporters of the plan to build a Pittsburgh-Homestead high-level bridge will present to County Commissioners. The petition contains 50,000 names already.

BRIDGE RALLY PLANS LAID

The three County Commissioners will be among the speakers at the mass meeting Sunday in Stahl's Theater, Homestead, in support of the proposed Pittsburgh-Homestead high level bridge. The meeting is sponsored by the Pittsburgh-Homestead High Level Bridge Association, of which Burgess John J. Cavanaugh, of Homestead, is chairman.

In addition to County Commissioners C. C. McGovern, Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock, invitations have been sent Mayor Charles H. Kline, Council President John S. Herron, Senators J. Harris and W. D. Mansfield, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, James C. Kuhn, president of the Homestead Chamber of Commerce, and I. Lamont Hughes, president of the Carnegie Steel Company.

A petition asking authorization of the bridge will be presented to the commissioners. The petition, it is said, bears the names of 50,000 residents of the lower Monongahela valley. The new bridge would cross the Monongahela River at a high level from the top of Brown's hill to West street, Homestead.

Pershing Defied Foch, Risked Failure to Save Identity of U. S. Army

MY EXPERIENCES IN THE WORLD WAR

By JOHN J. PERSHING

Commander-in-Chief, American Expeditionary Forces

Succeeding chapters of "My Experiences in the World War" will appear daily and Sunday exclusively in the Sun-Telegraph.

CHAPTER XL.

"I am Commander-in-Chief of the Allied Armies in France," said Gen. Foch, rising in the conference of the Supreme War Council at Abbeville, May 1, 1918, "and my appointment has been sanctioned by the signature not only of the British and French governments, but also by the President of the United States. Hence, I believe myself in a position to insist.

"There is a program signed by Lord Milner and Gen. Pershing at London. I ask to be made a party to this arrangement, since America has given me the strategic direction of the war, or else I have no reason for holding the position.

"So I ask that an agreement be made this evening among Lord Milner, Gen. Pershing and myself, extending to June what has been decided on for May.

"I cannot forget the responsibilities weighing on me, because of the fact that the Allied governments have entrusted to me the direction of operations in France."

Of course, all present knew that no authority to dictate regarding such matters had been conferred upon him, and his remarks only showed that the Allies were ready to go to almost any length to carry their point.

Pershing Disagrees

Premier Clemenceau then said he agreed with Gen. Foch and favored an American army, but that the Germans were at Villers-Bretonneux and if the lines were broken there they might quickly arrive under the walls of Paris, and liaison between the Allied armies might have to be established on the Loire, or if the lines were pierced at Hazebrouck the enemy could reach the sea.

"What is important for the morale of our soldiers," he said, "is not to tell them that the American soldiers are arriving, but to show them that they have arrived."

In other words, smaller American units should be put in French divisions. He referred to the help the French were giving the British, who had to suppress 10 divisions, and added: "It is essential both in May and June when we shall be short of drafts that we should have men."

Continuing, he said: "We have no right to order the American government to act in that way, but what we want is to attract its attention to the gravity of the situation," and he did not think I would refuse to listen.

In my opinion the plan proposed was entirely unsound, and I thought that the best and quickest way to help the Allies would be to build up an American army. Moreover, the implied presumption that the Council might dictate to us either as a Council or through the Allied Commander-in-Chief in the arbitrary manner indicated set me more firmly than ever against American units serving in Allied armies.

The day's discussion made it quite clear that both allies intended to get commitment to the

MAN ENDS LIFE WITH POISON

After leaving a note saying he would be better off with mother and father, Frederick Marloff, 59, of Oak road, Overbrook, ended his life in his home by drinking poison, according to coroner's report.

Finding the door of Marloff's house locked, his brother, John, of 144 Oak road, Overbrook, who had been bringing Frederick's dinner every night since the death, last May, of their father, entered the house by a ladder to a second-story window and found the body. Frederick, unmarried, lived in the house alone after his father's death.

Marloff was a naturalist and was said to have sold several specimens to Carnegie Museum. Beside his body morgue attaches found a glass which they believed contained the poison.

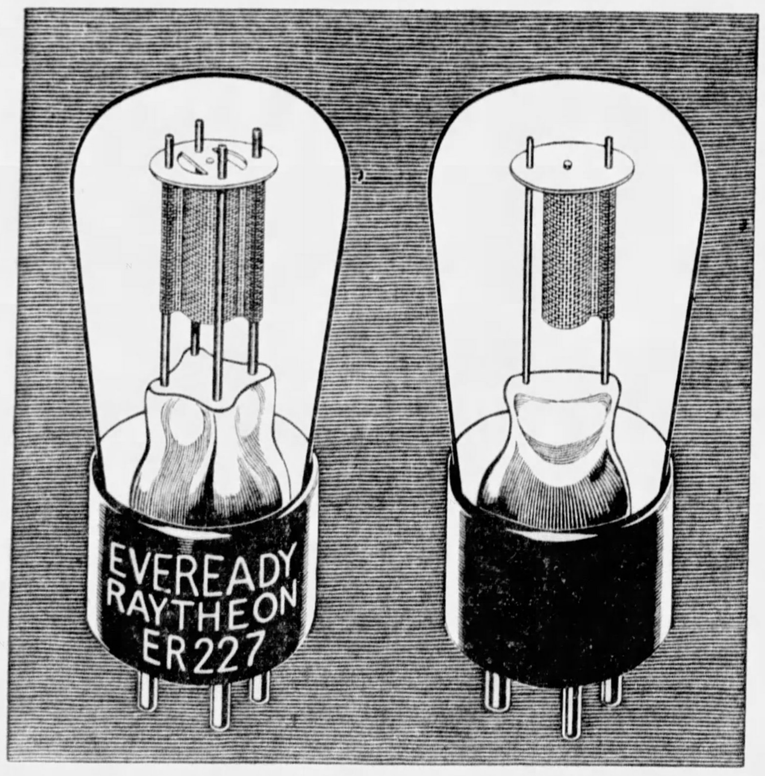
NEW TYPE RADIO TUBE GIVES THRILLING PERFORMANCE

4-pillar tubes change "just radio" to music.
Thousands try them and buy them



THE NEW

Notice the four strong pillars. With this solid foundation, the many fragile parts in the tube can be assembled with watch-making accuracy, and cannot move a hair's breadth from their fixed position! They are always poised for performance, like the strings of a fine piano, tuned for a concert!

THE OLD

In ordinary tubes, the many delicate parts have only a two-legged foundation—like the goal-posts on a football field. Two supports instead of four! Jolts, bumps, vibration from dynamic speakers—all can impair their vital accuracy. And that means uncertain results . . . unreliable reception!

The radio service-man, who keeps your set in repair, is a technical expert . . . he knows tubes! He can explain the value of the 4-pillar principle, and demonstrate it, in your own radio set.

THOUSANDS are saying, "It's a great tube!" And it is! 4-pillar Eveready Raytheon Tubes are giving radio sets everywhere a new lease on life. Filling their loud-speakers with music that's clear, lifelike, breath-taking in its realism. Showing how fine a radio program really can be!

That's the result of a new tube principle . . . these tubes have four strong pillars to anchor their elements in place. In all other tubes, the elements have only two-point support. Four rigid posts . . . one at each corner of a square . . . support the fragile tube elements as firmly and accurately as the jewels of a fine watch hold the balance wheel.

The heavy vibration of dynamic speakers can't damage the tone of a 4-pillar tube. The knocks and bumps of shipment can't hurt its performance. The four pillars inside protect its tone with their strength. Ordinary tubes, with their two supports, lack this rigid, rugged strength.

Free Home Demonstration

You can try a complete set of 4-pillar tubes at home, in your own radio . . . test them and compare them free! Notice how fast they get to work when you turn the switch . . . and how much clearer and better your radio sounds!

National Carbon Company, Inc., has arranged with Eveready dealers to give you this free home demonstration. It tells you far more about tubes and tone than any electrical test in a dealer's store. If your present tubes are a year or more old, you can't afford to miss this opportunity. Call the nearest Eveready Raytheon dealer NOW.

4 OTHERS HURT WHEN HIT BY CARS

All Victims in Hospitals, 2 Have Fractured Skulls; Four Drivers Arrested

One man was believed to be dying and three men and a girl were suffering injuries as a result of automobile accidents last night. Four of the victims were struck by automobiles.

Edward J. Hill, 22, of 520 Pembrook place, was in Pittsburgh Hospital with a fractured skull suffered shortly before midnight when his automobile crashed into a pole on Hamilton avenue, near Frankstown avenue. He is the son of Jerome Hill, of the firm of Hill, Wright and Frew, brokers, with offices in the Union Trust Company Building.

Edward S. Davidson, 61, of 688 Florida avenue, Mt. Lebanon, suffered a fractured skull and a fractured left leg when he was struck by an automobile, driven, police say, by Earl Knudsen, 32, of 1464 Tolma avenue, Dormont, at West Liberty avenue and Brookline boulevard. Davidson is in South Side Hospital.

Struck by an automobile at South Seventeenth and Carson streets, Irene Pietrzychi, 7, of 53 South Seventeenth street, was taken to South Side Hospital. Harry Sibbett, 30, of 425 North Aiken avenue, was arrested as the driver of the machine, according to police.

Fred Borneman, 55, of 3012 Glendale avenue, was arrested after his automobile struck James Walback, 66, of 1210 Bingham street, in Wharton street, police say. Borneman took the victim to St. Joseph's Hospital.

Suffering internal injuries when he was struck by an automobile near his home, Park Wylie, 36, of 1328 Illinois avenue, Dormont, was in Mercy Hospital. Police said they arrested Worth G. Kenney, 18, of 3318 Eastman avenue, Dormont, as the driver.

WOMAN SEEKS SON'S CUSTODY

A hearing will be held today on a writ of habeas corpus asked yesterday by Mrs. Jean Greenberg, of 1331 Reedsdale street, seeking custody of her son, Sanford K. Greenberg, before Judge Joseph Stadtfeld in Common Pleas Court. The writ was directed to her husband, Abraham Greenberg.

The couple had been residing at the home of Mrs. Greenberg's father on Reedsdale street, and on Monday last Greenberg left, taking their son with him to the home of Greenberg's father, 6320 Crombie street, without the wife's consent, according to the allegations.

COUPLE TO WED AT FOOD SHOW TOMORROW

Ceremony Features Mammoth Exhibit of Edibles Being Held in Motor Sq. Garden

Glistening towers, shining pyramids and amazing patterns of canned foodstuffs have turned Motor Square Garden into a grocer's paradise. The exhibition, known as the annual food show, is attracting hundreds of visitors daily.

Retailers and manufacturers have vied in efforts to create original, attractive and effective displays of goods. Efficient salespeople preside at all booths to demonstrate and sell the products of their companies. Hundreds take advantage of the prices offered and housewives learn to make new and tasty dishes.

WEDDING TOMORROW

At 8:30 tomorrow night the strains of a gypsy wedding march will echo through the garden as Miss Grace Ryser, of Imperial, is married to John W. Shaffer, of McKees Rocks. Miss Ryser will be the 1931 food show bride. Members of the bridal party will be Mrs. Helen Ryser, Miss Clara Shaffer, George Ryser and Fred Lottes.

The bride will be given away by her father, William C. Ryser. The ceremony will be performed by the Rev. Dr. Ira Freeman, of Lorenz Avenue Baptist Church.

GIFTS FOR COUPLE

The Retail Grocers' Association will present the bride with $100. Max Unger is presenting the wedding ring and the Zieger Company is contributing the bridal bouquets. A mammoth wedding cake will be the gift of Braun Brothers & Co. In addition to these gifts, show exhibitors are planning gifts of groceries and furniture.

Cooking classes and baking contests are features of the show every afternoon and evening. Final displays and contests will mark the last day of the show, February 28.

Bellevue Pastor Host to Class

The Younger Married People's Class of the Bellevue Christian Church will meet tonight in the home of the pastor, the Rev. Frank G. Helme, 725 Clinton avenue, Bellevue, who is teacher of the class.

Johns Funeral.

Funeral services for Leonard Edgar Johns, 85, a veteran of the Civil War, who died Wednesday at his home, 269 Fortieth street, will be held tomorrow afternoon at the M. F. Leslie funeral parlors, Forty-third street. Burial will be in Allegheny Cemetery. Mr. Johns served through the Civil War with the 15th Pennsylvania Militia and studied law after the war. He was admitted to the bar in 1870. He was the oldest elder of the Lawrenceville Presbyterian Church and was a member of the Allegheny County Bar Association, the Sons of the American Revolution, the Royal Arcanum, the Historical Society of Western Pennsylvania, Veteran Guard of Allegheny Coun, Duquesne Post No. 259, G. A. R., the Loyal Association and the Board of Fire Underwriters of Allegheny County.

Mrs. Louise E. Leinenweber.

Mrs. Louisa E. Leinenweber, widow of Harry Leinenweber, who died Wednesday in her home at 408 South Main street, will be buried tomorrow afternoon. Funeral services will be held in the Evangelical Protestant Church of the West End and burial will be in Greentree Cemetery. Mrs. Leinenweber was a life-long resident of the West End and was an active worker in the West End church. She also was a member of Guyasuta Chapter No. 6, Order of Eastern Star and Damascus Shrine No. 1. She leaves three sons, Fred, Gustav and Harry Leinenweber; two daughters, Miss Hilda M. Leinenweber and Mrs. Norma Snyder; a brother; two sisters and six grandchildren.

Charles A. Ross.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon for Charles A. Ross, former councilman of old Allegheny, who died in the home of his daughter in Chester, Pa. Burial will be in Uniondale Cemetery. Mr. Ross was born in Pittsburgh and resided here until he retired from business five years ago. He was associated with S. Boyd and Company, fine art dealers for more than 25 years; was assistant manager of the Brighton Laundry Company for several years and manager of the real estate department of the South Hills Trust Company for several years. He leaves two sons, John and Harry Ross, of Pittsburgh; a daughter, Mrs. L. W. Burdick, of Chester, with whom he made his home; six brothers; four sisters and six grandchildren.

Quinn Funeral.

Solemn high mass of requiem will be celebrated in St. Paul's Cathedral at 10 a. m. tomorrow for Mrs. Elizabeth R. Quinn, who died last night at her home, 6464 Northumberland street. She was born in Philadelphia, but had spent most of her life in Pittsburgh. She was one of the oldest members of St. Paul's Cathedral. She leaves six sons, Murtha, of High Point, N. C.; Charles, of Philadelphia, and Dr. Thomas, Francis, Joseph and Edward Quinn, all of Pittsburgh, and a daughter, Mrs. Catherine Mohan.

Police Brutalities Alleged by Miners

Protesting against alleged brutality on the part of state police toward pickets at the Edna No. 1 mine, near Irwin, members of the National Miners Union have appealed to Gov. Gifford Pinchot to withdraw the state police from the vicinity of the mine where a strike is in progress. The telegram was sent by F. Borich, secretary of the union, from the national headquarters, 611 Penn avenue.

TRIBUTE PAID WASHINGTON

Civic and military organizations of the district and the public schools of the city, have arranged programs marking the natal day of George Washington. These activities consist of special programs, meetings, dances and banquets.

In the schools special programs are being held this afternoon and Monday, while tomorrow night the Patriotic Order Sons of America, southwestern district, will hold a banquet at the downtown Y. M. C. A. which delegates from Washington and Greene counties will attend.

The Washington Infantry and Old Guard dinner dance will be held tomorrow night at Fort Pitt Hotel, the members appearing in uniform. The dinner will mark the seventy-fifth anniversary of the organization.

Deserted, Wife Says In Divorce Plea

Alleging she was deserted after nearly 18 years of married life, Mrs. Minnie Flora Engelberg, of 430 Oakland avenue, asked a divorce from Benjamin Engelberg, of 2312 Center avenue, in Common Pleas Court. They were married January 24, 1908, and the alleged desertion occurred March 11, 1926.

Any COLD

That cold may lead to something serious, if neglected. The time to do something for it is now. Don't wait until it develops into bronchitis. Take two or three tablets of Bayer Aspirin as soon as you feel a cold coming on. Or as soon as possible after it starts. Bayer Aspirin will head off or relieve the aching and feverish feeling—will stop the headache. And if your throat is affected, dissolve two or three tablets in a quarter-glassful of warm water, and gargle. This quickly soothes a sore throat and reduces inflammation and infection. Read proven directions for neuralgia, for rheumatism and other aches and pains. Genuine Bayer Aspirin is harmless to the heart.

'The Blue Bird' Flies High; 'Captain Applejack' Draws Aces

By GEORGE SEIBEL.

Hundreds of boys and girls chattered and cheered in the Nixon Theater yesterday afternoon while Tyltyl and Mytyl hunted for "The Blue Bird" through the Land of Memory, the Palace of Night and the Kingdom of the Future. Which wasn't really nice of the boys and girls, for they had the Blue Bird down there with them while Nancy Hamilton and Mrs. Dudley Livingston were searching for it on the stage.

George Seibel

Maeterlinck's allegorical fairy tale had been chosen by the Junior Guild for this year's presentation. No better choice could have been made, nor any more difficult task undertaken. The greatest of stage managers would find this a job to tax all his powers, and the smallest child would get a thrill out of the spectacle that a sage might miss.

So it is high praise to tell these ambitious folks that they did not fail. They gave, first of all, a lucid and lively performance. They put everything across to the young critics from parquet to goose heaven, who are the severest of all critics.

And some of the roles were played with exceptional force. Nancy Hamilton put expressiveness into the face of Tyltyl. Mrs. R. Kent Hanson gave dignity to Father Time and the Oak. Mrs. Joseph M. Sullivan flickered finely as Fire, and Mrs. Gilbert Rafferty lent somber import to Night.

BUT ALL DID WELL

While these were the outstanding characterizations, they all did well. Mrs. Reginald Quaile and Mrs. Charles R. Acrott as Tyltyl and Tyletta got plenty of dog-and-cat comedy out of their parts. Mrs. Paul Hartland as Road Mrs. William W. Blair as Water, Mrs. George L. Craig as Sugar and Marjorie Kimball as Milk did honor to the dramatic kitchen.

Helen Pendleton as the Fairy Berylune and Mrs. Sidney Stewart as Light could not do anything but shine, while Nancy Brown and Rebecca George as Pierrot and Perette added some flashes of youthful charm like Mrs. Livingston's Mytyl.

The talking animals and trees, the ghosts and stars, the blue children, and even Cold in the Head brought enough realism to their impersonations to convince the hundreds of eager critics in the audience that here was a really truly chapter of history. And every little spectator left with coat or blouse tight buttoned over the Blue Bird they had captured during the play.

The production from Tyletta's tail to Father Time's boat was adequate, and if some of the scenic symbolism was missing it was never missed. The Junior League may be proud of its Children's Theater Guild, which repeats the performance today and tomorrow.

"CAPTAIN APPLEJACK"

Another ambitious effort of our dramatic dilettantes was presented in the evening at the auditorium of the Y. M. & W. H. A., when the Pitt Players put on "Captain Applejack," a drama which Wallace Eddinger played in Pittsburgh a year or two before his death.

It's a dream play with a strong admixture of comedy. Walter Hackett, the author, has taken a middle course between Robert Louis Stevenson and George M. Cohan. The result is rather weak tea.

Under the direction of Carl B. Cass, the players from Pitt's theater acquitted themselves with credit. The best work was done by Barbara Ann Hartmann as the adventuress. Clarence Sober as Ambrose Applejohn was better as the modern gentleman than as the blood-curdling pirate who cranks.

On the Banks of the Whitewash

My neighbor was so frivolous, extravagant and gay,
She never saved her pennies to combat a rainy day,
Her clothes were chic and costly, and her jewels bright and large,
She paid the price for openings and after, cover charge.

But now the times are hard times, and business very slow,
My neighbor hasn't "got to eat" or anywhere to go,
For memories and poverty, she's got herself to thank,
And all because she never put her money in the bank.

While I, who was so thrifty, so frugal and so wise,
Who smothered every whim and want, am poor to my surprise,
For nothing else but poverty, I've got myself to thank,
And all because I always put my money in the bank!

Why Night Clubs Fail

It happened in one of the high-tariffed gay places the other night. A sassy cigaret lass informed a lad that the price for a package of ciggies was 50 cents.

"What!" ejaculated the fellow. "Fifty cents? Why, I can go down to the corner and buy the same cigarets for 15! What do you think I am?"

NEW FANNIE HURST NOVEL FOR SCREEN

"Back Street," Fannie Hurst's new novel, was bought yesterday by Carl Laemmle, Jr., for picturization. The price paid for the talking picture rights is said to be one of the biggest on record, forced by the keenest competition.

Serialized first in Cosmopolitan Magazine, "Back Street" was brought out in book form in January and already has sold 80,000 copies, a phenomenal achievement for a book in its second month.

It offers the story of a girl who lived in the Back Street of a man's life because of her great love for him.

One by One Hollywood's Bachelors Marry

By HARRISON CARROLL.

(Copyright, 1931, by Premier Publishers.)

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 20.

Charlie Farrell surprised everyone by secretly marrying Virginia Valli.

Now Frankie Albertson reveals that he will wed Virginia Shelley at 6 p. m. on March 7 in the Church of Flowers, Glendale.

The marriage culminates a romance that began in high school. Since then both Frankie and his bride-to-be have turned to pictures. He is under contract to Fox, where he has just completed the juvenile lead with Will Rogers in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." She has played small parts in a number of films.

Frank Albertson

Hollywood is wondering who will be the next.

DOWN BUT NOT OUT

Somewhat dazed, the writer stood up from the floor.

"I suppose I should be impressed," he said.

AN OBTUSE ANGEL

Harpo Marx, latest Broadway invader, tells of going on the road with a show which was backed by a Chinese restaurant man. When it was decided to add rain effects to a scene, someone suggested pouring rice on a piece of tin. That night the manager of the company wired the Chinese backer for a barrel of the cereal.

In due time it arrived. Just before performance time, they opened the barrel. The rice inside was boiled.

LATEST GOSSIP

Little Tommy Clifford has sailed back to Ireland, his film career ended. Fox kept him on for many weeks, but could find no stories for him. They finally paid his return expenses and those of his aunt. A New York interviewer quotes Charlie Chaplin as saying: "I'm afraid I get rather provincial out in California." Come now, Charlie! . . . Personal to Mrs. M. P.: The girl you write about could not be Joan Crawford. She lives in Santa Monica with her husband, Douglas Fairbanks, Jr. Robert Montgomery and his wife will go to New York on a month's vacation after he finishes his new picture. They'll leave the baby. . . . Helen Chandler had developed Klieg eyes and production has been suspended on "Salvation Nell." . . . Arthur McLaglen, who has just been married, will play a small part in Brother Vic's next picture at Fox. . . . It is said to be definitely decided that Warner Baxter will do "St. Elmo."

TEN YEARS AGO TODAY

Press agents' stories were just the same. A Los Angeles paper carried this item: "When T. L. Tally closes the run of 'Kismet,' starring Otis Skinner, on Friday there will be a feeling of regret on the part of all employees of the theater and the members of the prologue in fact a spirit of regret, bordering on sadness, pervades the theater even now."

The silent version of "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court" also was being released at this time.

Simultaneously in Los Angeles film theaters were running "Kismet," "A Connecticut Yankee," Charles Chaplin's "The Kid," D. W. Griffith's "Way Down East" and Pola Negri's "Passion."

Work piled high, but she must go home!

A monthly occurrence! Her employer says nothing, and yet—

CAPABLE—she knows every detail of her work. Efficient—down to the very tips of her speeding fingers. Fully dependable—until a certain period every month. Then—good only to make excuses! But excuses do not halt the pains. Midol does.

Any woman who still submits meekly to the rule of the calendar should investigate the merits of these menthol tablets at once. They are as harmless as they look. You take them when your time comes, and you don't suffer. Or, if pains have started, they will subside in five to seven minutes. Mail coupon today!

Specialists produced Midol for just one specific service—to end periodic suffering without harm. Without any hindrance to the normal periodic process, Midol is not a narcotic. So you may take it as often as there is need.

Over a million modern women who depend on this comfort avoid even one moment of periodic pain. Just say "Midol" to your druggist.

Mammy Goose CAN'T Cough

KATHLEEN MALONE (MAMMY GOOSE)

"RADIO people must be particularly careful of their voices," says Miss Malone, whose original sketches and songs have made "Mammy Goose" a household word to thousands. "Hoarseness or coughs would just ruin a program."

That's why so many radio entertainers like to have Pertussin always close by. They can rely on it to relieve coughs quickly.

They like it, too, because it is entirely free from narcotics and injurious drugs and is pleasant to take.

These winter months are coughing months. Watch out! Take Pertussin. It's so safe, doctors have prescribed it for children's coughs for 25 years. It gets at the cause of the irritation. Stop in at your druggist for a bottle today.

NEW SHOW FOR NIXON AND IS MR. BROWN A-TWITTER!

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The company that has been rehearsing the new musical comedy, "Making Mary," in New York, was expected to move into the Nixon this morning. The schedule called for a dress rehearsal on the stage this afternoon, but, since "The Blue Bird" also is on the card for a matinee, it will be late before that rehearsal gets under way.

Yet there will be this evening, and Saturday and Sunday—and even Monday—in which to make final preparations for the first public presentation on any stage of this latest melange of tunes, fun and stepping in the Nixon Monday night.

ANTICIPATION

Harry Brown, manager of the Nixon, is all a-twitter. These "world premiere" happenings do excite even a blase theater magnate. Although Mr. Brown just passed through one a few weeks ago, when "America's Sweetheart" made its debut and, incidentally gave the radio crooners a new song, "I've Got Five Dollars," Mr. Brown is all anticipation.

On his stage chorus girls will parade. Harry gets the first look. Principals will sing new songs. Harry gets the first earful. Comics will try out their comedy. Harry gets the first laugh. The director will wave his baton. Someone in the orchestra will hit a sour note. Harry gets the first headache. The final big dress rehearsal probably will take place Sunday evening, by which time Harry likely will not be so much a-twitter.

REALIZATION

Anyway, the company will be plenty glad to hit the hay that night, for it will be the end of six weeks of work for them—the producer and various directors. It was that long ago that Charles Gordon, producer, passed the word along that rehearsal was to begin, and 24 hours later the tryouts for positions were under way. Talent was "scouted" and engaged and trained and now here we have the result.

I'm almost all a-twitter myself.

NEW ALVIN COMEDY HAS MADGE KENNEDY

The Alvin, for the week beginning Monday evening, will present Madge Kennedy in the comedy, "Michael and Mary." This piece is from the pen of A. A. Milne, the English writer whose literary activities embrace essays, poetry and drama. "Michael and Mary" was a success all last season in New York, and Miss Kennedy comes here from engagements in Chicago and Philadelphia.

Paul McGrath will appear in the role of a newspaperman, who is writing a novel, in "Up Pops the Devil," in the Pitt next week. Leneta Lane will be seen as his young wife who takes a job in a musical show in order to give him more time with his work. What happens when a man tries to run a home provides much of the comedy of the play.

New Silent Picture By Charlie Chaplin

Charlie Chaplin, whose "City Lights" had its premiere recently, is already planning his next production and probably will map out the story while on his trip to Europe. Chaplin's next may have a foreign setting, probably Spanish, which will give him an opportunity for a bullfight burlesque. It is expected the picture will again be silent, with synchronized music by Chaplin.

New Dance Feature In Show Boat Revue

Horton Spurr, late dancing feature in Zeigfeld productions, opens tonight on the Show Boat in the frolic, "Hello Prosperity." Others in the cast are Kay Carrington, Imogene Coco, LeMay and Louise, Freddy Bernard and the Tempting Daughters of Eve. Joe Hiller staged the show.

STOMACH UPSET

Get at the real cause. That's what thousands of stomach sufferers are doing now. Instead of taking tonics or trying to patch up a poor digestion, they are attacking the real cause of the ailment—clogged liver and disordered bowels.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets help arouse the liver in a soothing, healing way. When the liver and bowels are performing their natural functions, people rarely suffer from indigestion and stomach troubles.

Have you a bad taste, coated tongue, poor appetite, a lazy, don't-care feeling, no ambition or energy, trouble with undigested foods? Try Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets are a purely vegetable compound. Know them by their olive color. They do the work without griping, cramps or pain. All druggists, 15c, 30c and 60c.

Take one or two at bedtime for quick relief. Eat what you like.

SHE DIDN'T KNOW WHO TO CALL PAPA!

Come and laugh at the funniest and most charming picture of months—

So unusual! And so absorbing! He gathered about him the children of his romantic youth—to cheer his empty days. Little did he expect the complications that came along with pretty Tony of New York's Bowery. She took his old heart and won it completely. And she also took for herself the handsomest husband in town. There's a pack of the kind of entertainment you love in this enjoyable screen comedy with a heart-throb.

Little-Known Artichoke a Most Wholesome Food

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.,
Former Health Commissioner, New York City;
United States Senator from New York.

Are you wondering whether the artichoke is a disease or something to eat? I believe that the artichoke is comparatively little known in this country. It deserves greater popularity.

Of course the artichoke is a vegetable. It belongs to the thistle family and looks like a vegetable large flower. The [illegible] green and grow closely together to prepare artichokes for use. In Europe the [illegible] common use particularly in Italy and France. There are [illegible] tries export [illegible] canned artichokes. [illegible] States they are not extensively grown, although [illegible] chokes are produced in California.

A WHOLESOME FOOD

The artichoke is not a legume [illegible] nutritious as other vegetables. [illegible] have discussed. But they are wholesome, containing certain [illegible] the vitamins and minerals [illegible] and have real dietary value.

Because of their mineral salts [illegible] and because they are easily digested, they may be served to tender children. Indeed, the children by the fresh [illegible]

SIMILAR TO ASPARAGUS

When the artichokes are tender, drain the water and serve either hot or cold with butter, sauce, mayonnaise or French dressing. The leaves are pulled off and the tender end is stripped of the flesh [illegible] eaten in a manner very similar to the eating of asparagus.

Upon reaching the center of the plant you will notice a fuzzy portion. Some [illegible] like this but since it is more or less bitter to the taste it is discarded by many. The artichoke is delicious and appealing even to the most discriminating individual.

It is pleasant for the housewife to find a vegetable which is comparatively unknown. It will serve as a surprise to her family.

MINTED CARROTS AND PEAS — Wash, scrape and cut 3 medium-sized carrots in ¼-inch slices, then in strips or fancy shapes, using the vegetable cutters. Cook in boiling, salted water 15 minutes, then drain. Put carrots in saucepan with 6 cup butter, ½ cup sugar and 1 tablespoon chopped fresh mint leaves. Cook slowly until soft and glazed. Drain and rinse thoroughly. 1 can of peas. Cook with butter, salt and pepper until heated through. Turn the peas onto a hot serving dish and surround with the carrots.

CEREAL FIG PUDDING — Two-thirds cup granular whole wheat cereal, 2-3 teaspoon salt, 1 quart milk, 2 eggs, 1 cup molasses, 1 cup

SUFFERED FOR 50 YEARS

If you suffer from constipation, read this enthusiastic letter from Mr. R. J. Foster, 108 Broadway, West Plains, Mo.

"I have been constipated for the last 50 years—taken all kinds of drugs with only momentary relief. I have been using your ALL-BRAN six weeks. It has given me permanent relief. I can heartily recommend it to be a certain remedy for constipation."

Eat this pleasant cereal and overcome constipation in a natural, safe way. Two tablespoonfuls of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN daily. In stubborn cases, serve with each meal. Do this and banish pills and drugs from your life.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also adds needed iron to the diet. Look for the red-and-green package at your grocer's. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

TELL IT TO SALLY

By SALLY MARTIN

Should a Girl Help Her Jobless Boy Friend?

The Boy Friend's Down on his Luck—

Broke!

Should Alice give him a lift?

Once, when Ladies were Clinging Vines, and Gents were supposed to be Sturdy Oaks, the world would have shuddered at such a notion . . .

But now—when ladies have votes and man-sized pay-checks—how about it? Can a gal help an honest guy in a pinch?

Alice wants to know.

"Dear Miss Martin:

"I feel as though I must ask you about my problem. Here it is:

Wants to Help Him

"About eight months ago I met a young man with whom I fell in love and who fell in love with me. When I met him I was badly down on my luck. My mother is a widow, and I had no job, so it was pretty tough going.

"This fellow, Bob, had a responsible position then, and he often wanted to help me out. I never did take a cent from him, even though he insisted. Well, since then he lost his job, and I found one. So here is the big puzzle that is worrying me.

"He has no money now. Not any at all, even for carfare and cigarets. And since I am working, and he is a fine fellow and I love him, I feel as though I should help him. He doesn't want me to, and has refused to accept it, but I have forced him to let me. Am I wrong? I know that if he were working, he'd help me. And I know that if he could find a job, he would be working.

In Dilemma

"Oh, I know he loves me. I have been going steady with him now for a long time. And I couldn't love him more than I do. I love him more than anything in the world, and I'm sure he is deserving. Do you think it is all right for me to help him? Or am I making a mistake?

"Should I break with him? I know some people think that I should. But, oh! I can't. Please help me. I will be waiting anxiously for your answer.

"ALICE B."

Shall you help him over his tough spot, my dear?

Well, you know him better than I do. You know whether he's all wool and a yard wide . . . and whether he's actually trying to find work—or just using Old Man Depression as an alibi.

You know better than I do, whether or not he's worth helping. Some men aren't. Some men take advantage of such assistance and leave one holding the sack. That doesn't mean that I think this one would, however. If he is as good as you say he is, and is honestly making every effort to get back on his feet, I personally can't see any reason why you shouldn't lend him a hand.

The best of us can get down on our luck . . . can find the ground temporarily cut from under our feet. And when that happens, any friend worth his or her salt sticks . . . providing were's worth sticking to.

Makes No Difference

Of course, many will tell you that you shouldn't help because "he's a man and you're a woman." But what difference does that make in 1931? We women have demanded, and received, equality with men. We have jobs—we have freedom—we have votes. Why then shouldn't we be willing to face the same obligations and responsibilities.

Helping another fellow over rough going has been a man's responsibility ever since the human game began. Why shouldn't it now become a woman's responsibility?

That's my opinion and I'm advising you to go to it—if you're sure that your man is made of the right stuff. But—others may not agree. So how about it, Maybell and Rita, Dora and Kate? Also how about it, Jim and Ned, Don and Pete?

If you were in the B. F.'s place, would you accept it?

Few Great Men Wish to Live Forever in a State of Youth, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

Some years ago, when there was so much talk about monkey glands, goat glands and other means of rejuvenation, I asked Thomas A. Edison what he thought about it.

He grinned good naturedly and with a wave of his hand dismissed it all as ridiculous and declared it would never interest him.

If there were a way of prolonging in perpetual prime the lives of such great and useful men, or women, as Mr. Edison, the world would be enriched. But persons of that sort are not even wanting to live forever in a state of youth.

It would be the selfish, frivolous and vain who would avail themselves of the means to be gadding about forever in a whirl of useless gaiety.

Madge Thinks She Has Solved Problem of Gifts

At Mary's question I turned to her with a counter query which betrayed my annoyance.

"Has Noel been troubling you about that?"

"No, indeed." Her tone was emphatic, tinged with patent anxiety. "He hasn't said a word, but I know he's brooding over it. He's terribly resentful toward his father, you know—far more than I am—and I can fancy how he feels about having me accept the least favor from him. But I know you know best, and you've already told Mr. Veritzen he could send the flowers, haven't you?"

"Yes, I have." I told her. "But I have a problem or two of my own to work out concerning those flowers. "Run away and let me think some great thoughts for a few minutes. Then I'll talk to Noel."

She answered my laugh and flitted away while I put up my hair and changed to a frock suitable for the hotel luncheon table. Then I sat down and considered the problems which Noel's resentment against his father and Dicky's jealousy of Philip Veritzen had brought to me.

My nap had had one beneficial effect. I no longer was racked with anger against any one of the three at whom I had been so furious an hour before. Resentment I still felt toward all three of them—Dicky, Edith and Philip Veritzen. But I was able to look at their actions dispassionately and come to a decision concerning them unbiased by my own temper.

It did not take me long to make up my mind. There was one issue of vital importance before us all. That was the future of Mary and Noel. And upon Philip Veritzen, Noel's arbitrary father—half mad because of his thwarted arrogant plans for Noel's marriage—depended that future. In his anger he had disowned Noel and closed against Mary the door of fame he himself had opened when he had promised to make her the greatest Veritzen star. Worst of all, he had rendered Noel penniless by keeping from him his mother's patrimony, over which he had control until his son should reach the age of thirty-five.

If that anger could be placated if the great producer could be restored to sanity—for we all thought there was a touch of something akin to lunacy in his obsession concerning Noel—it would mean so infinitely much to the young couple whom we all loved so dearly that I felt almost any sacrifice—or any ruse—was justifiable in accomplishing the result desired.

I knew now what I meant to do about my own flowers, felt serenely confident—perhaps too much so—of Dicky's reaction to the talk with him which I meant to have, but I had grave misgivings concerning my coming interview with Noel. The boy had been hurt so terribly by his father's cruelty that talking to him about it was like probing a wound.

But it was a task which must be faced, and when I was all ready for luncheon I went into the living room and dismissed Mary under the pretext of wishing her to change her gown for luncheon. It was but a flimsy pretense, but Mary acted upon it with alacrity, and I sat down opposite Noel with the feeling that I was intruding crassly upon the boy's sensitive feelings.

"Noel," I said, "I am going to ask you a personal favor, but I warn you that it will be a hard thing for you to grant."

He bent toward me, and, lifting my hand, put it to his lips with a charming Old World gesture.

"Dear lady," he said fervently, "I owe you too much not to honor any request of yours. Without your divine kindness in my—trouble—I do not know what would have happened to me. Whatever you ask of me I am only too eager to grant."

"I ought not to take advantage of that, Noel," I said, "but I must. And I want you to believe that I have looked at the matter from all sides and considered your own viewpoint very strongly before making the request. It is because I believe that there is no use harboring resentment against a man only partly sane that I am asking you not to object to Mary's wearing your father's flowers tonight."

He half sprang from his seat with a passionate "No, no!" then sank back again while his eyes looked entreatingly into mine. If I had consulted my heart instead of my reason I should have told him he was perfectly right in his resentment. In his place I should have felt like snatching the flowers sent to Mary and throwing them back into his father's face.

I faced his steady gaze, feeling as if I were on trial. And then he said a surprising thing.

"Are you going to wear my father's flowers tonight?" he asked.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Saturday, February 21

While this day may be lively enough, nevertheless a very precarious state of affairs must be presaged under the generally adverse stellar configurations. There is augury of precipitate change or travel, but there are no signs of progress or achievement. Personal affiliations may also prove anxious or disturbing.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which it will be difficult to make much headway against tenacious obstacles and frustrating circumstances. There may be a suddenly precipitated state of affairs meaning unwelcome and hazardous change, and finances as well as personal associations may be cause for anxiety.

A child born on this day should be versatile and clever, but should be well trained to meet and overcome many obstacles and setbacks in life.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Vaccine Treatment in Scarlet Fever

Scarlet fever is the most contagious of all the diseases that come to plague our children. Like diphtheria, it can and should be prevented. This can be accomplished, many authorities believe, by the use of certain vaccines.

Dr. Copeland.

Scarlet fever is a disease that appears almost without warning. It begins with sore throat, fever and a bright red rash. Vomiting is often an early symptom.

The tip of the tongue is very red. There may be a white furring, with red points here and there. This is spoken of as a "strawberry tongue."

Peeling of the skin begins soon after the appearance of the rash. Mild as the symptoms may be, this is a pretty sure sign of scarlet fever.

During the past few years most cases of scarlet fever have been of a mild form. However, the dangers are not so much from the disease itself. They lie in the complications that may appear during or after the acute symptoms have appeared.

Because of these dangers the best medical and nursing care are necessary in all cases of scarlet fever. Infections of the ears, enlargements of the glands of the neck, pneumonia and kidney diseases, may result even in the lightest attacks of scarlet fever.

The disease is highly contagious and all cases must be isolated. Quite frequently mild forms are overlooked entirely, or carelessly handled by the family. Such cases are a menace to a community, because of the spreading of the disease. They cause much discomfort and illness that could have been prevented.

Due to the marvelous work of the Drs. Dick and other research workers, we now have at our disposal a means of determining whether children are susceptible to this disease. By means of the Dick test, we can determine definitely whether a child should be injected with scarlet fever vaccine. This procedure is similar to the Schick test for diphtheria.

Every child should receive a Dick test as well as a Schick test. The procedure is indeed simple and the benefits great. If all individuals co-operated with their physicians and local health bureaus with reference to these simple tests, the percentage of diphtheria and scarlet fever would soon be greatly decreased. Indeed we might look forward to eradication of these dread ailments.

If there are young children in your home, please talk with your family physician about these ailments. He will advise you about the modern methods of preventing them. It is only by voluntary co-operation that the public can be spared many of its afflictions.

If one had only himself to consider it would be easy to travel through life. But we must consider the common welfare. That is why it is certainly the unselfish thing to accept vaccination against the diseases which are believed to be prevented by such treatment.

Answers to Health Queries.

G. H. Q.—What would you advise for terrible noises in the ears? This has been going on some time. I am 67 years of age.

A.—The noises are probably due to a catarrhal condition which has penetrated to the middle ear. Clear up the underlying causes first of all.

E. P. T. Q.—What do you advise for pimples?

2. What would cause a lump the size of a walnut to form on the left side, just under the breast?

3. How much should a girl of 22, 5 feet 5 inches tall weigh?

A.—Correct the diet by cutting down on sugar, starches and coffee. Eat simple food. Avoid constipation.

2. Have an examination to locate the cause.

3. She should weigh about 130 pounds. This is about the average weight for one of your age and height, as determined by examination of a large number of persons. A few pounds above or below the average is of little or no significance.

The Beauty Box

By HELEN FOLLETT

To restore firmness to the breasts get a tube of lanolin and apply this nourishing oil every night, with flattened palms. Be gentle, as the glands of the breast are delicate and easily injured. Every morning turn on the cold spray, being careful not to chill the fingers. The idea is to send the blood rushing to the place where it will do the most good.

That the upkeep and overhead of beauty is no pin money investment is proven by the 1929 report of the Bureau of Census, which states that, during that year, the American female of the species spent more than 200 million dollars on articles of the toilet table, perfumes, creams, hair tonics, hair dyes and the rest of the pulchritude helps. Ideas have changed since the days when great-grandmother was a girl, and dipped a clean handkerchief into the flour bin, applying the handkerchief to her complexion when nobody was looking. What a sly demon she was!

No woman can have radiant health unless she has plenty of fresh air. Every day the lungs should have a flushing out—way down to the cellar cells—through five or 10 minutes of deep breathing. Stand erect, chest lifted, heels together, hands on hips. Take a long, slow, deep breath through the nostrils. Send the air out forcibly through the mouth with a whistle. Note the rosy flush that will appear upon your cheeks.

Benzoin has a bleaching effect upon the skin because it hurries up the process of ridding it of dead, discolored scales. Get a half ounce bottle of the simple tincture; there is a compound tincture that is too thick and strong. Be sure to ask for the simple tincture. Pour into a bottle which contains three ounces of rubbing alcohol. After washing face and hands at night, pour a half teaspoonful of the alcohol-benzoin combination into a bowlful of clear warm water and use as a rinse.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Widow's Wedding Ring.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Will you kindly help me in doing what is right? I am 28 years of age and am a widow. I have a darling little daughter 9 years old. I would like to know if it would be proper to discard my wedding ring, or should I wear it on my right hand? H. S.

A stranger would find it difficult to answer that question without knowing more of the circumstances, dear lady. If you loved your husband and still love his memory and are not considering marrying again, you would probably continue to wear your wedding ring . . . just as most widows do.

If you are to marry again, then when you announce the second engagement, you would discontinue wearing your wedding ring.

In no case would it be appropriate to wear the wedding ring on your right hand . . . there would be no point in this.

An Embarrassing Situation

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I received a greeting card with a girl's name signed to it and I cannot seem to remember her. The envelope had her return address on it. I want to know if it would be proper for me to write to her and try to find out just who she is. Will you please tell me if I should, and, if so, what should I say so that it would not seem so embarrassing?

QUEENIE.

I do believe that if you write to her and indicate the fact that you do not remember her it will undoubtedly embarrass her. Some other way of finding out who she is will, I am sure, occur to you, and I urge that you wait for this inspiration. If she lives in your town it will be easy enough for you to find out . . . If she lives out of town, perhaps you can get a friend of that town to "scout" for you.

Household Hints

Salt added to the rinsing water will prevent clothes from freezing.

In sending a child to the store for a bottle of milk a housewife made a canvas bag the size of a quart bottle with a handle long enough to slip over the arm. The bag was five inches in diameter and 10 inches high. This made it much easier to carry the bottle either empty or full.

Cake is a dainty luxury yet is one of the most uninteresting of foods if it is not strictly fresh and it is an extravagance to throw away cake just because it is a bit stale. Dip the cake in cold, sweet milk for a moment, and then reake it in a moderate oven. A cut piece of apple in the cake tin will also help to keep the cake moist and fresh.

Salt and water rubbed into the scalp will help prevent falling hair after an illness.

Honey Salad Dressing—Beat together three tablespoonfuls salad oil, two tablespoonfuls honey, one tablespoonful lemon juice and ⅛ teaspoonful salt; beat till well blended and serve at once.

Cloths for cleaning windows without use of water can be made with a semi-liquid paste of benzine and calcined magnesia. The cloth, which should be coarse linen or something free from lint, is dipped into this mixture and hung in the air until the spirits have evaporated and it is free from odor. This cloth may be used again and again and is a great convenience; when soled, wash and redip.

finely chopped figs. Scald the milk, shake in the cereal gently and cook 5 minutes. Add the figs, molasses and salt, and when cool, the well-beaten eggs. Turn into a baking dish and bake in a moderate oven—350 to 375 degrees F.—¾ of an hour. Serve with cream or custard sauce. If preferred the whites of eggs may be reserved, made into a meringue and placed on top of the pudding after it is cooked, returning the whole to a cool oven for 10 minutes to set and delicately color the meringue.

MACARONI A LA CREOLE SUPREME—Cook one package of macaroni, drain. Melt 2 tablespoons butter in a saucepan, add 1 tablespoon chopped green pepper and onion and cook 5 minutes, but do not brown. Cut ½ pound cold, cooked lamb into thin slices, add with 1 tablespoon flour, 1 cup brown stock, 1 cup strained tomatoes, 1 tablespoon lemon juice, 1 teaspoon horseradish, salt and pepper, to the sauce. Pile the hot macaroni on a platter. Pour lamb with the sauce over it, sprinkle with grated cheese and serve at once.

BROILED VEAL FILLET—Season a large, thick veal cutlet with salt, pepper and celery salt; place on the broiler rack and broil under a hot flame, turning as soon as brown. Reduce the heat when both sides are brown and broil 15 minutes. Thicken the pan gravy and serve with sliced tomatoes, cauliflower flowerets, buttered, and pour the thickened gravy over the meat.

CANDIED ORANGE OR GRAPEFRUIT PEEL—Peel of 4 medium-sized grapefruit or oranges, 2 cups sugar, 1 cup water. Remove peel from fruit. Cover with water and cook slowly until soft. Drain. Scrape out the white inner portion of the peel. With the scissors, cut the yellow skin into thin strips. To the sugar add water and cook to the temperature 238 degrees F. (soft ball in cold water). Add the fruit peel and cook slowly for 10 minutes. Drain in a coarse sieve. Drop a few pieces at a time into granulated sugar. Roll until each piece is completely covered with sugar.

ORANGE CUSTARD—⅞ cup sugar, 1-3 cup flour, 2 cups scalded milk, 2 eggs and 1 tablespoon butter, 2 oranges and grated rind of 1 orange. Mix flour and sugar and add to scalded milk and grated orange rind. Stir until thick and add beaten egg yolks. Stir well and cook for about 5 minutes. Remove from fire, add butter and fold in stiffly-beaten egg yolks. Chill and serve over orange slices, sweetened and chilled.

EGGS AU GRATIN—Make a white sauce of 2 tablespoons of flour, 2 tablespoons of butter and 1 cup of milk. Add ¾ teaspoon salt. Break 6 eggs carefully into a buttered baking dish. Cover with white sauce and then with 1 cup of grated cheese. Bake 15 minutes in a moderate oven. Serve 6. Apple and celery salad is good with this dish.

EGGS—ITALIAN STYLE—Cut 6 hard-boiled eggs into eighths lengthwise. Combine them with 1 cup cooked maracaroni, 2 cups of medium white sauce and ½ cup of grated cheese. Set over hot water, add 1 teaspoon onion juice, 1 teaspoon chopped parsley and serve very hot. Mushrooms may be added if desired.

EGG AND TOMATO CUSTARD—Beat 4 eggs and add 1 tablespoon cream, ½ teaspoon chopped parsley, salt and pepper to taste, 4 tablespoons tomato pulp, 1 tablespoon grated cheese and ¼ teaspoon onion juice. Mix thoroughly. Pour into buttered custard cups or casserole. Set in pan of hot water and bake in slow oven until the custard has set. Serve with crisp vegetable salad or potato chips.

CARAMEL BREAD PUDDING—Caramelize 1 cup of sugar and add to 4 cups of milk that have been scalded in the double boiler. When caramel has dissolved add 2 cups of stale bread crumbs and let dissolve or soak for 30 minutes. Beat two eggs slightly, add ⅔ cup sugar, ½ teaspoon salt and 1 teaspoon vanilla. Add to the first mixture, turn into a buttered baking dish and bake in a moderate oven for one hour. May be served with whipped cream instead of caramel sauce if desired.

CREAMED ONIONS—One and one-half pints small white onions, 1 cup evaporated milk, 1 cup water, 2 tablespoons butter, 1 tablespoon flour, ½ tablespoon salt, dash pepper.

Remove outer dry skin of onions carefully. Cook in 2 quarts boiling salted water in an open kettle until tender. Drain thoroughly and add to white sauce made of remaining ingredients. Serve at once. Yield: 5 servings.

TAFFY APPLES—One cup brown sugar, ½ cup water, ½ cup white sugar, 1 tablespoon butter, ½ cup corn sirup, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 teaspoon vanilla.

Cook sugar, corn sirup, salt and butter together until the sirup crackles when a bit is tried in cold water. Remove from the fire and add vanilla. Stick skewers in the stem end of firm, red apples that have been washed and dried. Dip one apple at a time in the hot sirup and place on a well-oiled pan to cool.

ESCALLOPED TURNIPS—Four cups diced turnips or rutabagas, 1 teaspoon salt, pepper, 1½ teaspoons butter, dash pepper, 1 cup boling water, 1 cup evaporated milk, ½ cup buttered bread crumbs, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ tablespoon salt.

Steam or boil turnips until tender. Drain thoroughly and turn into a buttered baking dish. Season with salt and pepper. Add white sauce made of butter, flour, salt, pepper, water and milk. Cover top with crumbs. Brown in a moderate oven (375 degrees F.). Serve hot. Yield: 5 servings.

ORANGE AND BANANA WHIP—Mash 3 large ripe bananas through a strainer. Add ¼ cup powdered sugar, and ¼ cup strained orange juice. Whip ½ pint of heavy cream until stiff, add the bananas and beat lightly with a fork. Pour into molds rinsed in cold water and lined with crushed nut meats. When ready to serve unmold and garnish with red jelly.

GOLDEN SALAD—Dissolve lemon-flavored gelatine in 1 cup boiling water. Add one cup pineapple juice, 1 tablespoonful vinegar and ½ teaspoon salt. Chill. When slightly thickened add 1 cup of diced and drained canned pineapple and 1 cup grated raw carrot and 1-2 cup broken pecan meats. Turn into individual molds. Place in a freezing compartment of the electric refrigerator. Chill 1½ hours. Unmold on crisp lettuce and garnish with mayonnaise.

SWISS EGGS—Spread the bottom of a baking dish with butter. Cover this with ⅛ pound of Swiss cheese sliced very thin. Break 6 eggs over the cheese, being careful not to break yolks. Season with grated nutmeg, salt and pepper. Pour ½ cup of heavy cream over the surface. Sprinkle with grated cheese and bake for 15 minutes. When done the dish may be set uncovered under the broiler flame for a few moments to brown the cheese slightly. Serves 6.

PIRATES LEAVE OMAHA

Sport Comment

By JAMES J. LONG

Bob Waddell Honored. • Regan Aid to Pirates.
City's Grid Prominence. Referees Beat System.
Cuyler to Lead Off. Athletes Star Students.

PLAID COACH ON SPECIAL RULES BODY

BOB WADDELL, football coach at Carnegie Tech, has been honored by an appointment to the special gridiron rules committee of the National Coaches' Association. The appointment was made by John F. (Chick) Meehan, head coach at New York University, who is president of the coaches' association, and gives the Pittsburgher the distinction of being one of only four men chosen throughout the country for this particular duty. Waddell is selected as the eastern representative, and the three others named represent the Middle West, the South and the Southwest. The choosing of the Tartan mentor is a tribute to the high standing of himself, Carnegie Tech and this city collegiate football.

Bob Waddell

Bob received word of his appointment yesterday. He will serve with Burt Ingwersen, coach at the University of Iowa, Iowa City, who is chairman of the committee; H. J. Robertson, the former Syracuse star, who is now coaching at Oglethorpe University in Atlanta, Ga., and Clyde Littlefield, coach of the University of Texas in Austin.

WADDELL IS ONE of the youngest men ever to be named on a football committee of such importance. He and Meehan have been close friends during the years that New York and Carnegie have been playing football and Chick has made no secret of the fact that he considers Bob one of the smartest football heads in the game.

With Dr. John B. Sutherland, headfootball coach at the University of Pittsburgh, chosen as one of the two coaches on the advisory committee to the national rules body, Pittsburgh is well represented in the circles that have a lot to do with the playing code that governs the popular autumn sport.

JOE McCARTHY, while bossing the Cubs, once planned to lift Kiki Cuyler to the lead-off position in the batting order. He never went through with it, but it is said that his successor, Rogers Hornsby, means to carry out the idea.

When Donie Bush shifted Cuyler from third place to second for the Pirates in 1927 Kiki objected so strenuously as to bring about a situation which led to his being traded. Hornsby looks for no trouble, however. He is prepared to point out that he did not kick when McCarthy moved him to No. 3 in 1929 to give Hack Wilson the clean-up berth.

WITH A LESS lively ball and tighter pitching, Hornsby believes that a run or two will win many ball games. He figures the Cubs will be in a better position to get the needed run or two with Cuyler leading off. He wants to take full advantage of Hazen's speed, ability to get on the bases and ability to steal. It will be the job of Woody English, second hitter, to help Cuyler along, and then, if Hornsby himself fails to knock Cuyler in, there will still be a chance with Wilson coming up fourth. Against the new group of pitchers, who, on account of the lapse in base stealing in recent years, have never had any training at holding runners on first, Hornsby believes Cuyler will be able almost daily to steal the ball park.

Bill Regan

RETURNING TO PLAY as a big leaguer at Forbes Field, almost on the spot where he was reared and where as a native kid he began his baseball career on Oakland's open lots, Bill Regan is one of the most popular additions to the Pittsburgh club in a long time.

The purchase of the home-grown second sacker from the Boston club of the American League meets with the hearty approval of Pirate followers, not only because of Regan's personal popularity or the fact that he will help Steve Swetonic and Jim Dempsey give native-son coloring to the squad, but because it looks like a deal that can hardly fail to aid the Buccaneers.

AMONG ALL THE experienced major league timber that it might be possible to obtain right now, it would be difficult to imagine a more helpful acquisition than Regan. Even though he is to be only a reserve he promises to be an important factor in whatever bid the Rovers may be able to make for the pennant.

A ball club can be no stronger than its substitutes, and Bill bolsters up a department that might have been a source of serious trouble. There has been an urgent need for a capable infielder with major league experience, and Regan fills the bill to a nicety. When he is in the lineup he and Tommy Thevenow will make a sweet defensive combination.

THE BUCS ARE doubly fortified now at the right side of the infield, with the former Red Sox keystoner as an insurance policy against the loss of the services of either George Grantham or Gus Suhr. If Grantham is out, Regan can hold down the second base job acceptably, and if Suhr is absent Grantham can be moved over to first base without weakening the midway. Regan is one of the steadiest and most reliable fielding second basemen in the big show, and though he never batted higher than .288 in the American League there is reason for feeling hopeful that a change of parks may help his hitting quite a bit. In a general sense it looks like a good deal for the Pirates. Regan's experience and steadiness ought to make him more helpful in emergencies than any of the younger reserves available for the right side of the diamond.

THE FACT THAT Vince Dundee, the winner, had to be sent to a hospital after his second fight with Len Harvey, whereas Harvey was as good as new, leads some New York critics to question the justice of giving decisions on rounds won. They are going back to the old theory that condition at the finish should count for something.

In this connection Wilbur Wood says several New York referees who are not in sympath with the scoring system now in vogue have a way of their own of getting around it. If a round is close they leave the space on the score card vacant. When the bout is over they fill in enough of the blank spaces with the name of the boxer they consider the winner to give him the edge in rounds.

TH CAPTURE OF the first-half honors in the American Professional Basketball League isn't the only evidence of the extraordinary strength and speed of the Brooklyn Visitation Triangles, who meet the Fintex five in South Side Market House tonight.

The Visitations recently proved their rare class in another way by defeating the Toledo Redmen, whose lineup included Dehnert, Barry, Banks and Lapchick, of the old world champion Celtics, by the surprising score of 32 to 13. In the secon half, the Redmen were held to four points, all made from the penalty line on free tries. It was the worst beating ever given to a team including so many of the old Celtic stars.

IN A NUMBER of cases which appear to contradict the assertion that football is overdone to the scholastic disadvantage of the players, and that the gridders cannot keep pace with the other students while giving so much time to pigskin activities in the spring and fall, two are particularly notable. at Penn, John Olsen, star tackle, and also a member of the crew, has graduated in mid-term, finishing a four-year course in three and a half years, which is unusual. At Harvard, Barry Wood, quarterback and captain-elect, had four A's in the mid-year exams, and one of them was an A plus. He has been an A man, the highest ranking, ever since he entered Harvard.

DETROIT, Feb. 20.—The Yellow Jackets of Pittsburgh, are conspicuously in third place in the International Hockey League, tied with Cleveland, as a result of a brilliant 3-to-2 victory over the Detroit Olympics here last night.

To gain victory, the Jackets had to stage a Garrison finish. All their goals came in the last period and the fight shown by the visitors in their belated rally won the plaudits of the Olympics' partisans.

Bernie Brophy, who once wore the spangles of a Pittsburgh amateur sextet, broke the scoreless deadlock after 40 minutes, and put the home team out front by batting the puck through Goalie Cox during a skirmish in front of the visitors' cage.

At the outset of the final period the Pittsburghers took the play away from their adversaries and were rewarded with a tying goal after two minutes of play. Tory Gregg snared the equalizer when he converted a neat pass from Leo Reise about 30 feet out and from a right angle.

Mickey McGuire drew a penalty for holding and the Olympics took advantage of their extra manpower by again breaking the deadlock with Daley on the scoring end. The goal was protested by the Pittsburghers.

A minute later the Yellow Jackets presented a beautiful opportunity when two Detroit defense men were penalized for tripping. Pittsburgh went out and garnered two goals in less than a minute with Cam Proudlock, the spare winger, on the scoring end of both goals. Eddie Rodden got assists on both markers. Late in the game, Frankie Frederickson, Detroit center, and former Pirate manager, was dumped by a severe check by Fraser. He had to be assisted from the ice and after an examination it was revealed he had suffered a broken right leg. The lineup:

Pittsburgh.		Detroit.
Cox	G.	Vezina
Fraser	L.	Hoffinger
Reise	C.	Kenny
Rodden	R.	Frederickson
McGuire	W.	McAdam
Gregg	W.	Steen

Spares—Pittsburgh, Bertoia, Smith, Daley, Fields, Proudlock, Whitty, McGuire. Detroit, Williams, Brophy, Daly, Gallinger, Gillie, M. Pierson, Herberts.

Referee, Jerry Laflamme.

First period—No scoring. Penalties, Proudlock (charging), Herberts, slashing, Hoffinger, tripping, White, elbowchecking, Steele (roughing), Lowrey, tripping, Steele, tripping, Brophy, tripping.

Second period—Detroit, Brophy (Daley), 10:16. Penalties, McAdam, tripping, Brophy, slashing.

Third period—Pittsburgh, Gregg (Reise), 2:45. Detroit, Daley (Brophy), 11:00. Pittsburgh, Proudlock (Rodden), 19:20. Pittsburgh, Proudlock (Rodden), 14:30. Penalties, McAdam (holding), Kenny, tripping, Hoffinger, tripping.

CECIL MEETS DUNLEVY

The semi-final round of the West Penn soccer cup will be the feature attraction at the Bridgeville Speedway tomorrow afternoon when Cecil and Dunlevy meet to decide which shall clash with Bridgeville in the final.

The game will be called at 2:30, and Referee Brannigan will be the official.

On Sunday, Herminie will clash with Gallatin at the latter's grounds, with O'Conner in charge of the game.

Billy Marks Stars On Court For Kiski Five

Wilson F. (Billy) Marks, of Kiski school, already a rising young star in golf and football, has added basketball to the string of sports in which he excels. In spite of the fact that he has been opposed by the best men in the district this season, he has succeeded in making a name for himself as a strong defensive player. Not a goal was scored against him him until the seventh game of the season, and then only on a fluke play when a St. Vincent's player shot a ball which Marks blocked, but which bounced from his finger tips and into the basket. Billy is a son of Jim Marks, Kiski's coach and inventor of famous football plays.

EXPLANATIONS OF RIPLEY'S CARTOONS OF YESTERDAY: THE MEMORIAL IN GALWAY, IRELAND—In the boundary wall at the Lombard street side of the Church of St. Nicholas, Galway, Ireland, stands the ancient monument known as "The Cross Bones," marking the spot on which was enacted the closing scene in one of the most pathetic tragedies in the history of Ireland, when Mayor Lynch Fitzstephen, chief magistrate of Galway, executed his own son, who was found guilty of murder. Young Lynch killed a prominent Spaniard in a fit of jealousy and was tried and convicted. No one could be found who would carry out the death penalty, and the Mayor himself furnished this most unique example of stern sense of justice. AN ANT WALKED AROUND AFTER ITS HEAD WAS CUT OFF—In a scientific experiment to determine the ant's ability to move its body without the use of its head, it was found that the insect walked around for 41 days after its head had been cut off. The details of the experiment are contained in "An Introduction to Biology," by Alfred C. Kinsey.

POPE DIVIDES WITH CHAMP

Ben Pope, handball and squash pro at the K. A. C., and J. L. Summers, of M. I. T., national squash racquets champion, will complete their two days of exhibition matches at the K. A. C. with two engagements today.

The stars will clash at 1 o'clock and again at 5:30, both matches to be played on the No. 4 court.

Yesterday Pope, who lost to Summers in the final of the national professional tournament at Boston last week, won four out of seven games from the champ. In the noon battles Pope defeated Summers 15-4, 15-13 and 18-15. In the evening, after winning the first fracas 15-12, Pope faltered and lost three in a row, by 15-18, 8-15 and 11-15 scores.

The Pittsburgh team, which will compete in the national championships in Buffalo tomorrow, Sunday and Monday, will leave for the Empire State city tonight. The team will be composed of McCook Reed, of the K. A. C.; F. S. White, former national champion; Percy Siverd, of the P. A. A.; Frank McClintock, of the University Club; Dave Gilmore, of the Allegheny C. C., and probably G. L. Stocking, of the K. A. C., and Scott Burke, of the P. A. A.

BATES DEFEATED

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Merritt Bates, of Dallas, Texas, National Y. M. C. A. handball champion, was eliminated yesterday in the third round of the tournament in progress here, by Sam Atcheson, of Memphis, Tenn., former Southern champion 21-10 and 21-19.

MRS. HURD IN FINAL

HAMILTON, Bermuda, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Mrs. Dorothy Campbell Hurd, of Philadelphia, former United States champion, advanced to the semi-final round of the annual Belmont Manor ladies' golf championship yesterday. She defeated Mrs. J. L. Ashworth, of Toronto, 8 and 6, and Miss A. Aked, Toronto, 8 and 7.

SPORT VIGNETTES

Report out of Cleveland has it that Karl E. Davis, former graduate athletic manager of the University of Pittsburgh, now the athletic chief at Western Reserve University, is angling for the services of Andy Kerr, the Colgate football coach, to take over the reins there . . . Andy is the former Pittsburgh Central High School, Pitt freshman, Stanford University and Wash-Jeff mentor, and a longtime friend of the said K. E. . . . They are plotting to dump the world middleweight title into the lap of Jackie Fields . . . former welterweight king, who now is managed by Jack Kearns and trained and seconded by James (Red) Mason, local dean of fistic handlers . . . Mickey Walker, the present 160-pound champ, also is the property of Kearns and is the blacklist of most of the state commissions for not defending that bauble and will chuck it if he gets any sort of a break among the second-rate heavies now bamboozing the public . . . He meets Johnny Risko, whom he already has beaten once, at Miami next Tuesday night . . . Fields is matched with Len Harvey in Madison Square Garden, New York, March 13, subject to the approval of the boxing commission there . . . Incidentally, Len is anything but a superstitious guy . . . His second bout with Vince Dundee, last week, came on Friday, the thirteenth, and his Fields battle is set for the same sort of an occasion . . . But Fields figures to hand him a pasting on any night of any day of any month of any year . . . Too much class.

Max Schmeling and Young Stribling, who will fight this summer for Maxie's alleged heavyweight title, will appear in exhibitions against sparring partners as added features of the Walker-Risko card, which is being promoted by Stribling's old man, Pa Stribling. . . . The show is booked for the Madison Square Garden Stadium in Miami, and seats sell for as low as $2 and $3, and there are 30,000 of 'em.

Bobby Jones (the one and only) will write for your favorite newspaper (the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, of course) beginning the first of next month. . . . He will have two articles a week, one on Sundays and the other in midweek. . . . Bobby still is THE big Big Shot of the golfing world, although he has forsaken his amateur status, what with his radio and movie appearances and his great background as a world record-breaker. . . . Mrs. Betty Carver, wife of our own Jess, is the coach of that fine girls' basketball team of Aliquippa High School, which has been turning in so many splendid victories this season.

Lou Alman, of the Y. M. H. A., the new junior handball champion of the Allegheny Mountain Association, of the A. A. U., is the former Duquesne University basketball star . . . Sam Dreyfuss, treasurer of the Pirates, is a sicker man than he would have you believe . . . He has been battling against pneumonia . . . . The G. A. Salzmann who is working on a dicker to take over the Hazleton club, of the New York-Pennsylvania League, along with several partners, is a Carrick man . . . No one will have to show Bill Regan how to get to Forbes Field, where he will have a locker key this season . . . . Bill started in the game on the sandlots of Oakland and went from there by stages to Columbus in the American Association and then to the Red Sox . . . . Like the fireman who in the dead of night clambers

RANDALL BOXES TED YAROSZ

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

One of those fistic rareties—an unbeaten gladiator—will be on exhibition in the 10-round main bout at the Moose Temple tonight. He is Teddy Yarosz, of Monaca, who has swept through 36 professional bouts with no decision ever going against him. He meets Tiger Joe Randall, Negro, formerly of Elizabeth, Pa., now of the Lincoln avenue district. It is a return engagement, Yarosz having upset the dope by thumping out a victory over the Tiger when he subbed on short notice for Tom Malco against Randall at Hickey Park, Millvale, one night last summer.

Joe Randall

TIGER'S HEEL O. K.

Randall, famed as a good right-hand puncher, came out of that battle with a good alibi. A trick heel, injured in a bout with Larry Madge at the Moose Temple some months before and operated on, went back on him in an early round and he hobbled on to the finish. He hasn't fought since, but has been assured by his doctors that the injury will not bother him again. An operation that saw a bit of kangaroo tendon inserted to take the place of a torn Achilles tendon, plus rest are said to have made the heel stronger than it was originally, and he will be in there tonight punching it out for revenge in an attempt to regain his former status as one of the leading welterweights of the district.

BUCS' PARTY INCREASED TO 26

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

OMAHA, Feb. 20.—Rolling out of Omaha this morning, the Pirate advance squad had grown to 26 people. The vanguard leaving Pittsburgh was comfortably sheltered in one Pullman, but two cars were necessary to house the players and others as they pulled out of Chicago last night. The diamond performers were all in good shape, and in a happy mood, as they reached Omaha today. The schedule gave the travelers 30 minutes for relaxation after the Chicago Northwestern road had delivered the special cars to the Union Pacific at this point.

ROOKIES JOIN PARTY

The fly in the ointment to the otherwise happy crew had to do with Paul Waner, great hitter of the team, who is confined to a hospital in St. Louis.

Three sharpshooters climbed aboard the special when the train pulled into Omaha. They were Claude Willoughby, former Quaker star; Lloyd Vernon Kennedy, who pitched in the Mississippi Valley League last season, and John Vanusek, a lefthanded semi-professional of Minneapolis.

The stop at Chicago last night was marked by the addition of a squad of Pirates of varied hue. In this group were Ervin Brame, Andy Bednar, George Grant and James Bivin, pitchers; Hal Finney, catcher; Ben Sankey and Tony Piet, infielders, and Oscar Stanage, coach. Also in the party was Mrs. Brame, who is enjoying a honeymoon trip with her husband.

ONE MORE PICKUP

Only one more pickup is listed before the first squad reaches the Paso Robles camp. The train is due to reach Cheyenne tonight, and at that point Charley Wood, the sensational left-hander, who came to the Pirates from Wichita, is slated to climb aboard. Wood recently suffered an attack of flu, but apparently is well over the ailment.

The fact that the present route of the team is new to the athletes adds much to the entourage. The northern route has given the players an opportunity to take in another kind of wild scenery and they are enjoying every hour of it.

That the Pirates killed at least two birds with one stone in acquiring Bill Regan, Red Sox secondbaseman, is the opinion of Manager Jewel Ens. The whole of the traveling Buccos today expressed pleasure over the deal, the feeling being the Pittsburgh boy will prove a reliable performer for the Freebooters.

Chillysauce

Standing out among the new Pirates is Catcher Fodie Phillips, whom the Buccos recently secured from the Athletics, the Marklans having drafted this backstopper from the Toronto club of the International League. Phillips caught about 140 games for Steve O'Neil last season. He was with the Detroit Tigers the previous season, but after a sensational start, he broke his left shoulder in a jam play at the plate and the six weeks of inactivity that followed had the effect of throwing him into a serious slump.

Eddie was batting beyond .350 for the Tigers and was working every day when the accident occurred. He has entirely recovered from the misfortune and now the big boy says he is out to show some real stuff.

"The fellow who beats me out for the regular catching job will have to be just about the best catcher in the league," said the smiling receiver, without any show of boasting. It was a remark filled with the confidence that reposes in the athlete.

Phillips is a reminder of Leo Hartnett, the Clubs' star. He played four years of varsity football at Boston College before he entered professional baseball.

Al M. Becker, genial passenger representative of the Pennsylvania, accompanied the Pirates as far as Chicago. Al proved himself a true host, his entertainment making the long daylight ride one of much enjoyment. F. N. Hurd, Jr., of the Southern Pacific offices, also was with the Buccos on a part of the journey. His road will take over the athletes in Ogden.

NEW YORK CLUBS LEAVE

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(INS.)—Today was get-away day for the three New York major league ball clubs, the Giants, Yankees and Brooklyn Robins. The first contingents of the teams will leave today for the South to begin training grinds.

The Giants will be at San Antonio, the Yankees at St. Petersburg and the Robins at Clearwater, Fla.

First workouts are scheduled on Monday.

CENTRAL LOOP TO MEET

The Pittsburgh Central Baseball League will meet at Honus Wagner's this evening for its first get-together of the season.

All of last year's team are expected to be on hand, and any other first-class club in the district filling the bill will be welcomed. The meeting will be called at 7:30.

TEMPLE DEFEATED

NEW YORK, Feb. 12.—(AP.)—Manhattan College's basketball team snapped Temple University's 14-game winning streak, and stretched its own string of consecutive triumphs to 17 games last night, winning, 19-18.

Grove City Passers to Be Guests of Jackets at Waynesburg Tonight

WIN WILL CINCH BUNTING FOR TUNNELITES

GAMES TODAY.

CITY LEAGUE.
SECTION I.
Schenley at Connelley.
Westinghouse at Peabody.
Fifth at Allderdice.
SECTION II.
Vocational at Carrick.
South Hills at Perry.
Oliver at Allegheny.

The scholastic basketball campaigns for this district, both City League and W. P. I. A. L., enter the gloaming of the season with today's contests and present a card well filled with feature attractions.

In the City League, where the race is very badly scrambled, some order may be brought out of disorder if South Hills is able to defeat Perry in Section II. Such a victory will just about clinch the title for the Tunnelites. On the other hand, if Perry wins, it looks like the boys will have to witness a playoff series between South Hills and Allegheny.

TOUGH GAMES CARDED

In Section I, where Schenley and Westinghouse are trailing South High, the situation can be cleared up somewhat if either of the second placers should lose. Schenley meets Connelley and figures to win, while Westinghouse, tackling a rejuvenated Peabody array, may find the going tougher.

Other games on the card include the Fifth-Allderdice contest in Section I and the Vocational-Carrick and Oliver-Allegheny tangles in Section II.

There are five outstanding attractions in the W. P. I. A. L. games in which sectional titles may be decided.

In Section III, New Castle and Butler will battle, with New Castle facing the prospect of cinching its second consecutive crown by repeating the first half win over Butler. A win for Butler will throw the race into a deadlock.

Homestead can clinch the honors in Section VII by beating Duquesne, Elizabeth having helped the Homestead cause along by beating the Dukes in an upset game Tuesday.

SCOTTDALE MUST WIN

Scottdale and Uniontown, tied for the lead in Section X, where Greensburg was removed for playing an ineligible man, both must win to stay in the running. Uniontown plays at Mt. Pleasant and Scottdale, coached by Mose Lantz, former Grove City football luminary, engages Connellsville.

Turtle Creek will seek to hand Scott High of North Braddock its first defeat in Section VIII. A win for Turtle Creek tonight and another for Braddock next Tuesday will toss the race into a tie.

Shady Side Academy's basketball team last night departed for Buffalo, where it will play the Nichols School in a Tri-State Preparatory School League game tomorrow. Capt. Palmer headed the squad.

The complete W. P. I. A. L. card follows:

SECTION II.
Sewickley at Ambridge.
Avalon at Bellevue.
Leetsdale at Ben Avon.
SECTION III.
Mars at Evans City.

Jennings Tops Public Parks Tennis Stars

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—George J. Jennings, of Chicago, is rated as the 1930 public parks tennis leader in the rankings made public today by Winfree Johnson, chairman of the national ranking committee.

Ray Conger Victor In 1,000 Meters Run

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—A split vote of the judges has added another victory to Ray Conger's long list of triumphs and charged Paul Keller, 800-meter champion of France, with his third straight defeat on American indoor tracks.

Conger was awarded the decision over Keller in a blanket finish in the special 1,000-meters run of the New Jersey A. A. U. track and field championships here last night. Three of the finish line judges thought Conger won, while the other two voted for Keller.

Colts Get New Stars From N. Y. Yankees

CUMBERLAND, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Four pitchers and a catcher who were recommended to the club by the New York Yankees, have been acquired by Cumberland, of the Middle Atlantic League, President Nelson W. Russler has announced.

TILDEN COPS AGAIN

BALTIMORE, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—William T. Tilden II last night continued on his way to the world indoor professional tennis championship by taking the second leg of a nine-match series from Karel Kozeluh in straight sets, 6-2, 6-4, 6-1. The attendance was 3,500.

Waner's Disability Is Indefinite, Doctor Says

OMAHA, Feb. 20.—Although he still is worried over the condition of Paul Waner, who is suffering with a leg infection in a St. Louis hospital, Manager Jewel Ens, of the Pirates, was a bit cheered over a message he received concerning Paul from Barney Dreyfuss, owner of the Pirates.

Dreyfuss wired a message he received from Dr. Hyland, Cardinal physician, who is in charge of Brother Paul. The telegram was as follows:

"Dr. Hyland advises Paul Waner has infection of lower left limb, which he lanced to drain. Cannot tell yet the period of disability."

The Brooklyn Visitations, first half champions in the American Professional League, make their first appearance in the Greater Pittsburgh district tonight when they oppose the Fintex first half Allegheny County League champions at the South Side Market House.

The contest marks the return of the popular Market House as a center for basketball activities, the court having been used as a site for miniature golf during the last two years. The hall has been completely renovated and with new bleachers installed shapes up as one of the best courts in the district. Judging from the interest shown in the contest, the battle should draw a capacity crowd.

Vieing with the main attraction in the point of interest is the preliminary game featuring two of the best scholastic teams in the section. In this fray Coach Grover Washabaugh's South High passers engage the crack Kiski Prep School quintet. The first game starts at 8 o'clock.

Two other high-class independent tussles are listed tonight. The Canton Scherers, of Ohio, meet the Irene Kaufmann Settlement House passers on the Settlement floor, while the Trinity Cathedral Royals go to Washington, Pa., for an engagement with the Washington Y passers.

DIANA FISHWICK IS BEATEN

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Helen Hicks, the strapping young American girl who wallops a golf ball with musculine punch and power, scored a brilliant triumph yesterday over the blonde little British champion, Diana Fishwick, in the first major international match between the rival women's forces now concentrated on the Florida front.

They met in the semi-finals of the Florida women's championship tournament, over the course of the Palm Beach Country Club, and a fashionable gallery of fully 1,000 men and women braved the rain to watch Miss Hicks score a decisive victory, 6 and 5.

Virginia Van Wie, who shattered the Palm Beach course record with an astonishing 72, only four over men's par for the 5,744-yard layout, was victorious over Peggy Wattles, of Buffalo, N. Y., in the other semi-final match, also by a score of 6 and 5.

SPORT SHORTS

SPRINGFIELD, Mass.—(AP.)—An organization, known as the United States Amateur Baseball Association, has been formed with Eddie Collins, former big league outfielder, as national director. The objective of the new organization will be an international tournament, to be held as a certain-to-be feature of the Olympic games of 1932. It will be held in a coast city, and it is expected eight United States teams will compete against nines from Japan, Honolulu, Mexico, Canada, Cuba and Panama.

MORAGA, Cal.—(AP.)—Knute Rockne likes his football fresh or canned. The head man of Notre Dame's pigskin chasers sat in on some slow motion pictures showing his team beating Southern California in Los Angeles last December and he nearly jumped out of his seat. Came an end run by the opposing team. Rockne shouted "Get that guy!" When his own halfbacks carried the ball, he yelled: "Cut in, cut in!" As in the real game, Notre Dame won, 27-0. Rockne was all fagged out when the picture was over.

LONDON.—(AP.)—The football match yesterday in the English League, First Division, between Blackburn Rovers and Sheffield United, resulted in a victory for the Rovers by a score of 2 to 1.

PHILADELPHIA.—(AP.)—Eugene J. Connell, former University of Pennsylvania star catcher, has signed a contract with the Philadelphia National League Baseball Club, and will leave Tuesday with the batterymen for the Phils' spring training base at Winter Haven, Fla. During his college days Connell was one of Pennsylvania's leading hitters.

PENSACOLA, Fla.—(AP.)—With an 18-hole pro-amateur contest arranged today as a preliminary test to the third annual $3,000 Pensacola open, starting tomorrow, the nation's touring professionals halted here for their first Florida event of the season. The long and wooded country club course, lengthened considerably by Pensacola Bay and with a difficult 71 par, was in fine condition awaiting the onslaught of the experts from the moneed ranks.

JERSEY CITY, N. J.—(AP.)—Injured in a boxing contest Wednesday night, Al Van Whaley, 18, Newark Negro, died yesterday in the medical center. He was knocked out of the ring in the first round, fell unconscious in the fourth, and was rushed to the hospital. His opponent, Tommy Phillips, a Negro, of Jersey City, was arrested on a technical charge of manslaughter.

NEW YORK.—(AP.)—Philip Hirschberg, of Newark, N. J., dropped two games in the eastern open three-cushion billiard tournament yesterday. He lost first to Arthur Woods, of Pawtucket, R. I., 40 to 30, in 48 innings, and then fell before Frank Copeland, of Cleveland, 40-32 in 54 innings.

Fight Results

At Coral Gables, Fla.—Art Dekuh knocked out Antonio Mata, 2 rounds.

BAN JOHNSON'S CONDITION IMPROVED

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Following a restful night, Ban Johnson, former head of the American League, has a "fighting chance" to pull through his present illness, his physician, Dr. Robert F. Hyland, said today.

Johnson's condition, up to last night, had been growing steadily worse, but this morning he was able to sit up for a short time. The former baseball czar underwent a blood transfusion yesterday which was followed by a chill.

The condition of his foot, following amputation of a toe recently, was growing better, Dr. Hyland said, and whether baseball's stalwart old figure will recover, depends on "his frame of mind" and his blood.

Mrs. Johnson arrived in St. Louis from Spencer, Ind., last night and was at the bedside of her husband this morning.

arranged a nifty supporting cast for his show, the only one of the week in the Pittsburgh district, with Motor Square Garden given over to the food show and the McKeesport billing of last night postponed one week, due to the illness of three of the battlers slated to go.

HILL MAKES DEBUT

Freddie Hill, of Detroit, makes his local debut against Mose Butch, promising southpaw bantamweight, of Oakland, in the semi-final. Harry Fine and Eddie Hebner, of Clairton, are down for the second number, and Al Munro, Negro welterweight, of the Hill, substitutes for Jackie Murray, who injured a hand training against Joey Spiegel, of Uniontown, in the opener, which gets under way at 8:30 o'clock.

Between Rounds

Harry Devine boxes Ray Collins and Leo Pethone meets Jesse Sexton in tenth bout tonight at Erie. Eddie Shea and Frankie Bonnie, Gregory Bataja and Herman Perino and Hugh Hamilton and James Harris, Granton Hendricks and Madison Square Garden's Nea Vela, who operates Shea and Mike Jacobs, Garden boss, are matched at an agreement tonight in New York. Johnny Jadick meets Ray Miner at the Arena. Young Corbett middles with Pancho Walker in a scheduled bout this week. Tommy Loughran and Pat Rocco fought a draw at San Francisco. Pee Wee Wilson takes on Frankie Morton at Parkersburg, W. Va., tonight. Mickey Vance and Jackie Good and Johnny Miller take on Tommy Herman at Baltimore and Jimmy Smith is paired with Jimmy Dwyer and Bob Schilling with Andy Mellon in Philadelphia.

Maxie Rosenbloom, the light heavyweight champion, boxes Marty Gallagher, Washington heavyweight, in a special eight-round bout on the Primo Carnera-Jim Maloney card at Miami, Fla., March 5. Stanley Poreda and Jimmy Braddock will meet opponents to be selected for them in six-round preliminaries.

Joe Reichan, of Newark, O., wants to box Jackie Rodgers, Kenny Dunn or any of the other featherweights around here.

Add to the list of good local amateur referees who rate a chance to do their stuff in the professional ranks the name of Ralph Stanton.

The following bouts have been arranged for the amateur boxing show to be held at the Hippodrome next Monday night for the benefit of the needy of the Thirteenth Ward, under the auspices of the Homewood-Brushton Hoosiers' Baseball Club and the Thirteenth Ward Regular Republican Association: 118 pounds, Sam Avis vs. Paul Monar and Frank Tatomer vs. Johnny Sheppler, 126 pounds, Jimmy Glanfalia vs. Eddie Mc Dowell; 135 pounds, Eddie Zivic and Burke Vargo vs. Gerald Clements, 135 pounds, Matty Marks vs. Andy Zelin, Pat Powers vs. Al Vangura, Don Astro vs. Bill Hutson, Johnny Birch vs. Terry George, Flashy Sam Avis vs. Jimmy Hazel and Steve Smith vs. Bob McCormick; 147 pounds, Dan Skorka vs. Harry Seig, 160 pounds, Walter Schiawski vs. Bernie Leisch, 175 pounds, Gerald Kowalczak vs. Butch Jacobs, and, heavyweight, Eddie Sagh vs. George Hollings, and Slim Kovac vs. Dutch Weir. Harry J. Neaman is chairman of the general committee in charge of the show.

Benny Schwartz, Baltimore bantamweight, returned to town yesterday and plans to stay here and box.

Harry Williams, Negro light-heavyweight, has been forced to retire to Cincinnati because of a lack of work here.

The meeting between attorneys for Jackie Rogers and his manager, Johnny Deutsch, scheduled for Wednesday and postponed, will be held in the office of the boxing commission on the Koppers Building at 4 o'clock this afternoon. It will be a secret confab, newspapermen being barred by order of Commissioner Havey Boyle.

Ellsworth Giles, Jr. In Semi-Finals

SOUTHERN PINES, N. C., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Ellsworth Giles, Jr., of Pittsburgh, who won the medal, continued his onward march in the Atlantic Coast golf tournament yesterday by defeating Dr. A. M. Brown, Franklin, Pa., 5 and 3, in the semi-finals.

The former Princeton star will meet Hunter Eckert, Reading, Pa., today in the title match. Eckert put out Charles Davis, Thousand Islands, N. Y., 1 up, in the semi-finals.

While her husband was qualifying for the final in the men's division, Mrs. Hunter Eckert also advanced in the women's tournament, defeating Mrs. L. Smith, Southern Pines, 5 and 3, in the semi-finals. In the championship contest Mrs. Eckert will play Babie Gustafson.

JONES TOPS SEKYRA

Building Up Big Fights

By IKE DORGAN,
The Man Behind Tex Rickard's Fistic Ballyhoos.

CHAPTER XXXV.

Jack Dempsey came to the Tex Rickard fold one of the best ballyhooed fighters that ever fought for a title. Jack Kearns had taken good care of that. When it comes to putting a fighter into the public eye, Kearns had few equals.

Tex Rickard.

There were times in Dempsey's career, before he got as far as the Willard fight, and, indeed, after it, that Jack protested to Kearns that he "couldn't live up to the ballyhoo."

Kearns could talk a fighter into victory and he certainly talked Dempsey into whipping Willard when the time came.

So, much of the press-agenting for that battle had been put over before Kearns signed Dempsey in the Biltmore that day.

I'll never forget old Bat Masterson, fire-eating, two-gun man of Dodge City days, and then the caustic boxing critic of the Morning Telegraph of New York, upbraiding Kearns for making any such fool match.

"You ought to get the pants kicked off you for pitting that poor little kid against Jess Willard. You must be hungrier than a timber wolf. If I had my way, I'd call in the state troopers and have you ridden on a rail to the border. You've signed to get Jack Dempsey killed," Bat declared.

TRANSPORTATION PROBLEM

This speech, made before most of the writers who had come to see the signing, threw Tex into a panic. Bat was one of his staunch friends, and Tex didn't expect him to blast the making of the match. After all, Dempsey had proved himself the best contender in the country, despite the startling difference in the sizes of the men.

Tex finally arm-and-armed Bat out of the place before the testy Kearns could fire back at Masterson. He was all set to do it.

With Dempsey and Willard matched, Rickard faced one of his greatest publicity problems. The war was just over and Rickard realized that transportation would be sadly handicapped because of the limited supply of through trains from different sections of the country. Tex soon was to learn that he had to move heaven and earth to get specials.

But the Old Fox was undaunted. He began to fish for sites. He allowed the impression to go abroad that he was without a battleground, when, as a matter of fact, he had settled on some place in Ohio. He was thinking of his friend, Jim Cox, and knew he wouldn't be hampered from a governor's chair, as he had been in California when he tried to drop Jeffries and Johnson into the Golden State.

CUMBERLAND'S "BOOM"

John Snyder, who claimed he knew every big bug in the state of Maryland, came to New York with a group of business men, the mayor, chief of police, governor's secretary, politicians and hotel men of Cumberland. Snyder had a bankroll to advertise his town and he lavished good food and expensive wines on everyone who might help him to bring Willard and Dempsey into Cumberland. He offered to build the arena and foot a lot of the expenses if Tex only would smile on the famous old city.

Tex kidded him along and kept Snyder and his committee doing gavottes all over New York. And it was the same with every other battleground booster who came his way. Tex was making the fight site the big bone of contention. Dozens of places began to bid for the fight. Business wasn't any too good and there was need of something to bolster up trade as only a heavyweight championship can do it.

With a cold eye on Toledo as his site, Tex threw everybody off the scent by continually talking about Salt Lake City, New Orleans, Reno, Boston, Chicago and other points.

He told the newspaper men that George Wingfield had rounded up a syndicate to bring the battle into Montreal. This fired national pride in civic centers of the United States, and the Salt Lake crowd sent an offer of $100,000, the amount to be laid in Rickard's lap if he'd drop in there with his show. At least, that is the story Tex told the sports pages, and reams were written about it.

TEX GETS OFFERS

A bunch of the oil well boys down in Oklahoma began to whoop it up and invited Tex to come in with the shindig; they'd stake him to plenty.

Tex made it a game of hide-and-seek, tag or the hidden card. He brought his close friends among the scribes up to the boiling point. Tex would take them abuse about the mystery of his battle ground for hours at a time and then he'd sneak off and laugh himself red in the face over their growling. He got more and more space as these writers tried to solve the puzzle of the battle site. You would have sworn that George Washington and Napoleon Bonaparte had been matched to have it out in a hidden valley.

Tex enjoyed the bellowing over the site, and, when he decided that the fun had gone far enough he suddenly called them all in and named Toledo, O., as the place where the ring would be pitched. It was a great railroad center and Tex was won over by this fact. None had guessed it, and few believed Tex even after he had made the place known.

TOLEDO THE SITE

But Toledo was the location, and no mistake. Tex had enjoyed a million dollars' worth of free publicity all over the country while holding out on the writers. Rickard went to Toledo at once.

Tex engaged a number of rooms in the Secor Hotel and opened up press headquarters. He leased a store in the business section of the town, knocked down the middle wall and turned it into his ticket headquarters.

Then, as a gesture toward the writers, he rented a beautiful mansion, hired a chef and a household staff, and installed as many writers as the place would accommodate. It became Toledo's first and only madhouse.

Prohibition had begun to fasten its talons into the lides of a free people, so Tex thought it well to put in a stock of the best wines, liquors, ale and beer that the country afforded before the shutters went up for good. "Repeal" was an unknown word just then, later to be dug up.

Tex sent his court jester, Walter Fields, to Detroit, to buy the supply with the first $10,000 that came in for tickets.

Dawson Eliminated In Houston Event

HOUSTON, Tex., Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Johnny Dawson, of Chicago, the defending champion, yesterday fell before 18-year-old Reynolds Smith, of Dallas, in the first 36-hole round of championship match play of the Houston annual invitation golf tournament. Dawson was shoved out of further competition, 5 and 3, and at one time was 8 down.

Johnny Goodman, of Omaha, former trans-Mississippi champion, crushed Allen Kyne, of Houston, 12 and 77. Leonard Attwell, of Houston, turned a somewhat surprising trick in eliminating John De Forest, Surrey, England, 1 up, 37 holes. The other qualifiers:

Clarence Mason, St. Louis, medalist, defeated Clyde Cunningham, Houston, 4 and 3.

W. C. Hunt, Houston state champion, beat Howard Creel, Houston, 3 and 2.

Jesse Carlin, Houston, downed Gaston Peck, Galveston, 1 up.

The Tipoff

More high school coaches than have attended a Duquesne game all year were on hand last night. Included in the list were a number who will be factors in the coming W. P. I. A. L. tournament or who have been big factors in some of the hectic sectional campaigns.

Among those present were Ray Carney, Homestead; Ed Hoke, S proposed schedule as far into the future as possible.

Explain Differences

A telegram sent by the British secretary of state for Foreign Affairs April 8, 1918 to Lord Reading, British ambassador at Washington, said:

"It is evident from the brief account of the conversation that Gen. Pershing's views are absolutely inconsistent with the broad policy which we believe the President has accepted. The main difference, of course, is that we interpret it as meaning that 480,000 infantry and machine guns are to be brigaded with French and British troops in the course of four months. Gen. Pershing admits no such obligation and does not conceal the fact that he disapproves of the policy.

"A second and minor difference is that, while the British government quite agrees as to the propriety of ultimately withdrawing American troops brigaded with the French and British so as to form an American Army, they do not think this process could or ought to be attempted until the end of the season for active operations this year draws to its close, say in October or November.

"I am unwilling to embarrass the President, who has shown such a firm grasp of the situation, with criticisms of his officers. But the difference of opinion ... is so fundamental and touches so nearly the issues of the whole war that we are bound to have the matter cleared up."

At M. Clemenceau's suggestion the meeting of the Council was adjourned at this point that Foch, Lord Milner and I might meet and examine the question, and see if some agreement could not be reached. Whereupon we repaired to an adjacent room and went over the whole subject again.

Points Out Objections

My proposal was more liberal than the circumstances or my own views on the subject really warranted. It conceded priority for a limited number of the infantry and machine gun units but, generally, it contemplated the shipment of artillery for divisions and corps, and railway troops, mechanics and labor troops for the service of the rear, all of which were badly needed.

It was the distinct understanding, however, as already promised by Foch, that if we would consent to make the concession as to infantry and machine gun units the French would help us out with artillery when the time came to form an American army. But of course they could not furnish men for other services nor for the services of supply, without which we could not function as an army.

When we met, Milner and especially Foch insisted that the war would be lost unless their program was carried out. I repeated the arguments already presented to the council and added that I fully realized the military emergency, but did not think that the plan to bring over untrained units to fight under British and French commands would either relieve the situation or end the war.

I pointed out that regardless of the depressing conditions and the very urgent need of men by the Allies, their plan was not practicable and that even if sound in principle there was not time enough to prepare our men as individuals for efficient service under a new system, with the strange surroundings to be found in a foreign army.

Willing to Take Risk

The very lowest limit ever thought of for training recruits under the most favorable circumstances even for trench warfare had been nine weeks devoted to strenuous work, and counting out the time that would be consumed in travel, the untrained arrivals could not be ready before August, when their own trained drafts would become available.

Here Foch said: "You are willing to risk our being driven back to the Loire?"

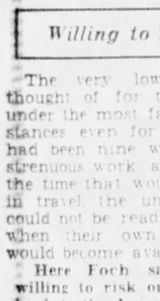
I said: "Yes, I am willing to take the risk.

"Moreover, the time may come when the American Army will have to stand the brunt of this war, and it is not wise to fritter away our resources in this manner. The morale of the British, French and Italian armies is low, while, as you know, that of the American army is very high, and it would be a grave mistake to give up the idea of building an American army in all its details as rapidly as possible."

Then Foch again said that the war might be over before we were ready.

I said that the war could not, in my opinion, be saved by the plan he had suggested, but that we must build up an American army, and concessions for the time being to meet the present emergency were all that I would consent to.

At about this juncture, Mr. Lloyd George, M. Clemenceau and Premier Orlando, of Italy, evidently becoming impatient, walked into the room. Milner met Lloyd George at the door and said in a stage whisper behind his hand: "You can't budge him an inch." Lloyd George then said: "Well, how is the committee getting along?"



Premier Orlando

Whereupon we all sat down, and Lloyd George said to me: "Can't you see that the war will be lost unless we get this support," which statement was echoed in turn by Clemenceau and Orlando. In fact, all five of the party attacked me with all the force and prestige of their high positions.

Refuses to Be Coerced

But I had already yielded to their demands as far as possible without disrupting the plans toward which we had been striving for over a year, and a continuance of May shipments into June, without any provision for transporting artillery and auxiliary and service of supply troops could not be granted without making it practically impossible in the future to have an American army.

After I had gone over the whole situation again and stated my position, they still insisted, whereupon I struck the table with my fist and said with the greatest possible emphasis: "Gentlemen, I have thought this program over very deliberately and will not be coerced."

This ended the discussion in committee and when the Council reconvened M. Clemenceau stated that the question of American troops would be taken up again on the following day.

The Council then examined a number of questions. Among them was that of suppressing divisions in other theaters of the war in order to obtain extra men for the Western Front and save the tonnage required for their supply.

Foch Repeats Arguments

The next question taken up was that of Italian re-enforcements for France. Premier Orlando spoke at some length on the critical situation on the Italian front and how the Austrians were well prepared and were about to attack again and that Italy could not spare any troops for service in France. This brought up the question of Gen. Foch's authority over the Italian Army. Premier Orlando said that the Italian Commander-in-Chief would have to be consulted before Italian troops could be taken as re-enforcements elsewhere.

He failed to recall that it was the prompt action of the French and British in sending troops to Italy after Caporetto that probably saved the Italian Army. However, after further conversation on the following day, he agreed that the Western Front should be considered as extending from the North Sea to the Adriatic, and accepted the principle of unity of command, but he specifically reserved the right of the Italian Commander to appeal to his government if any orders from Foch should be inimical to the general interests of Italy.

When the Council met for the afternoon session of the second day, the discussion of shipments of American personnel was at once resumed.

Gen. Foch spoke at length, repeating previous arguments and giving a rather grandiose dissertation of the Allied situation and the dire things that would happen unless the Americans agreed to the proposal of the council. In his remarks he said:

"I have been selected as commander-in-chief of the Allied armies by the governments of the United States of America, France and Great Britain, and my command has been extended to embrace the Italian army. In that capacity it is impossible at the most perilous stage of the great battle of the war not to give expression to my views on the question of disposal of American troops.

"That is why, feeling the very heavy responsibility that rests upon me, at the time when the greatest German offensive is now threatening Paris and our communications with Great Britain through Calais and Boulogne, I expressly insist on each of the governments taking, in its turn, its portion of responsibility."

Counts on Americans

In rather a dramatic way he went on to say that he thought it absolutely necessary that 120,000, or more, if tonnage permitted, American infantrymen and machine gunners should reach France monthly, by right of priority, at least during May, June and July.

Losses of the French and British had been greater, he said, than in any previous offensive of the war and could not be replaced, while on the other hand, he asserted, Germany could furnish 500,000 to 600,000 replacements for her armies and he most earnestly requested the council to submit a statement to President Wilson on the subject.

He fully appreciated my remarks, he said, but the situation would not warrant any delay, as the greatest of German armies was making the most determined offensive of the war against Amiens and Ypres, and the issue of the war itself might depend upon the success of the enemy before either of these objectives.

Mr. Lloyd George in turn spoke at some length. He asserted that the Germans hoped to use up the British and French reserves before their own were exhausted and that the British had already called up nearly 7,000,000 men for their army and navy and had extended their age limits to all men between 18 and 50 years of age.

"If the United States does not come to our aid," he said, "then perhaps the enemy's calculations will be correct. If France and Great Britain should have to yield, this defeat would be honorable, for they would have fought to their last man, while the United States would have to stop without having put into line more men than little Belgium."

Possibly realizing the unfairness of the comparison, he quickly went on to say that he was sure I was doing my best to meet the emergency, and that

"Gen. Pershing desires that the aid brought to us by America should not be incompatible with the creation of an American Army as rapidly as possible.

"I, too, am counting on the existence of that army, and I am counting on it this very year, to deal the enemy the final blow. But to do that the Allies will have to hold out until August."

P. O. BUILDING PLANS HERE

Drawings and specifications for the foundation of Pittsburgh's new federal building were received yesterday by Frederick Marshall, secretary of the special Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce federal building committee.

Marshall said he expects to get the plans and specifications for the rest of the building later.

Westinghouse Begins $1,000,000 Shipment

The first shipments of a million dollar order for water wheel generators to be used in the new Bagnell Dam project on the Osage River, Missouri, are being made this week from the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company plant in East Pittsburgh for the Union Electric Light and Power Company. The six generators are of the so-called outdoor type and will be built into the foundation of the spillway.

5 Pittsburgh Boys Held in Auto Theft

Five Pittsburgh boys, all under 16, arrested in an automobile said to have been stolen from George Kramer, of Valencia, were being held in East Liverpool, O., pending arrival of city detectives today.

Kramer's automobile was stolen two days ago while parked in the downtown. Because of their youth, the Sun-Telegraph will not publish the names of the boys.

Haven't We All?

Mickey Neilan was listening to a group at Miss Gahnun's again. The topic was the rise and come-down of so many chinema stars.

Ouch!

The rebukes and rebuffs come in bunches for most people on Broadway. Some of the conceited ones, however, have all that they get coming to them.

Take the big-headed playwright for example. He was boasting at a party the other 2:36 a. m.

"Yes," he sighed to a bored listener, "my plays will be read when Shakespeare and Galsworthy are forgotten."

"Quiteso," was the crusher, "but not before."

Delicious Reporting I Wish I Had Written

"PORT JERVIS, N. Y., Feb. 14: Flo Bonnelli, 21, appeared before Police Judge Middleton, charged with giving an exhibition dance in a roadhouse last night while attired only in shoes, stockings and a diamond ring. Miss Bonnelli, muffled in a fur coat, pleaded not guilty.

"Aroused by this response, the state trooper who had arrested her and obtained the coat for her, dared her to open it and show the judge her costume. The girl accepted the challenge.

"Judge Middleton took one look.

The Last Laugh

The mail brings this report from Florida. One of the more exclusive rendezvous at Palm Beach refuses to drop its velvet cord for certain people.

One stage favorite made up his mind to crash the snooty gate. He stuck an aigrette in his companion's hair, told her to wear long white gloves with her evening gown, and to juggle her lorgnette when she paraded in.

The society columns next morning announced that among others who attended the affair were the Count and Countess Boris de Minnevitchkey, of Poland.

The pretenders were a girl whose tag doesn't matter and the lad was the harmonica headliner, Borrah Minnevitch.

The Retort Grand

Not all the movie folk on the West Coast are publicity-crazy. One newcomer to Hollywood, for instance, was on the verge of wilting because of a newspaperman's questioning, which seemed endless.

"Well," sighed the interviewer, "since you do not appear to be willing to tell me things about yourself, perhaps you can tell me something of your parents that might be amusing?"

"You betch," was the eager reply, "they are still living—together!"

Incidentally

Which reminds the Palace press department about its headliner, Beatrice Lillie, who is just as flip with a quip off stage as she is on.

"I beg your pardon," he said, as he walked by her side, "you aren't passing me up, are you?"

"Who are you?" frowned Bea.

"Don't you know me?" he cried. "Me?—didn't you read about me in today's newspaper?"

"Verrah sorreh," snapped Lillie, "I never read the death notices!"

Expose

The so-called best-seller list, that is sent out to newspapers each week, take it from One Who Used To Make Them Up, is "supposed" to be an accurate barometer of sales. The fact of the matter is that many tomes are placed there by managers of book-selling firms by pressure from publishers.

Which is another reason why the longer I live and the more disillusioned I am, the more easily am I convinced that the World War was staged so that the movie people should get some good shots.

CORPORATIONS USE HIDDEN RESOURCES

Annual Reports Indicate Accounting Maneuvers to Build Up Profit Showing

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER,
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Recent annual reports indicate that some of the more conservative corporations, which dug storm cellars during the earlier prosperity, took advantage of them last year.

Corporations which in better years hid earnings and assets, in some instances drew upon the hidden resources to build up the profit showing for the year, which was adversely affected by business conditions. These accounting maneuvers consisted in part of tapping for dividends subsidiary corporations, which heretofore have distributed none of their earnings.

Mr. Rukeyser

Companies which followed this practice followed the continental European system of bookkeeping. German companies, for example, regularly hide earnings, reporting as a rule only a little more than enough to cover dividend requirements.

A prime motive overseas is to hide profits from the tax collector. In times of acute depression, European companies draw on hidden reserves which have been tucked away in unseen places. This system is sometimes defended on the ground that it tends to stabilize conditions, but it is my opinion—as expressed in this column before the panic—that the policy of hiding earnings and assets gives a mystery element to stocks, which promotes ignorant and exaggerated speculation, and which increases the violence of price swings.

Where company statements do not reveal the authentic situation, insiders have an advantage over all other stockholders in being alone privy to the secrets.

Incidentally, some of the bank affiliates were launched partly as repositories for hidden resources.

Tank Wagon Gas Cut By S. O. of New York

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—The Standard Oil Company of New York has made a reduction of 1 cent a gallon in tank wagon prices of gasoline throughout its territory in New York and New England. No change is made in the service station prices.

Texas and Gulf met the cut.

The effect of the cut is to narrow the spread to dealers and is to meet the situation caused by undercutting of prices in some quarters. The tank wagon cut follows a recent increase in the tank car bulk price.

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—After moving quietly forward in expanded activity in the previous session, bond trading suffered a relapse today, and the dullness was evident in the hesitancy displayed by investment obligations.

STOCK MARKET REACHES 1931 HIGH MARK

Some Shares Advance 3 To 10 Points—Morning Trading Volume Huge

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—Bulls prodded the stock market further into new high ground for 1931 today, but progress was somewhat labored.

Trading was in huge volume for a time during the morning and some of the more responsive issues were pushed up 3 to nearly 10 points. As the market will be closed for Washington's birthday on Monday, however, many traders were inclined to trim down their holdings in preparation for the extended week-end and pools were forced to take a large volume of offerings. Few of the so-called pivotal shares gained more than a point or so, and pressure against United States Steel was a little discouraging.

As in all advancing markets, the last fortnight has witnessed an active resumption of activity by merger rumor mongers. The vigorous bidding up of rivers has been accompanied by brokerage gossip that it might be taken over by United States Steel, but the rumor was characterized as baseless by United States Steel officials today. Strength of Radio brought out fresh discussion of the prospect of acquisition of Columbia Graphaphone by Radio's British subsidiary, His Master's Voice Gramaphone. Such a combination has been considered at various times for years, but while official comment is now lacking, Wall street believes negotiations have been resumed.

The week-end business reviews were somewhat more cheerful than they have been of late. The Annalist regarded as significant the clearly marked upturn in the volume of building contracts let, as reported for the first 11 business days of the month. After a rather disappointing January, building has shown a better than normal increase in the early days of February. The sustained improvement in the cotton industry, which led the recovery after the 1921 depression, was also indicated as a possible straw in the wind. Most encouraging of all, perhaps, is the sudden upswing in motor production. Ford has now placed its River Rouge assembly plant on a five-day week, after working on half time since the turn of the year.

The gain of $25,000,000 in weekly brokers loans, the second successive moderate upturn, was encouraging to bulls as indicating increasing public response to their demonstrations. The recent gains in loans have been too moderate to suggest any important weakening of the market structure. In fact, the technical position has probably been improved by the building up of a new short interest at recent high levels. Call money was again available at 1 per cent in the outside market.

New York City Bond Sale Date Is Set

New York City's $100,000,000 bond sale will be held March 4 at noon. The coupon rate will be 4½ per cent of the total amount. $60,-Transit Corporate stock $30,000,000

The acquisition marks an exone to 40-year serial bonds, the bulk of which will be for schools, and $10,000,000 one to 15-year serial bonds for various purposes.

Lake Erie Iron Ore Shipments Decline

Recovers History Lost for 150 Years

AUSTIN, Tex.—(INS.)—A history of Texas, written earlier than 1780 by Father Merfi, a Franciscan priest of the eighteenth century, while in a cell, and which disappeared more than 150 years ago, was discovered recently by Carlos E. Castaneda, Latin-American librarian of the University of Texas.

American Brass Advances Prices

New York Mart To Observe Holiday

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Wall street was preparing today for a long week-end. Following the custom when a holiday falls on Sunday, the Washington Birthday holiday this year will be observed next Monday and will result in a two-day holiday for the financial community. At the close of business tomorrow, activities will be at a standstill until Tuesday morning.

LESS RESERVE CREDIT OUT

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—(AP.)—The daily average volume of Federal Reserve Bank credit outstanding during the week ending February 18, as reported by the Federal Reserve banks, was $940,000,000, a decrease of $8,000,000 compared with the preceding week and of $342,000,000 compared with the corresponding week in 1930.

The Federal Reserve Board reported that on February 18 total reserve bank credit amounted to $905,000,000, a decrease of $24,000,000 for the week. This decrease corresponds with a decrease of $34,000,000 in money in circulation and an increase of $10,000,000 in monetary gold stock, offset in part by an increase of $18,000,000 in member bank reserve balances and a decrease of $4,000,000 in treasury currency.

Holdings of discounted bills declined $14,000,000 at the Federal Reserve Bank of New York, $3,000,000 each at Cleveland and Kansas City and $22,000,000 at all Federal Reserve banks during the week.

The system's holdings of bills bought in open market increased $6,000,000 and of treasury notes $4,000,000 while holdings of treasury certificates and bills declined $13,000,000 and of United States bonds $2,000,000.

Auto Installment Sales Off in 1930

WASHINGTON, Feb. 20.—Automobiles sold on installment last year were estimated by the Commerce Department to have numbered 2,995,622, and to have entailed a credit extension during the year of $1,220,965,000.

The previous year installment sales reported to the department involved 3,559,829 cars and $1,622,768,000. The 1930 installment sales, however, exceeded materially the like business volume of 1928, when 2,469,658 cars were sold on time with credit advanced of $1,196,544,000.

Claims Heads Blamable For R. R. Troubles

By B. C. FORBES

ARE OUR railroads themselves to blame for some of their troubles? Are our latest economy moves to supply the personal touch in doing business with shippers? Where there had a transportation problem to solve were they unresponsive to the human touch of customers?

Mr. Forbes

Are railway executives granted too little authority to meet problems arising within their bailwicks? Are the principal executives too busy to bother with little local situations?

Has the indifference at headquarters and the widespread dissatisfaction among shippers had much to do with the growing tendency to turn to motor transportation facilities?

AMERICA'S RAILWAY managers recently decided to take their case to the court of public opinion. They have put forth the contention that they have not been given a square deal from regulating bodies. They doubt whether the public grasps the fundamental fact that railroads are really the essential and indispensable backbone of our national transportation.

Frankly, my own experience which may or may not be typical, during recent years has been that railway officials are extremely wide-awake salesmen that they are constantly on their toes to hook business. Large shippers have frequently told me the same thing.

L. L. LAYTON, Jr., member of an Eastern distributing concern, after a few complimentary expressions says in part:

"Trucks have been gradually drawing business away from the railroads, and much of it seems to be the fault of some of the operating officials. A great corporation seems to grow into a machine, with thousands of cogs which lack the human touch. Each wheel does his own work and can do no more, and the individual problems are too small for the heads of the corporations to bother with. But these little troubles, multiplied thousands of times, can be seen in the annual operating statement, even by the president.

"In a town about 15 years ago all would be brought in a day loaded on the cars. Although it commanded a much higher price if it reached the city market at once, those cars were allowed to remain on the siding 12 hours or more until the following day. This supreme indifference brought its own reward: the bulk of the business to nearby cities is now hauled by trucks.

"We have several small shipments a week coming from a point about 250 miles away. Railroad shipments will take from three to six days and sometimes longer. Sometimes by sending a truck 30 miles to a transfer station, in two hours we would have the goods instead of waiting two days.

"We are now offered a service which will give us goods, which now take from three to six days in transit, in not more than 48 hours and some times only 24 hours. We will not make any change at present, but will try to get better service by rail. Yet the ones who would like to improve the service do not have the authority and the ones who have the authority can't be bothered with such small matters.

"TRUCKS NOW get so much business that in some states the license fees and gasoline taxes are sufficient to pay the total costs of concrete roads and their upkeep, so it can no longer be said that the railroads are subsidizing their chief competitor in all states. To make matters worse, the loss of both passenger and freight business is making it even more difficult for the railroads to hold their present business, let alone regain some of what they have lost.

"Whether intentionally or not, the present railroad policy, of giving the best service at points where there is plenty of competition, is drawing to those points business which will have to be shared with others and is taking away from other points business which the railroad would get 100 per cent.

"I believe that prosperity of the railroads is essential to national prosperity. I think we are all suffering from the handicaps imposed by the I. C. C.; but I do think these handicaps are a result of a shortsighted and selfish railroad policy in the past, and unless the railroad officials take a broader-minded view of their relations with their small patrons, both the railroad companies and the public will suffer in the future."

WHAT HAVE some of our railway managers to says to that?

Brief Trusts Appeal To Speculators

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

SHORT TERM TRUSTS are the latest arrivals in the fixed investment trust fold. Only a few have been placed on the market and, up to the present time, they have not received such widespread notice as the other types of trusts. Their appeal is confined to speculators rather than to investors but they represent such a novel application of the principals of diversification that they are worthy of attention.

Their organization closely parallels that of the more common fixed trusts except in a few particulars. Instead of being planned for an existence of 10 years, 20 years or some longer period, the short term trusts are to be liquidated in from two to four years. They have been formed on the theory that a bull market for common stocks will be started within a short time. While the buyer of individual stocks might pick an organization which would not share in the general upward trend of stock prices, the owner of a large number of stocks of outstanding companies is certain of a profit if an advance should develop.

The short term of existence has been selected so that the owners of the shares will be likely to have their money returned before the expiration of the next bull market.

Same Advantages Offered

THE OTHER TYPES of fixed trusts offer most of the advantages of the short term or enhancement type of trusts. They also will benefit from the next bull market. If the owner of the shares believes that common stock prices have gone too far he may liquidate his investment and take his profits at any time. The individual's guess about the duration of the next bull market probably will be just as good as any expert's opinion.

The type of securities used in the short term trusts differs to some extent from those of other trusts and this may offer some advantages to the individual who wishes to speculate. The short term trusts hold stocks of good companies but they generally do not have such high ratings as the holdings in the long term portfolios. In selecting stocks, issues have been chosen which have experienced pronounced declines since 1929 and which appear likely to respond substantially to a change in business conditions.

Special Elimination Feature

THE SHORT TERM trusts usually have some special elimination features which are particularly designed to prevent overstaying the market for invidual stocks. These clauses in some cases provide for the optional elimination of any stock which has reached a price of twice its value at a certain time during the break or the mandatary elimination of a stock reaching three times this price.

As a rule provisions are also made for extending the duration of the trusts under certain conditions if the next bull market is slow in getting started or if the enhancement in value is not up to expectations for the allotted time.

The short term trusts usually distribute earnings at semi-annual periods in the same manner as the long term trusts.

Appeal to Speculators

WHILE THE SHORT term trusts undoubtedly have a place and may offer a valuable service to those who must speculate and prefer to guess on the general trend of the stock market rather than on movements of individual stocks, the long term trusts offer almost the same possibilities even though they have been formed from an investment standpoint. In view of their short duration, the cost or load on the short term trusts is likely to be high. This is due to the fact that organization and distribution expenses for a trust to exist two years are nearly as great as those for a trust to exist for 20 years.

On the other hand, the short term trusts have provisions for liquidation of stocks which have had exceptional advances. The stocks selected have been chosen with speculative possibilities in view but whether the selected issues will benefit more in the next bull market than the issues found in long term portfolios is a matter of personal opinion.

NO. 67
AN ORDINANCE—Providing for the registration in the Department of Public Safety of the City of Pittsburgh of the names, firms, corporations and of their agents and representatives selling goods, wares and merchandise, by sample or description, in hotel rooms or other places within the City of Pittsburgh for short periods of time.
SECTION 1. Be it ordained and enacted by the City of Pittsburgh, in Council assembled, and it is hereby ordained and enacted by the authority of the same, That no Mayor and the Director of the Department of Public Safety of the City of Pittsburgh, on forms to be furnished by said Department conformable to the ordinances of the City of Pittsburgh, shall register such registration shall be for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days and may be renewed upon request of the applicant for periods not exceeding thirty (30) days each.
SECTION 2. Any person, firm of corporation violating the provisions of this Ordinance shall, upon conviction thereof before any Police Magistrate or Alderman of the City of Pittsburgh, be subject to a fine of not less than Five Dollars ($5.00) nor more than Fifty Dollars ($50.00), and in default of payment thereof, shall be imprisoned in the Allegheny County Jail for a period not to exceed thirty (30) days each and every such violation shall constitute a separate offense.
SECTION 3. That any Ordinance or part of Ordinance conflicting with the provisions of this Ordinance be and the same is hereby repealed so far as the same affects this Ordinance.
Passed in Council, February 9, 1931.

She hadn't seen anyone eat like that for a long time, she mused, remembering.

Peter, departing, said, low:

"Mr. Travers has come in and is in his room, Mrs. Lorrimer."

Explains Son's Trouble

Mrs. Lorrimer nodded and that was all, but again Mary Lou saw the shadow pass over the tired, fascinating face.

After a moment Mrs. Lorrimer crushed out her cigaret and set down her cup.

"I haven't explained to you, really," she said, slowly. "This—what was his name . . . ? Larry Mitchell? of whom you spoke . . . I wonder if we could persuade him to come see me and perhaps give up his work for a time? He sounds just the type which Travers—which we all need. You see, at the beginning of the war, when my son was very young, he enlisted in the Royal Flying Corps. He got across and made a great career for himself. He saw much service but was finally shot down and was for some time in a prison camp. That—and another sad experience, sent him home to me very unlike himself. He—he hasn't anything organically wrong, he is simply listless, interested in nothing, unhappy, a recluse. He has also had a lapse of memory, a species of shell shock, I suppose. Not so much that perhaps as —" she broke off and looked into Mary Lou's pitying eyes. "Well, it doesn't matter, he's just ill and discouraged. And the doctor felt that if he had an adaptable companion, one who would interest him in life again—"

She broke off once more and her face fell into very haggard and unhappy lines. Mary Lou, who already loved her, was sorrier for her than she had ever been for anyone in all her short life.

"Would Mr. Mitchell, perhaps, consider the position?" asked Mrs. Lorrimer, again.

Mary Lou shook her head regretfully.

"I'm afraid not. He's terribly wrapped up in the newspaper game. And of course he has the great American novel and the next Pulitzer Prize play tucked away in his desk!" She simply couldn't imagine Larry as a companion to war-wreckage, to what was probably a neurotic young man, worse than Aunt Adelaide! "No, I'm afraid not," she repeated.

"Well, perhaps someone will come who will be just what I want," Mrs. Lorrimer said, after a moment, "and—" she looked at Mary Lou a moment and then turning to her desk, wrote rapidly on a correspondence card, slipped it in an envelope, and addressed it.

Meets Young Lorrimer

"Take this," she added, "to Sarah Manly at the address I've written. She heads a rather unusual agency and is a great friend of mine . . . I am perfectly sure she will find something for you. She will do her best, I know."

Mary Lou took the envelope and looked up gratefully.

"I do thank you so much," she said, and confessed, further, "I think I would be very stupid about looking for a place myself. I am so conscious that I haven't any marketable talents really. That is why the fatal advertisement seemed to me to fit so perfectly. I mean, I could do the things it asked, could even be them, if I tried hard enough!" she explained, laughing.

"I'm sure—" began Mrs. Lorrimer smiling, when she stopped at the sound of the door opening, a step, and a voice.

"Peter said you were in here—has your guest gone, Mother? Oh, I beg your pardon!" said the voice.

A tall, thin young man had lounged into the room and now stood quite still, seeing only the back of Mary Lou's head, she had put on her hat again. "I beg your pardon," the voice repeated, a deep voice but without warmth, without color, a voice utterly lifeless.

"Come here a moment, Travers," said his mother, a little anxiously. Travers hated meeting new people. But he couldn't mind Mary Lou.

He came forward and Mrs. Lorrimer started her introductions.

"My son, Miss—"

Mistaken Identity

But she got no further. The amazing, the appalling thing had happened. Mary Lou had only time to get a lightning-like glimpse of the man. She saw, in that brief moment, the handsomest and, at the same time, the most disappointing face she had ever beheld, straight fine features but features like the voice, without color or warmth or light; a splendidly shaped head, thick, lusterless dark hair; a great frame, stoop-shouldered, far too slender for the build, a clear but sallow skin and dark eyes, deeply shadowed.

But as he had advanced toward her, saw her full face for the first time a shout broke from him. His face grew years younger, the shoulders straightened, a tide of color flushed his cheeks to his broad forehead.

"Delight!" he exclaimed on a gasp of pure astonishment. "Mother why didn't you tell me? Darling, darling, darling, you've come back to me. Oh, thank God, thank God!"

Mary Lou felt herself caught up in a strong embrace and held close, closer to that rapidly beating heart. She felt the man's hands on her amazed head, plucking off the little hat, flinging it to the floor. "You've cut your hair," he said, reproachfully, "your lovely hair! but never mind, you've come back to me. Why didn't you write? Why haven't you come before. . .why. . .why?"

"Of course, it's been a mistake . . . But it's all over now . . ." he said.

For a moment he loosened his clasp and held her at arm's length. Mary Lou was too frightened to speak. Was he—he must be—mad! She looked imploringly at Mrs. Lorrimer.

"Don't cry, dearest," he said. "I . . . I didn't mean to reproach you. Perhaps you couldn't come before. You'll tell me all about it. Not now. I don't need anything now," he said, low, "except to know that I have you back, that we are together again, that you are safe and my own." He put his arms about her and looked at her. Then some terrible anxiety seemed to cloud his sudden unnatural radiance.

"Why don't you speak to me?" he demanded frantically and began to shake all over. "Don't you care for me any more . . . ? What is it . . . ? Tell me?" he begged desperately, still with that dreadful trembling, "tell me . . . my wife!"

For the Larger Woman
Pattern 1977
Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph 15c Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

You will find it extremely easy to slenderize the appearance of your figure if you will wear frocks designed especially for you. For example, the model shown today has a softly flared collar pointing to a pert bow, covering the full bust. The skirt flare is attached in a downward point well below the snug hipline. Tucks at the waist do away with a belt—giving height and so detracting from width. Sleeve flares make the arm seem more slender. Pattern 1977 makes up beautifully in georgette, flat crepe, triple voile, etc.

May be obtained only in sizes 36, 38, 40, 42, 44 and 46. Size 36 requires 3½ yards of 39-inch material.

Send FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins or stamps (coins preferred) for each pattern. Write plainly your name, address and style number. BE SURE TO STATE SIZE WANTED.

DAILY TRUE STORY—'He Gets 'Em'

"Get 'em, Garvin?"

"Okay, Chief," he said, and disappeared with his camera into the dark room.

"Garvin always gets 'em," Thorpe said to his new assistant.

"Always?"

"Just that, and usually a shot or two more than expected. Of course, we don't send him after pictures of the flora and fauna on Mars, but where it is humanly possible to get a picture we count on Garvin to do the trick."

They still recount many a story in the Daily Tattle office of the amazing and devious ways and means adopted by Jim Garvin to get pictures for his paper. One of the most interesting of these stories has to do with his assignment to get a picture of Miss Alicia Marble, heiress to all of the Marble millions.

Miss Marble was 19. She was more carefully guarded than a President or member of royalty, for one may get to see such, while Miss Alicia Marble was kept well out of sight.

Carefully Guarded

Old Maj. Pat Marble, her uncle, was her guardian. His chief aim in life was to enable Alicia to live quietly and undisturbed. He held that the possession of a score or more millions of dollars should not make the possessor a side-show freak, a public personage or anyone different from any other human who was feminine, attractive and 19.

When Miss Marble went abroad, it was incognito, and the chances are that she went veiled aboard ship, at that. She lived many months of the year aboard her own yacht and she also lived at Marbletor, the country estate. Now one could break into all the secret passages of Gibraltar easier than to get within a quarter mile of the Marbletor mansion. There were guards and guards to watch the guards and more guards to guard those who watched the guards. At least, that is the gist of the report that every newspaper writer and photographer brought back to their offices.

One day Jim Garvin appeared in the vicinity of Marbletor. He had on his back a case used by entomologists. He had a butterfly net in his hand. For many days he chased butterflies and by night he lured moths by flashlight. Meanwhile he kept his eyes wide open. Several of the guards about the estate got a laugh out of the "nut" who chased butterflies and crawled about for beetles and danced with joy when he got a good specimen.

What Jim Garvin learned was encouraging. There was a place in a hollow where Lombardy poplars grew outside close to the high brick wall, and by climbing one of these poplars he could get a good view inside the yard.

Then one forenoon as he climbed up to his favorite place, he saw a young lady almost beneath him. He took three pictures of her. Then he decided that he might get an interview, posing as a harmless entomologist.

Meets Secretary

"Good morning, Miss Marble," he called down.

The girl looked up at him without surprise.

"I wish to goodness I were Miss Marble," she said, "and how is the bug business with you?"

"Oh, you aren't Miss Marble? Say, could I sneak down and have a talk with you?"

"If you're careful—this is one place where the guards cannot see us. I'd lose my position if I were seen talking to anyone from the outside."

"What is your position?" he asked.

"A sort of secretary and librarian to Miss Marble, and I am getting awfully tired of it."

"Look here, how would you like to make some money?" He named a nice alluring sum. The girl admitted that she would be able to use that amount. She told him, when asked, that she was Miss May Daleson and he promptly confessed that he was Jim Garvin, that he scarcely knew a butterfly from a heliamite, and that his job was taking pictures for the Daily Tattle.

"That's perfectly wonderful. I think you men live the happiest lives — always excitement and achievement—" and so on at some length.

"Now, listen, Miss Daleson, if you will get Miss Marble out here so I can get a picture of her, I'll guarantee the money and I'll guarantee that the paper finds you a better position in the city. You are too beautiful to hide yourself out on a job like this."

"Come back tonight and I'll let you know how I get along with it."

She met him as she agreed. It seemed that it might take some days before she could get Miss Marble out there. She told him her plans, the excuse she would have, and he agreed that it would work. Then they talked about themselves. They were calling each other Jim and May before he left.

Five more days passed. They became more friendly than ever.

Then Miss Daleson excitedly reported that on the next day she would bring Miss Marble down that path and stop there long enough for him, from his place in the trees, to get his picture.

It worked beautifully. May appeared and Miss Marble was wearing one of the most alluring morning frocks Garvin had ever seen. He got two snaps at her.

That night he wired to Thorpe on the Daily Tattle the two words—"Got it." Then he went to see May Daleson.

He was worried, for she was somewhat late, but finally she came.

"Look here, May—you'll get the devil and all as soon as the pictures of Miss Marble are out. Why not avoid it by coming with me now?"

"Why, Jim—as if I would—how would it look?"

"What I'm getting at is this: I want to marry you. I pull down good money and I got enough saved to fit up a swell little apartment. Honestly, I mean it—I'm crazy about you."

"Jim, I believe you. Have your car ready at 10 tomorrow and I'll sneak out this way and meet you," she said.

She said a lot more. So did he.

Story Verified

She met him the next day and they drove for many miles to a country town.

"This is my home town," Garvin said. "We'll be married here."

"Jim—would you be mad if I had lied to you?"

"You're not the sort to lie," he declared.

"I—I did. I'm not May Daleson. It was May Daleson you photographed in one of my dresses—"

"One of your dresses? You've been kidding me—you're Alicia Marble?"

"Oh, Jim, I loved you at sight and I'm sick of being cooped up and I want to be Mrs. Jim Garvin and I'm old enough to marry without anyone's consent!"

Just as soon as they were married Jim telephoned Thorpe. He explained about the first three pictures being right. The two he had mailed the day after were the wrong ones, he said.

"Are you sure? How do you know?" Thorpe demanded.

"Because I have just married her," Garvin announced.

And when some of Thorpe's reporters verified this, all he said was, "Garvin gets 'em—even if he has to marry 'em."

A Fair Settlement

City's Claim Against the American Reduction Company Is Adjusted on Favorable Terms.

Thanks to the energy and alertness displayed by Henry Oliver Evans during his brief term as city controller, the city stands to gain nearly half a million dollars that it might not have received if Mr. Evans had not been on the job.

His is the credit for the adjustment of the city's claim against the American Reduction Company on terms favorable to the city. Agreement has been reached that the company is to pay $481,338 in settlement of the municipality's demands.

That is considerably less than the city originally claimed, but Mr. Evans and City Solicitor Waldschmidt are satisfied with the fairness of the settlement, and the people will not question their judgment in this matter.

The company overcharged the city, under the cost plus system of removing garbage, by charging to operating expenses such items as dinners for politicians, tickets for baseball games, membership dues in the Duquesne Club, a radio set, plant replacements and rent.

It is a fine thing for civic virtue that the trickery was exposed and the company forced to make at least partial restitution.

Pittsburgh's Agriculture

The attention which agriculture in the Pittsburgh district is attracting is rather curious. Perhaps it is due in part to depression in the coal business and some of our other industries which formerly were regarded as our mainstay.

The Chamber of Commerce of the United States reports in a current letter to its members that "agriculture is big business in the Pittsburgh district." Citing the local Chamber of Commerce, the United States Census Bureau and the Pennsylvania Department of Agriculture as its authorities, the National Chamber states that in the Pittsburgh district, "which covers an area greater than the state of Connecticut, there are almost 28,000 farms with a capital investment of $229,000,000 and an annual production valued at $41,000,000."

The annual production could be greatly increased, for our agriculturists are far from having made the most of their resources. Allegheny County was once a great sheep-raising country and excelled in other branches of husbandry in which it is now not conspicuous.

Gifts to the City

Citizens' Thanks Are Due Contributors Who Are Paying for New Municipal Improvements.

The Pittsburgh Plan is working as smoothly and efficiently as a 21-jewel watch.

Already there is a long and imposing list of contributors to the fund out of which wages are to be paid the men given jobs under the plan.

Considerable money is on hand and the work on which it is to be expended is ready. It consists in large part of street and sewer improvements designated by Council.

Under the Pittsburgh Plan the city is receiving important municipal betterments at little or no cost to the taxpayers. The improvements are gifts to the city from the contributors to the fund.

Thanks are due the donors not only from the jobless men who are thus provided an opportunity to earn a living without in any way humiliating themselves, but also from the citizens who are getting street and other improvements without paying for the labor.

Truth About Dope

Pay the price?

What a question.

Of course she paid it, and was eager and glad and grateful to pay it.

At one time when she was working hard in one of her pictures she spent between $1,400 and $1,500 for morphine, and was thankful that she had the money to spend so she could pay for it.

Pay for it—well, if you lay in the burning sun in a lonely desert, you with swollen eyes, and aching heart, and parched tongue—what would you give for a drink of cold, sparkling water?

Everything you had in the world—wouldn't you?

Why not?

Alma Rubens needed that tube of morphine as she never needed food, or drink, or rest, or home, or money, or friends in all her desperate life.

She would have paid $500 a tube for it if she had to do that or go without.

She would have mortgaged her home and sold the warm coat off the back off the devoted mother she loved—rather than to go without that little tube of morphine.

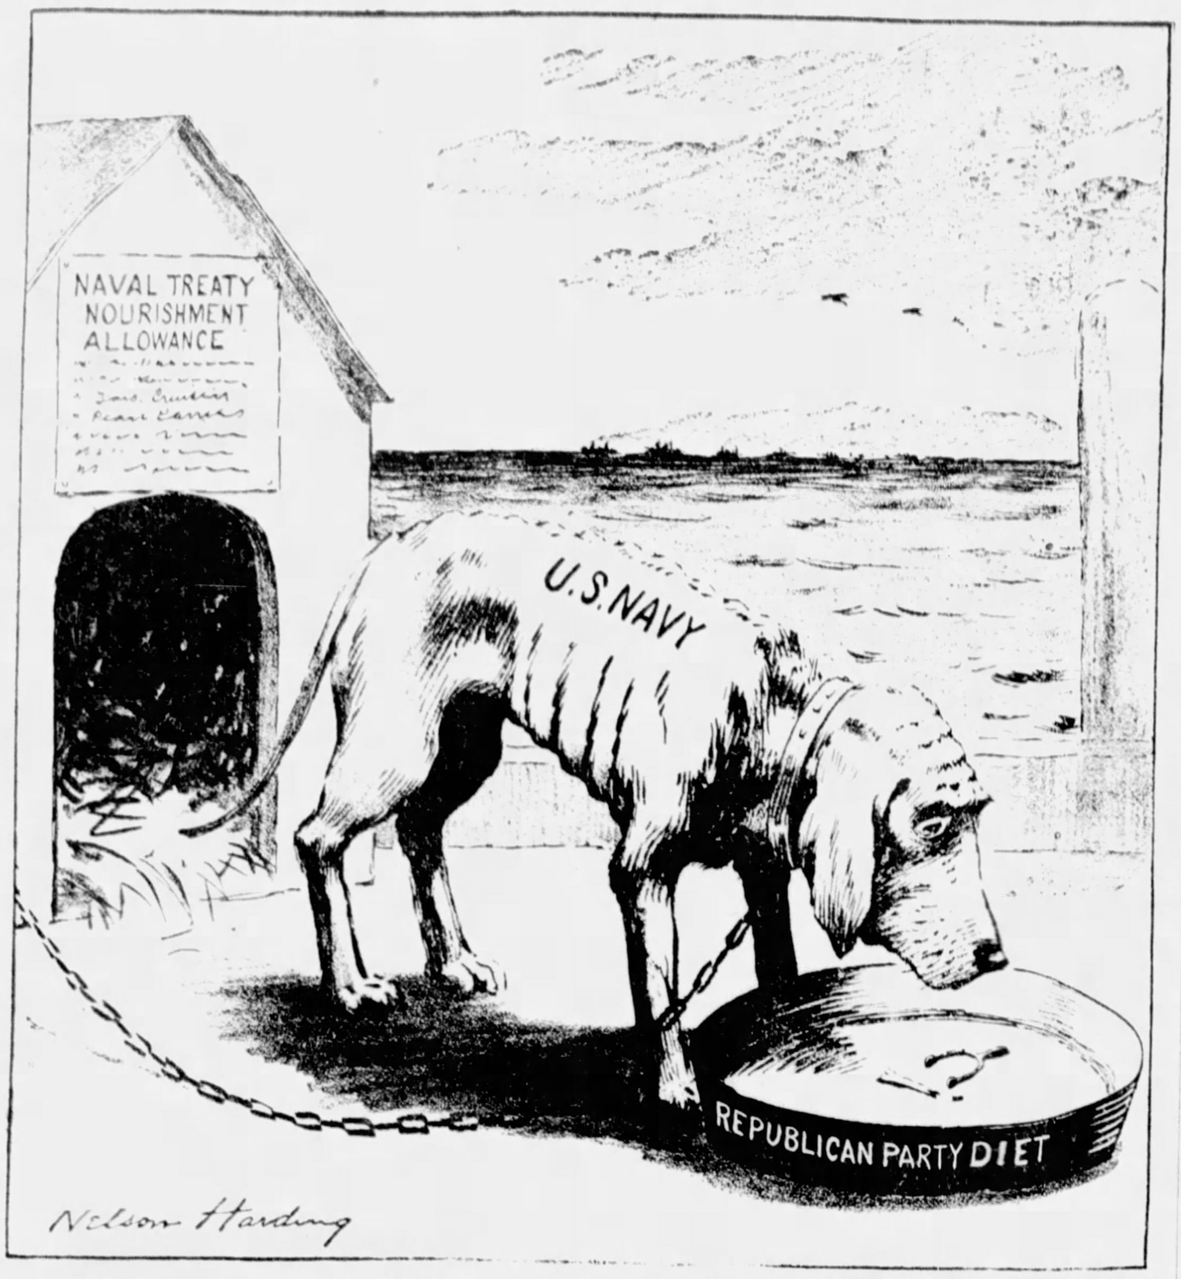
Starving the Watchdog

By Nelson Harding



Good nourishment was ordered for
Our watchdog, yet he's thin and poor;
If starved until he's skin and bones
He's fit for only Davy Jones.

He rates an ample bill of fare
And yet a wishbone is his share.
A watchdog weakened by neglect
Is one intruders don't respect.

Not Much of a Burden

Executive Cites Regulation as Offset to Monopolistic Character of Utility Companies.

By BAINBRIDGE COLBY.

IT is not surprising that the radio speech of Mr. Martin J. Insull, portraying the electric power monopoly in angelic hues, should have called forth hot rejoinders.

Representative LaGuardia, picking up Mr. Insull's statement that denunciations of the power trust were usually made in the Senate or House, where they were protected by congressional privilege, promptly divested himself of this immunity. Standing on the street, outside the House Office Building, and before a small, but we assume attentive, audience, he cited testimony taken before the Federal Trade Commission and roundly denounced the power and electric companies as forming a "vicious association."

Mr. Insull's comment was: "Let him talk. I don't care to get mixed up in anything he might say." His distaste for debate, except in the form of an unanswered radio speech, is perhaps natural.

MR. LAGUARDIA is a formidable antagonist. He has been an effective member of Congress for many years, and was the Republican candidate for the mayoralty of New York in the last election. His voice is too bold to be silenced, and too weighty to be neglected.

The burden of Mr. Insull's apologia for the power combine was that it was unfair to apply to it the term "monopoly" because it had arisen and developed with a certain measure of public acquiesence; that it was, at worst, a "created" monopoly and a REGULATED one, as well.

He did not, however, venture to say that regulation was effective nor that the power companies ever co-operated in any degree to make it so. On the contrary, he ignored the fact, now so clearly discerned, that the utility companies have pursued a steady campaign to emasculate, where they could not frustrate, all regulatory endeavors, undertaken in the public interest.

"WE REGULATE REGULATION" has become the brag of the utility companies, their lobbyists, legal janizaries, agile accountants and obliging experts.

MR. INSULL'S holding company is the Middle West Utilities Company, of which he is the president.

Through its numerous subsidiary companies, it supplies electric light and power in 30 of the United States—the three New England states of Maine, New Hampshire and Vermont, together with the adjoining corner of New York; Kentucky, West Virginia, Virginia, Indiana, Ohio, Wisconsin, Illinois and sections of Michigan, Nebraska, South Dakota, North Dakota, Missouri and Tennessee; large areas of the states of Oklahoma and Texas, the northwestern corner of Louisiana, and sections of Arkansas, Mississippi and Kansas, and the Atlantic coast states of Florida, Georgia, North Carolina, Maryland, Delaware, New Jersey and Pennsylvania.

We have no means of gauging the effectiveness of regulation in all these 30 states. It is interesting, however, to note that the State of Delaware has no public or regulatory commission whatever; that the State of Florida has no regulatory jurisdiction over such subjects as capitalization, issue of securities, valuation for rate making, rates and rate schedules, accounting, annual reports or service.

THE State of Kansas has no jurisdiction over accounting except a limited jurisdiction in cities. The State of Louisiana leaves capitalization, issue of securities, accounting and annual reporting without regulation.

The States of Texas, South Dakota and Mississippi exercise no regulatory jurisdiction; the State of Nebraska none with reference to accounting. The State of North Carolina leaves capitalization, security issues, accounting and annual reports without regulation.

So it would appear that the "regulation" which Mr. Insull emphasizes as an offset to the monopolistic character of his company's activities, is not much of a burden—at least in very large sections of the great territory which his company dominates.

A man likes the woman whom he can understand—and falls in love with the one he can never understand.

When a man begins telling a girl that he admires her for the beauties of her character and her mental charms, she is aware that it is just his delicate little way of explaining that he's not thinking of marrying her.

It's no disgrace to be poor, these days—if you can prove that you lost it in the market. That "lost fortune" is growing in perspective almost as miraculously as "the old plantation" did among the F. F. V's.

No matter how unhappily married a woman may be, she always takes some comfort in the thought that she is not married to any of her friends' husbands.

Isn't It So?

One of life's difficulties is for a man to be a rounder and still keep a level head.

The reason some young couples don't live on a budget is because it's so much easier to live on her old man.

Just about the time a man gets enough money to buy almost anything he wants, he discovers that he doesn't want anything.

Gibbs, the Edison of Theoretical Science

By Archibald Henderson

Within recent years, the opinion has steadily been growing that Josiah Willard Gibbs was the greatest creative genius in theoretical science this country has ever produced. The reason for this very gradual development is the complexity of his work, the difficulty of understanding the symbols and formulas which he developed, and far-ranging scope and generality of his ideals. Einstein has attained universal recognition today as a very great scientist, although comparatively few are capable of understanding his theories. The theories of Gibbs are no less complex than those of Einstein; and universal recognition of his greatness is coming now, a quarter of a century after his death.

Gibbs was one of those extraordinary figures in the history of science who devote their lives indefatigably to the pursuit of scientific investigation and discovery, uninfluenced by considerations of either honor or financial reward. Born in New Haven, Conn., February 11, 1839, he came of a long line of forebears educated at Harvard and Yale. After a brilliant career at Yale, where he received in succession the degrees of Master of Arts and Doctor of Philosophy, he devoted some five years to special graduate work and was finally appointed tutor in Latin and natural philosophy at his alma mater. Finding those labors uncongenial, he left Yale after three years for extended studies in mathematical physics in Paris, Berlin and Heidelberg. It is an almost incredible fact that although he was appointed professor of mathematical physics at Yale in 1871, two years after his return to America, there was no salary attached to the post.

For 10 years he labored unremittingly without any compensation whatever! Even after his services were sought by the newly established Johns Hopkins University, the salary paid him at Yale was quite small. He held his position at Yale, a scholarly recluse, for 32 years, with small material reward and only slowly advancing fame. Today his name is honored highly throughout the entire world.

During his studies abroad, Gibbs was profoundly influenced by classics, one of the founders of the subject of dynamics. The subject of heat and mechanical energy greatly occupies his attention. All these subjects felt the powerful impress of his deeply reflective intelligence.

Entropy, a fertile conception put forward by Clausius, was advanced to the first place in modern physical theory, with the extraordinary fertile consequence of what is commonly known as the Second Law of Thermo-dynamics. Gibbs is rated today as the founder of chemical energetics.

Gibbs' very first paper was a memorable contribution to the subject of thermodynamics, winning the admiration of the famous Clark Maxwell at Cambridge University, England. Gibbs' masterpiece, "On the Equilibrium of Heterogeneous Substances," was epochal in its direct contribution, and in opening up many avenues for future research. It contained more than 700 formulas. Gibbs was highly honored in his lifetime. But the world of science is only just beginning to catch up with this pioneering intelligence of great creative fertility.

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

It's on the bay, with the wind setting fair from the west. An hour ago the old French tramp ship hoisted the Blue Peter from her masthead. She'll be making for sea tonight. For the last few moments, the pier will be covered with scurrying workers, heaving packing cases, casting off lines. Then slowly she'll back to the outer bay with a quiver along her flanks like a thing in leash. Then—three long calls of goodby—and she's off.

Out from the harbor as the sun goes down, away from the bustle and din of the dock, away from the murk and wrack of the sullied, inland tide . . . straight she will head through the clean, salt surf of the outer sea, into the sunset fire. Like a hand uplifted in farewell, she'll poise for an instant on the far horizon line. Then we will see her no more.

But she will go on. She will go on into the starlit paths of the night, into the mystery and silence and far flung power of the waters. White foam of adventure will spangle her bow, steamers of lightning will wreath her rail, in scented harbors she'll drop her hook and rest her tattered sail. Here in the harbor she will dock no more but the troughs of the Seven Seas will part for her plunging keel.

"Blue Peter"—The little blue flag which hangs from the masthead of every ship before she hoists her anchor. Blue Peter, the sign of farewell, the end of the stay in port, the beginning of the foaming trail. Often I think of Blue Peter as old faces pass. Old faces, worn and scarred by the driving winds and the searing suns of life. Gaunt, battered faces, yet still headed, like old ships, for new venturings upon open seas. And like those ships, they hang Blue Peter as a sign of farewell.

Those questing eyes, so dim to all that lies landward, so early set upon a voyage that is yet to come—

Blue Peter flutters! Soon they will be gone.

Out from the harbor as the sun goes down—away from the bustle and din of the docks—away from the murk and wrack of our sullied, earthly tide—straight through the last white barrier of roaring surf, into the sunset fire. Then on—on—into the night. In the place where we saw them, we shall see them no more. But they will go on—by starlit paths, into the mystery and far flung power of the sea—into the wonder and new adventure of the dawn. And the Seven Seas which lie so far from our busy bay will know the tale of their wanderings.

You call it death—and anguish as you see the eyes grow dim?

The Rhyming Optimist

By ALINE MICHAELIS.

The Bronze Diana in the Library

Here at the stairway's foot Diana stands,
Her body arched and taut as is the bow
She holds aloft in slender, clasping hands.
Diana, with her hound against her knee,
Lovely and lithe, athrob with wind-swept grace,
Brings in a breath of woodland mystery
And vital ardor to this shadowed place.

The deathless huntress, strangely wandering
Into these realms Minerva calls her own,
Has made the pallid students' pulses sing
With thoughts of ways her flying feet have known;
Oblivious to the dusk of heavy walls,
Her presence here like vivid sunlight falls.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 20.—Thoughts while strolling: Bird crumb scatterers in St. Patrick's Church yard. And pigeons wheeling overhead. Those cheap jack stores that have seeped into upper Fifth avenue. Chevalier lives at the St. Moritz Hotel. Floyd Gibbons has five secretaries.

John Farrar, a Burlington, Vt. boy, who made good in the city. Big boned Scandinavian women from kitchens who relax in neighborhood movies. Flappers with tiny fluff bail muffs. And those leisurely winking shopping ladies with the calm preparedness of cats.

Chinese laundry sign: Hop Long. The melancholy smell from police stations—lysol and soap. Why are odors more pronounced at night? The Albino doorman in front of a Russian restaurant. Wish I could run across real bouillabaise. Like they serve at Prunierer's.

And now that they have a cigaret that makes you "mouth-happy." The sculptor George Grey Barnard. That gangster who is said to terrorize the underworld looks like a sissy, says he, walking fast. Every year there are fewer banquets. And that's something.

Starched ladies who live in old brown-front boarding houses. And broad their A's. Baird Leonard looks a little like Amy Lowell. A Filipino valet service. Alec Waugh is so British you can hardly understand him. Otto Kahn's avenue home seems gloomy.

Executives in those heavy oaken offices. Pushing buzzers for secretaries who gambol in like spring lambs. Sam Hellman walking across Central Park. Social gypsies who have had their few weeks at Palm Beach and are off for the Riviera.

Rian James, a Brooklyn columnist, who prowls about New York hunting strange and bizarre eating places, has discovered these: A Chinese cafe serving shrimps and pineapples while a Chinese boy reads Keats aloud; Tamarind served by a cross-eyed Hindu in a fez; black radishes, smoked goose liver and gefulte fish while spangled ladies twirl in the Kazatzka; dried herring of Scandinavia; tentacles of octopus, hundreds of years old Edam cheese; East Indian curries and Japanese beef suki yaki. I'd order suki yaki any time just to say it.

A newspaper picture of a crooked cop, caught in the despicable business of framing innocent girls, is recognizable as a former traffic cop. He's the same bird that once yelled when my car got snarled in front of a theater: "Where the hell do you think you are?" If he winds up where I hope I'm aching to skip by his cell and tra-la: "I know where you are, horray, hooray!"

The other morning, visiting a Long Island estate, the host asked if I cared to go through his stables. And it just hit me I had not been in a stable since leaving my forks of the creek. Everything is changed. One approached this stable through a rock garden suggesting a prize mural. Stalls might be rooms at the Ritz, each bearing a brass plate with the name and pedigree of the occupant. There were no leathery or horsey smells. The hostlers wore purple costumes and white canvas gloves. It was so grand I went about tipping my hat to the lady horses.

In his day James Hazen Hyde was one of the conspicuous figures of the operatic, theatrical and sporting world of the town. No one has ever left New York flat so completely. Along the Paris boulevards he has become just as familiar—a true Parisian from his peaked high hat to his high-heeled shoes with fancy colored uppers.

Speaking of fancy uppers, one avenue shop is showing them of Scotch plaid. I pass them wearing blinders. They think up stuff like that for such suckers as myself.
